The following story illustrates one of the many reasons that induced the Burlington railroad to change the system of operating its dining-cars from the fixed price per meal to the a la carte plan, whereby the passenger orders what he wants and pays for what he orders. Under the old plan some travelers had the idea that it was necessary to order a very elaborate meal in order to get the worth of their money, and the hero of this little anecdote was among the number. After seating himself in a Burlington dining car, it is related that he ordered three kinds of soup, with celery, radishes, pickles, two kinds of fish and two varieties of meat. After disposing of this array, the stranger found that he had almost reached the limit of his capacity, but still had an unsatisfied longing for pie. He called a waiter and said in a hoarse whisper, as he pointed to the menu card: "Say, mister, if it ain't agin the rules, I'd like to skip from thar to thar."

Bullocks That Tro?

Attention is drawn in an Agricultural Ledger on the cattle of Rajputana to the "Nagore" and "Rinda" breeds. The "Nagore" bullocks are famous throughout India as magnificent trotting animals, on which account, says the Lahore paper, they are greatly sought after by well-to-do natives, who drive them in ekkas. A good pair will usually command from Rs. 100 to Rs. 150, and the price of a well-matched superior pair is from Rs. 200 to Rs. 400. They are good-tempered and docile, but timid. "Rinda" means small, and cattle of this breed seldom measure more than forty inches in height, whereas Nagore bullocks have been measured up to seventy inches. "Rinda" cattle are used for all kinds of agricultural work, for which purposes they are in great demand by zemindars. They also make very good baggage animals, either in the plains or hills, being short-legged, with hard feet. They are, however, morose, obstinate and bad-tempered, sometimes showing fight when roused, or when approached by Europeans. An average pair may be bought for about Rs. 75. In Beawar and Marwar these breeds are preserved in their purity. In other Rajputana states, like Bikanir, Jajpur and Kotah, no attention is paid to breeding. Important economic benefits might result if the principle of selection could be widely taught to cattle breeders in Rajputana states.—Indian Agriculturist.
