According to the plans of the senior class, a very strong advance sale will be made on the Ivy day program of last year. Committees are now at work and it is very probable that the day will be long remembered by all the students of the university. The custom is a fine one and ought to be observed here in the true old style, and it is safe to say that the seniors will do so.

The mass meeting at convocation tomorrow morning should be attended by every student in the university. Inasmuch as no subscription lists will be passed around, everyone should feel free to be present. The meeting will be for the purpose of promoting college singing in this university, a kind of college spirit which is woefully lacking. Singing by the students in general is so rare a thing in this institution that it is high time some attention was given to the matter. Singing will be in place at any and all times, not only while football is in the minds of the students, but at any college affair. Singing on the campus in the evenings will be the source of much pleasure. Therefore, let every student turn out to the meeting tomorrow morning.

Rev. D. E. Jenkins of the Omaha theological seminary spoke at convocation Monday morning. The subject of his address was on the question of the relation of the church to colleges, universities and seminaries. In the colleges, said the speaker, questions are studied on one side and in the theological schools the other side is studied.

He presented the thought that perhaps God has need of men for the ministry who are now university students. There is a large demand for college bred men in the gospel ministry, said Mr. Jenkins. Those of a rounded and developed character are the ones who are successful. He further emphasized the value of an acquaintance with varied studies and even the value of knowing one modern language, much more the value of being thoroughly familiar with the older languages. It is valuable to study the languages and literature of other peoples because it just so much widens the radius of one's line of thought.

VIKING PARTY.

The Vikings gave a party at Walsh hall last evening. The decorations were in purple and green, the club colors. Scores of Viking pennants, interspersed with the various fraternity pennants, hung from the walls and ceiling of the parlors and dance hall, while the orchestra was hidden behind a bank of ferns.

Lau, Dr. and Mrs. Everett and Professor and Mrs. Barbour.

Petitions have been circulated the past week asking that Mr. Fogg, instructor in the English department and head of the department of debating and public speaking, be retained next year.

One petition is signed by a large number of students in his classes, while the other is signed by students not in his classes, but anxious to have him remain. The move was first started by the university debaters, who feel that Mr. Fogg has done so much for study of debating in the university that he should be retained.

COLLEGE SETTLEMENT.

Remember to make arrangements to hear "A Pair of Spectacles" at the Oliver, May 2. Tickets are now on sale. Hear a good play and help a good cause.

The speaker also enlarged upon the practical value of a more or less thorough knowledge of science and scientific problems in the gospel ministry, and also that of an acquaintance with philosophy and sociology.

H. C. Searles, a student in the civil engineering department, went out with a railway locating party Monday. Mr. Searles will be draughtsman of the party. C. M. Hemmerl, who graduated February, 1901, is transit man for the party.

The Phi Beta Kappa society has secured ex-Chancellor Manatt as its orator for the annual commencement address to be held next June. Mr. Manatt is one of the foremost scholars of the country, being at present professor of Greek at Brown university.

W. M. Kallasch and C. H. Larson, both civil engineering students, have accepted positions as concrete inspectors for the Chicago & Great Western railway on the new line into Council Bluffs. Mr. Kallasch left yesterday afternoon. Mr. Larsen expects to leave today.

MERRILL C. CO.

If you will look into the history of bicycle selling during the past three years you will see the justice of this observation. The enormous increase in the sale of Racycles every year in this city proves that the bicycle is no longer "in it" as a competitor. The reason why the Racycle has proved so popular is because it's built right. The pull of the chain and sprocket is between the bearings. We have a full stock of 1902 Racycles. Several improvements.
