THREE CENTS

BEAT THE INDIANS

Varsity Baseball Team Find the Nebraska Redskins Easy Prey.—University Players all Show Up Well.

The Nebraska Indians can play ball, but can't show the varsity anything, as was quite evident at the game Saturday. Perhaps the game would have been closer had it not been that the redskins were handicapped by the loss of their catcher, Roberts, in the first inning. He had the misfortune to injure his shoulder while trying to slide on second. Although severely injured, with the traditional Indian stoicism, he attempted to hold his position, an act which proved disastrous to his team, and his place was taken by Raymond. In the sixth inning a new pitcher went into service for the redskins, and for a while proved easy meat for the pale-faces, allowing them to make six scores in the one inning.

The varsity boys all played ball, and delighted their supporters by the frequency of their trips around the diamond. In the pitcher's box, "Zobe" Townsend gave Green's men a few lessons in the art of twirling the ball, and succeeded in striking out eleven men, allowing only one to walk. "Twister" Bender, the "shaggy-haired youth" who treated the Omaha men to such a surprise, held his place behind the bat, and played good ball all the way through. An unfortunate fumble allowed one man to get to first and subsequently to make a score after he had been struck out. "Bonnet" Hood played his usual game at the bat, making four out of the thirteen scores, but was denied an opportunity to distinguish himself at third. Captain Bell was also fortunate at the bat, and had three scores to his credit. His work in left field was good. Bobbie Gaines made third by the combination of a safe hit and a fumble by the left fielder, but was unfortunate in knocking a number of flies to the fielders. "Dusty" Rhodes won the admiration of the crowd by a beautiful three-bagger that started the work in the sixth inning. His work at short was up to its usual standard of excellence. "Sticks" De Putron, the "slyph-like Russian," distinguished himself by a long run from the outfield, and with his usual good eye, captured a fly that seemed apparently lost. His playing in the outfield was faultless and without an error. "Ikey" Raymond held down first in a creditable manner and availed himself of every opportunity. Sheimer, the new man in left field, played a good game, with the exception of a little ragged work at the first. A successful two-bagger in the sixth inning brought in three men and restored to him the confidence and good will of the bleachers. The line-up:

TRACK TEAM TRIALS.

Coach Booth has announced that entries for the track team trials must be in by April 21, which is next Thursday. From the results of the trials a team will be made up which will represent the university in the intercollegiate meet to be held on the campus next month.

Following is a list of events: 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, 440-yard run, 880-yard run, mile run, 2-mile run, 120-yard hurdle, 220-yard hurdle, pole vault, high jump, broad jump, shot put, hammer throw, discus throw.

Hurdle men are especially wanted in these preliminaries and contests, as there are now so few entries in this event.

PRESIDENT DROPPERS TONIGHT.

President Droppers of the University of South Dakota will speak in Memorial hall tonight on missionary and educational work in Japan. Inasmuch as Professor Droppers has spent considerable time in that country, his talk tonight will be exceedingly interesting and instructive. Students should not fail to hear this learned educator tonight.

Delta Gamma sorority is now making preparations for a series of kenings in honor of the four sororities which assisted in entertaining the national convention of Delta Gammas last year. Beginning with next Saturday, the Pi Beta Phis will be entertained, and on the succeeding Saturdays the other sororities will be given similar entertainment in the following order: Delta Delta Delta, Kappa Alpha Theta and Kappa Kappa Gamma.

THE KANSAS DEBATE

Annual Contest Will Come Off Friday Evening in Memorial Hall.—Strong Teams Will Participate.

The second of Nebraska's interstate debates—that with the University of Kansas—takes place next Friday evening, April 25, in Memorial hall. With the whirlwind victory of Maxwell, Kuteher and Cronin over Colorado two weeks ago, by a piece of work that set faculty and students talking of what trained Nebraska students can do in sheer debate, the Nebraska quartette that goes against Kansas Friday night finishes its case today. Practice debate Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings will conclude the team's preparation which began during the Christmas recess.

That the Kansas-Nebraska battle will be at least as hot as the Nebraska-Colorado combat, there is no doubt. Indeed it is altogether likely that it will be more fiercely waged. Whether or not the audience will be treated to two such sensational features as chance gave Cronin to corner his opponent is, of course, uncertain, but the chances are that it will.

Charles M. Bracelen, 1902, has been appointed to reply to Kansas' first man. J. C. Doubt, Jr., 1903, will follow, and Samuel C. Hawthorne, 1902, will get in the final direct blow. Mr. Bracelen will close the debate with a ten-minute speech in rebuttal.

Faculty and student interest in this second and last debate of the debates to be held here this year insures more enthusiastic support of the team than the Colorado team got. There were about 500 people present at the Nebraska-Colorado debate. Sales to date of tickets (which may be had at the chancellor's office, the "Co-op." and the University Book Store) indicate a crowd that will show at least that Nebraska is after all not so far behind other schools of her class as she has been in interest in intercollegiate contests of brains.

The university cadet band will again treat the crowd to the best band music in the state, and it is expected Prof. Willard Kimball will also render a pipe-organ solo. Who will preside is not yet settled.

Not all of the judges are determined. Kansas has selected Judge W. F. Hastings of Wilbur (a member of the supreme court, and an alumnus of the University of Chicago, '71) and the Hon. W. D. McHugh (Cornell university), a leading Omaha attorney, late partner of James M. Woolworth. Mr. McHugh writes, however, that he will probably be unable to come on April 25.

NEBRASKA GRADUATES HONORED.

The University of Nebraska was especially honored in the apportionment of fellowships in Columbia university which were announced last week. Three of the successful ones are graduates of Nebraska. They are John L. Kind, Hal T. Beans and Charles A. Turrell. Two of the appointees are from the department of Germanic languages, which fact reflects great credit upon that department.

John L. Kind, to whom was awarded the Carl Schurz fellowship for the study of the German language and literature, graduated from the university in 1899 and took his master's degree last year. On his graduation he was given a fellowship in the German department which he held for two years, relinquishing it last fall to accept the position of instructor in German in the Omaha high school. He was elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa at the first election, at which five members of the class were chosen. During his graduate study here he made special investigations in Sanskrit, Greek and Latin comparative philology and the old Germanic languages. It was his work on his master's thesis which was largely instrumental in gaining for him the appointment. His subject was "Coined Compounds in Gothic," and his production was published in a recent number of the Graduate Bulletin.

The fellowship which Mr. Kind will hold was founded two years ago on the anniversary of the birth of Carl Schurz, by the German-American citizens of New York city. A fund of $10,000 was established, the income from which is awarded biennially. The recipient may be reappointed once for excellence in work done. The holder of the fellowship will study at Columbia unless permitted to pursue his investigations abroad. The appointment is considered a great honor and it was competed for by most of the colleges in the United States and a number from abroad.

Hal T. Beans, who received the fellowship in academic chemistry, graduated from the university in '99. Mr. Beans served for some time as undergraduate assistant in the department of chemistry and upon his graduation was awarded a scholarship in that department. Before receiving his master's degree, which he obtained in 1900, he was called to the University of Idaho as adjunct professor in chemistry. Mr. Beans was a member of both the Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi societies.

Mr. Beans has done considerable work in research and as a result has published, in joint authorship with Samuel Avery of this institution, a number of valuable papers. A new method for the "Determination of White Arsenic in Paris Green" has been provisionally adopted by a num-
