The class in field Geology, had a very interesting trip last Saturday. Mounted on wheels the members first visited the outcrop of Dakota sandstone, at Twenty-seventh and A streets. From there they went to the A street well, then to the cave, near the penitentiary, and from there to the large brick factory several miles southwest of town. Pictures were taken at the various places visited.

The draughting room of the department of civil engineering has received a new addition to its decorations in the shape of a magnificent picture of the famous Horseshoe Curve on the Pennsylvania Railroad. The picture, which was received through the kindness of the general passenger agent, Mr. James R. Wood, measures three by five feet, and is in a fine oak frame. It will make a most valuable addition to the collection of railroad pictures which hangs on the walls of the draughting room.
