Professor Grumann took the advanced classes in German to Omaha Friday for the purpose of visiting the schools of that city.

Fred Kelley made a trip to Omaha yesterday afternoon in the interest of the senior annual which is being published in that city. It is expected that the annual will be out in a very short time.

Kim Barnes, who recently returned from his home in Norfolk, where he went to recuperate from a spell of sickness, has suffered somewhat of a relapse and has been confined to his rooms since attending the senior sneak day festivities.

The Phi Gamma Deltas scored another baseball victory yesterday by defeating the Greeks of Beta Theta Pi. After the dust had cleared away and the wind subsided the score stood 13 to 6 in favor of the Phi Gams. McGeehin and Parker handled the ball for these while Dirks and Culbertson were the battery for the Betas.

Miss Ella Harper is putting her friends under obligations. She graduates in June and also obtains a certificate from the school of domestic science. Each graduate it seems must give a breakfast, luncheon and dinner, everything planned and cooked by herself. Saturday noon Miss Harper entertained at dinner Mrs. L. Gibson and Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Hodgman. The dinner was a decided success and greatly enjoyed by the favored guests.

Phi Gamma Delta fraternity held its fourth annual installation of officers at its home on Fifteenth and M streets last night. A large number of loyal Phi Gams from out of town were present and all the alumni members now living in the city. After the installation ceremonies were over all sat down to a banquet. A number of interesting talks were made by members and alumni members.

Teaches by Mail, the GERMAN, FRENCH AND SPANISH LANGUAGES,
By use of the phonograph.

The testimonial below is from a prominent Lincoln physician, who is familiar with these languages:

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
Testimonial.

This certifies that I have carefully listened to the German, French and Spanish Records, and I must say that I have been "agreeably disappointed" by the result. I confess that when Mr. Wright first explained the plan it left me with many scruples as to its practicability, but these have been swept away. In listening I seemed to sit face to face with the teacher and he pronounced so distinctly that no pupil could have any difficulty in catching, not only the correct word-enunciation, but the very genius and spirit of the language. The peculiarities and national characteristics as manifested in the words, phrases, sentences, voice-inflections and accent of German, French and Spanish, are wonderfully brought out, and the whole thing seems a marvel of ingenuity. Surely this leaves absolutely nothing to be desired and any one who wishes to learn these languages may do so without leaving his desk. The men who have planned this wonderful contrivance deserve every success.
Very truly,
