You will enjoy looking over those new varsity style suits in the pretty patterns this season brings. Undoubtedly the best assortment, taken from any point of view, is that found at Armstrong's.
Chancellor Huntington's address to the graduating class of Wesleyan university has been published in pamphlet form and is being distributed among the new students of that institution this year.
Nola Butler, a student last year at the university, will take work this year at Angola College, Angola, Indiana.

An item appeared recently in the Missouri Independent to the effect that about two hundred men listened to an address by John S. Moore. Mr. Moore until last year had been secretary of the University of Nebraska Y. M. C. A. three years.
Dr. Avery's removal from the university to the state farm is a serious loss to the department of chemistry, and has caused much confusion in that department. Professor Nicholson is daily besieged in his office by students who complain of conflicts. Matters are not yet settled.
Mr. Fisher, who has been connected with the geological survey of the United States during the greater part of the summer, recently passed through Lincoln on his way to Yale, where he holds a fellowship in the department of geology.
Several new courses have been added in the department of geology since the university bulletins were published. Geology 13, geography of the United States, and 10b, microscope study of rocks, are for teachers and general students. A special teachers' course is also given by Dr. Condra for teachers in city schools.
The officers and directors of the Nebraska Mercantile Mutual Insurance Company are as follows:
Judge E. M. Coffin, president, Lincoln; Judge E. M. Bartlett, vice-president, Omaha; Dr. C. E. Coffin, treasurer, Ord; Dr. B. L. Paine, chairman executive committee, Lincoln; Jas. H. Casebeer, Blue Springs; R. M. Taggart, Nebraska City, G. L. Loomis, Fremont, D. S. Stratton, Pawnee City.
It certainly makes a creditable appearance.
The following note appeared in the Lincoln high school advocate:
"Students will do well to join Prof. Bracelen's debating class. Here debating will be taught as a science and students will have a chance to learn to debate with a teacher to criticize. Prof. Bracelen has won many important debates at the Nebraska University and therefore has had the best of practice along these lines."
Mr. Bracelen has an enviable reputation in Nebraska in debating and his further interest is shown by the above article. This is an instance of use made of collegiate training.
