Outing has selected the following men for the All-American college baseball team of 1902: Pitcher—Lundgun, Illinois; catcher—Green, Princeton; first base—Pearson, Princeton; second base—Steinwender, Princeton; third base—Guernsey, Yale; short stop—Meier, Princeton; left field—Brown, Princeton; center field—Barnwell, Yale; right field—Wear, Yale. Substitute pitcher, Garvan, Yale; substitute catcher, Winslow, Yale.

The members of the class in chemistry I have had their schedules somewhat unsettled during the past week. Because of a conflict in the printed schedule between chemistry and physics it was found necessary to have two divisions of the class. Professor Nicholson tried to make some arrangement whereby all the class could meet at the same hour and thus lighten his work, but he finally decided to meet two divisions, one at 10:30 and the other at 11:30.

A University of Michigan co-ed recently had a copy of the University of Michigan catalogue unbound and one page altered, so that her own record was improved, after which the volume was rebound and sent to the young woman's parents. The co-ed was supposed to be working hard for a degree, but in reality had only been taking a few "snap" courses, and was not in line for honors, consequently she wished to get rid of the undesirable "S" after her name in the catalogue.—Exchange.

The Yale News made the following brief statement regarding the new instructor of military science at that college. Captain Smoke was last year commandant of cadets at the university:

"The course in military tactics, which was discontinued at the outbreak of the Spanish war in 1898, will be resumed this fall under the supervision of Captain Samuel A. Smoke. The course was discontinued because Captain Murray, who was then detailed to Yale, was ordered to the front. Captain Smoke served throughout the Spanish war and has been detailed to the University of Nebraska since the close of hostilities."

There will be room in a short time on the "Daily Nebraskan" staff for some more men. The number will be increased, not sacrificing quality, as fast as possible. It is the aim of the board of directors to have a first-class paper in the university. This can only be done by placing the administration of the paper and the staff members, both editors and reporters, on a strictly competitive basis. No man who will be placed on the paper can hold his position unless he shows some ability. As soon as possible there will be a series of daily editors whose business will be to stand responsible for the news of the day. The work on the paper is very practical and made the practical end of the course offered in journalism.

Those in this class who show the best ability, and have the best "news instinct" will be placed on the paper's staff of editors.

By this statement it is expected that the student body will understand how the paper is run and will come more closely in touch with it.

Work done by the journalism class is now being published in the "Daily." At present the work is crude but that of some members of the class shows promise. Occasionally a whole paper goes into print exactly as it was written. But such cases are rare.

The average copy is full of mistakes; mistakes of grammar, spelling, punctuation, capitalization. By the time the editor is done with it it is scored from top to bottom with blue pencil marks. The editor is only human and it gives his heart satisfaction when a paper comes into his hands which he can turn over to the printer without a single correction. If the amateur reporter will look to his spelling, punctuation and capitalization he will help the editor and at the same time help himself.

Again, much of the material is of such a nature that it can not be used. Take, for instance, this item. "Old Autumn is with us once again, strewing the ground with leaves." This is not a news item. It is a sad attempt at poetry. Let us have facts that the students want to know, plain unvarnished facts, written clearly, without the use of superfluous words. The business of the reporter is to tell facts and not write poetry. Do not try to write unless you have something to say.

AGAINST HAZING—Unconcluded.

have the right of appeal to the committee hereinafter provided for, for the enforcement of these resolutions, including an observance of the customs specified in any particular instance that may come before their notice.

IV. There shall be a committee composed of the following five persons: The vice-presidents of the two upper classes, the editor-in-chief of the Princetonian, and the manager and assistant manager of the baseball team. The duties of this committee shall be:

1. They shall decide all questions arising in the interpretation of these resolutions.
2. They shall summon before them all members of the freshman class who are accused of violating the terms of these resolutions, investigate the charges brought against them, and, if found guilty, shall decide upon the punishment to be inflicted.

Amherst College will hereafter give the degree of Bachelor of Arts for three years' work.
