A series of experiments to determine what conditions of temperature and moisture conduce to the production of poison in sorghum have been begun in the green house. This is of especial interest to the farmers, as the loss to live stock from sorghum poisoning has been very large in some years.

The Eleventh Hour club held its first meeting of the year Wednesday evening, with Misses Evans, Spurlock and Hartsough, at 1345 J street. The social features peculiar to an organization of this kind were all in evidence, and an enjoyable time is reported. Miss Hazel Newman was the guest of the club.

Perhaps you noticed those well-dressed young men on the street yesterday. Some wore the dashing varsity style, some of the smart Military front and back, some the two-button and three-button double-breasted sack.
You saw Coronation clothes, Tweeds, Kerseys, Meltons, Cassimeres, Worsteds and a great array of the prettiest fabrics. Every garment fit and set perfectly. These young men dressed up at Armstrong's and just as good awaits you at just as low prices as they enjoyed—1221-27 O street.

The entering class in the State University of Wisconsin is the largest in the history of the institution. The following statement from the registrar shows the registration in the various classes as compared with last year:
"The total registration of the university to the close of Thursday, September 25, was 1,711, as compared with 1,657 for the corresponding time last year. The number of new students, including graduates and students admitted to advanced standing, is 704, as against 653 last year; the number of upper classmen registered 860 this year to 826 last year; law students 147 as against 178 of last year."
