The Week's Convocations.

The following is the program for convocation hour for the ensuing week:

Tuesday, Oct. 7.—Prof. H. R. Smith, "The Coal Strike."

Wednesday, Oct. 8—Hon. W. H. Thompson, democratic candidate for governor.

Thursday, Oct. 9—Football mass meeting.

Friday, Oct. 10—Musical.

Monday, Oct. 13—Hon. J. H. Mickey, republican candidate for governor.

Owing to the detention in Colorado of the Daily's athletic editor a regular report of football matters is not published in today's paper. More items of interest from the western game will probably be found in tomorrow's paper.

Bench work seems very popular just now, since the sun has been induced to shine again. Perhaps the longing glances cast toward the untenanted seats during the recent rains moved the weather prophet to compassion for the clouds are gone and work has been zealously renewed in that department.

Because a number of students of the Minnesota university were arrested for riding bicycles on the park walks, several hundred attacked the two policemen who had charge of the park, and the latter were badly worsted. The following morning in chapel, President Northrop upheld the officers for enforcing the park regulations, and condemned the students for their attack. He further stated that arrangements would be made between the regents and the park board which would put an end to future hostilities.

The college daily, though not so general until recently, has been in existence since 1875. The Harvard Crimson, which was founded in 1873 under a different name, was the first college daily. The Yale Daily News and Cornell Daily Sun followed in 1876 and 1880, respectively. The Daily Princetonian and Pennsylvanian soon appeared, according to the Record-Herald. The college daily is held to be an essential organ in a major university as a faithful record of student opinion and college affairs. If it has faults, in a number of universities the faculty now make official use of the daily.—Notre Dame Scholastic.

Want Column.

Junior Sombrero.

The junior annual board is at work upon the coming Sombrero. The members of the board are so enthusiastic and willing to work that in spite of the delay caused by the resignations of Mr. Buckner and Mr. Huse, the Sombrero has prospects that are brighter than any in its history. Already some very good work has been handed in, and a few are working on material that will soon be ready. Plans for the future will be discussed at a meeting of the board today.

But the board can not do all the work. Nobody expects them to do it. Every member of the junior class should see that he has a share in the making of a book which will always be to him a delightful souvenir of his college days. Let him who can write a story make up his mind to write a story. Let her who has the poetic instinct write a poem and hand it to some member of the board. Let each one be on the alert for jokes and amusing bits of class and personal history. You can have as much to do with the making of the Sombrero as the members of the board. If each member of the board should write the equivalent of six printed pages, and it were all suitable, there would be an amount of material almost large enough to fill the book, together with the illustrations which we wish to have. Now each member of the class may write six pages if he so wishes. No one will be limited. But suppose each one wrote a single page, we should have enough and to spare.

Get to work at once. Don't wait till the end of the semester and then swamp the editor with manuscript that should be coming in now. If in doubt as to the nature of the work, consult the editor or assistant editor and they will do all they can to help you. Let them see that you are willing to work and they will be encouraged to do more work themselves.

THE EDITOR.

NEBRASKAN SPLINTERS.

Commenting on the refusal of Chancellor Andrews to accept an increase of a thousand dollars in his salary, a contemporary says: "If the professor has his winter's wood in, it is all right. Otherwise there is a question as to whether or not he should be restrained."

President Roosevelt has accepted an invitation to be present at Princeton at the inauguration of President Woodrow Wilson on October 25. Addresses will be delivered by ex-President Patton, President Wilson and Mr. Grover Cleveland. It is not yet definitely decided that President Roosevelt will speak.

In all the universities of France there are no papers, no fraternities, no athletics and no commencement exercises—Ex.

LITERAL OBEDIENCE.

A young teacher who was graduated from the normal school was asked to substitute in a higher grade than her own. She was a little nervous over the temporary promotion and was anxious that everything should go off in the usual good order. While instructing the class in composition she said: "Now, children, don't attempt any flights of fancy. Don't try to imitate the things you have heard, but just be yourselves and write what is really in you."

As a result of this address one little boy turned in the following composition:

"I ain't goin' to attempt no fits of fancy; I'm just goin' to write what's in me and I got a hart, a liver, two lungs, and some other things like that; then I got a stumick, and it's got in it a pickle, a piece of pie, two sticks of peppermint candy and my dinner."—Chicago Journal.

Overheard between two young ladies. First young lady.—So he is coming back to school. Do you suppose he has mended his ways?

Second young lady.—Very probably. I have an idea that he has been darnin' them all summer.

"What is this chicken fence around the field for?" asked the freshman.

"To keep the game free from fowls," explained the upper classman.

And the game went on.

A freshman one morning, quite dazed, Swore the night before he'd been hazed;

But now it is said

That he fell out of bed

And a bump on his cranium raised. —Exchange.

One Frat Man—"Who is that awful awkward, inquisitive young freshman?"

The Other One—"Why, he is one of our new pledges."

First One—"Oh—, —; beg pardon."

Every recitation room of the university is occupied at 10:30 daily. Owing to this fact some of the interview divisions in Amer. Hist. 3 will be obliged to use the faculty study room.
