SCRUBS DO GOOD WORK

Push First Team Hard—Varsity Puts Up Stiff Game—Big Crowd on the Bleachers.

Football practice last evening was snappy and spirited; the kind that brings about good results. The bleachers were filled with students and business men and they cheered the team when good plays were made. The manner in which the scrubs went after the varsity was indeed gratifying. They are determined to earn that dinner at the "Lincoln."

Both teams had stiff signal practice before the lineup. The first part of the practice was taken up with a kicking game in order to give the men "wind," and practice in blocking. The teams were worked hard but they responded nobly and did good work when it came to rushing the ball. Although the scrubs fought bravely the varsity succeeding in making several touch downs.

Si Mason played left tackle on the first team. He is an earnest worker and will undoubtedly make a valuable man. Benedict and Thorpe did good work at quarter. Cortelyou was at his old position and did some excellent work, especially while running with the ball. Jim Bell was out again and played half. Englehart watched the practice from the side lines. He will be out in a week or more.

The scrubs are to be commended for the enthusiasm and zeal which they manifest. The assistant coaches have been working hard to develop a good second team and their efforts have not been in vain. While all of the scrubs played hard the work of Hazen Myers and Walton was very noticeable.

Today a mass meeting will be held and it is expected that Memorial hall will be filled to overflowing.

After the Game.

Boulderites will try to look unconcerned and say that they expected something worse, but a careful observer can see that the majority of the students and supporters of the team really expected something better. The best team won the game, and Colorado should feel satisfied because the score was no higher.

The Nebraska team was loyally entertained and treated with the greatest courtesy throughout the entire stay. The Boulder players are gentlemen, and deserving of the highest praise. The reception accorded the Nebraska delegation in the evening was an example of Colorado's courtesy enjoyed by all who participated in the event, as was also the trip to Ward, and a tally-ho party into the mountains the next day.

Only one fault is to be found, and that is in the way the Denver press misrepresented the weight of the Cornhuskers. Of the four daily papers, one one, the Denver Post, gave a conservative estimate of the weight of the team. One paper, the Republican, gave out the following astonishing facts:

"Nebraska furnished the Boulder people with a list of weights calculated to drive ordinary teams to despair. On the line 185 pounds was the least any player would admit, while one coyly admitted to weighing in at 228. This latter fairy-like young man is said to have come all the way from Mexico to take part in the game." Now the truth of the matter is that there was very little difference in the average weight of the two teams. Four of the mountaineers team weighed between 170 and 180. Four more will go in at 160-170, and the others will probably average 155 pounds.

Colorado has been handicapped by lack of outdoor practice, and by the disabling of her men. The continual rainfall during the week previous to the game prevented practice and for three days the eleven had not been on the field.

Nebraska excelled in kicking, not so much in the distance kicked as in the return of the ball. Benedict for Nebraska proved himself an indispensable member of the team in this re-

THOMPSON AT CHAPEL

Democratic Nominee for Governor Talks to Students—Duties and Responsibilities of the Individual.

The address of Hon. W. H. Thompson at convocation yesterday drew an unusually large attendance of students. A number of people from the city were present also to hear the fusion candidate for governor talk.

The subject of the address was not given but the speaker said that he was asked to speak about a minute. The theme, however, was on the duties and responsibilities of the individual.

"The question," said Judge Thompson, "is what are the laws of nature and what the laws of our land." Every person is alone in his own sphere. His thoughts and his actions are peculiarly his own and they can not be duplicated by anybody on the face of the earth. Furthermore, for each person there is a place that he ought to fill, because no one else can meet the requirement.

spect, and clearly outplayed Whitehead, the Colorado man, who overran his mark, and failed to return. Ten and fifteen yards was no unusual return for Nebraska. Considering this fact, it is not surprising that the second half was almost entirely a kicking game, and it was through Colorado's slowness in handling the ball, combined with the agility of the Lincolmites that Nebraska made her second score.

Folsom, coach for Colorado, expressed himself as believing that the best team won. However, he was not satisfied with the work of his team, and believes that they can do better.

Saturday was the only one on Colorado's schedule to be played with a team outside the state, and for that reason was greatly looked forward to by them.

The Democratic club expects to have a banquet at which W. H. Thompson, the democratic nominee for governor, will be present. Arrangements are in charge of the executive committee.

Among the recent additions to the botanical library is a copy of a rare work on medical botany by Dr. Wm. Barton, a physician who lived in Philadelphia nearly a century ago.

No two persons have the same equipments or the same thoughts. There are no twins in poetry, prose or in oratory. Each man must pave his own way and develop his own personality. He is like a ship at sea—alone.

Each independent thought or act, asserted the speaker, helps to build for the individual a monument. It is the radical man whom the world honors and follows and obeys. He who dares to think and act independently becomes the great man of his community or state.

Each age brings to the people new responsibilities and new problems to be settled. The rising generation has before it deep and reaching questions to be considered. Organized capital and labor, the Panama canal and the many difficulties involved, new phases of the Monroe doctrine, these questions are to be disposed of.

Mr. Thompson declared that our nation has no parallel in history.

No country has produced such men as Phillips, Garrison, Douglas and Lincoln; and no nation has settled such questions as the United States. It was the spirit of liberty in our fathers that rocked the cradle of the nation in its infancy. It was that spirit that produced the constitution and secured liberty to all our people. It is upon us to enthusiastically uphold and support what our fathers accomplished. A good school system was instituted as an aid to this and the benefits of that system are enjoyed by every boy and girl.

The United States, said Mr. Thompson, is in the center of the civilized world, and Nebraska is in the center of the United States. The states of the union form a monument, near the top of which is Iowa and at the very top Nebraska. And above all waves the banner on which is written our motto, "Equality before the law," in letters of gold.

Sophomores Elect.

The ominous silence that followed the election on Friday of last week and the lull in Sophomore politics culminated in many surprises for all concerned at the class meetings yesterday. At the last meeting the vote stood, Sweeley, 33; Beers, 57; McWhinney, 41; Mather, 12.

Rumors had been afloat that Mr. Mather and Mr. McWhinney would withdraw in favor of Mr. Beers. But to the surprise of all Mr. McWhinney in a well worded speech stated that for the sake of harmony and a speedy election he would withdraw in favor of Mr. Sweeley. Mr. Mather resigned in favor of Mr. Beers. The ballot resulted in the election of Mr. Sweeley by a vote of 65 to 59. Tremendous applause followed the announcement that amounted almost to an ovation. Mr. Sweeley in a brief speech thanked his supporters and pledged himself to do his best for the class.

Mr. Bruce, Miss Caldwell, Mr. Armour, and retiring President Sawyer, were chosen vice president, secretary, treasurer and sergeant-at-arms respectively.

College Settlement Lecture.

Reserved seats for Miss Stone's lecture will be placed on sale this morning at 9 o'clock. The managers wish to avoid the necessity of compelling purchasers to suffer the inconvenience of "standing in line" to secure good seats. In order to accomplish this purpose we simply ask you to place your money or check in an envelope and send it by mail or otherwise, to A. C. Candy, University of Nebraska. Seats will then be checked off in the order in which these applications are received and the tickets will be returned to the purchaser. "First come, first served." In ordering seats in this way, be kind enough to state the location in the house which you prefer, and we will try to comply with your wishes as nearly as possible.

Societies and fraternities who desire a large number of seats near together should send in their order early. In fact if friends would club together and send in orders for eight or ten seats it would save a great deal of labor for those who have charge of the plat.

We bespeak a liberal patronage on the part of both students and instructors.
