News of the Game and of Minnesota—Papers Talk of Game—Nebraska Steps Higher.

Dr. Williams, coach for Minnesota expresses himself as follows: "Nebraska played a game that would do credit to any institution in the country. Minnesota was fairly defeated. The boys will play a much better game before the end of the season.

Minnesota may play a better game before the end of the season, but it stands to reason that Nebraska will do the same. It has been the policy of members of the Big Nine to play their easy games early in the season. Nebraska was placed early in the schedule for that reason. Hereafter if games are scheduled between the rival states they will probably be played in November.

Mr. Wyer expresses himself as believing that it would be difficult to schedule games with Minnesota and Wisconsin next season. They have nothing to win and everything to lose and they are afraid of us, so it seems. This year Wisconsin scheduled a game with Kansas but refused to make suitable terms with Manager Engle. Perhaps Minnesota will bluff out next year.

Since Nebraska does not belong to the "Big Nine" Minnesota still has a chance of winning the championship, but with such a discouraging defeat to look back to her chances might be considered rather slim.

Harris and Rogers are counted the stars of the Gopher team. Harris plays quarter back and is considered the best man in that place that ever played on the team. Rogers plays left end, but went against the real thing when he tried to down Cortelyou. All the big gains were made around his end. Westover and Mason were looked upon as the hardest proposition that Minnesota ever went up against and time after time the Gopher captain called upon his men to "look after Westover."

Minnesota's old fault of poor interference seemed to be an important factor in losing the game, while Nebraska was especially strong in that point. Enough has been said to show that the Cornhuskers played the game for all it was worth. In the language of Captain Westover, "We came up here to win and we did."

The squad did not appear for practice last night. The men, however, are all in good condition.

It is generally conceded that the recent victory at Minneapolis has drawn the attention of more people to the University of Nebraska than any other one event in her history.

Mr. G. M. Hamilton will soon have buttons of the football team for sale.

Minnesota's Gate Receipts.

The gate receipts at the Minnesota game were about $5,000. Nebraska's share being half of the gate receipts and expenses being about $700, we realized a total of about $1,800.

The general admission was $1, reserved seats $2. There were less reserved seats on sale Saturday than at last year's game. It seems that people made a kick about the price and so a great number of reserved seats were filled by general admission tickets.

Not wishing a celebration on Sunday, as would have been the case had the victors come home, they preferred staying over and coming home on Monday morning. They spent part of the Sunday resting in the parks and at Lake Minnetonka. They also enjoyed a very delightful steamboat ride. Librarian Wyer's summer residence at Minnetonka was visited and all the Cornhuskers registered.

They left Minneapolis Sunday evening at 8:30 p. m., on the Northwestern.

A little white dog, having been an interested spectator of the game, became enamored with the Cornhuskers on account of their splendid playing and forthwith determined to follow them to the train and become their companion ever after. The boys, after learning of his intentions, decided to accept his services as Mascot.

Academy Football.

Dassenbrock's pets met defeat at the hands of the scrubs last evening to the tune of 18 to 0.

Considering the fact that it was the first time the team had lined up, they played good ball. Tomorrow they will meet the Sophomores and Saturday they go to Crete to play the second team of Doane. Their line up is as follows:

Center—Ryan.
Right guard—Miller.
Right tackle—Toomey.
Right end—McComb, Grinnell.
Quarter back—Steen.
Right half—Myers.
Left half—Cameron.
Full back—Vance.
The academy boys are in charge of J. D. Dassenbrock.

VARSITY MEDICS MEET

New Organization Lays Plans for Future—They Intend to Do Something This Year.

The medical society of the university met Thursday night in M. 301. Committees were appointed for the coming year and matters of general interest were discussed. It was decided that Thursday night of each week would be the most convenient time for the society meetings and that one meeting each month should be open to all who might care to attend.

Since the new department in medicine holds such an important position in the university it was thought best to appoint a regular reporter, whose duty it would be to make a press report of all meetings. The president, however, deferred the appointment of the reporter until next meeting.

The medics evidently intend to make their influence felt in the university, for they are contemplating selecting colors, a pin and getting up a yell. Besides this, they are to put out a football team, if plans materialize.

The finance committee consists of the treasurer and two other members of the society—Mr. Foster and Miss Farnsworth. Messrs. Stanley, Rowe and Bickford were appointed to confer with the Sombrero board with reference to the securing of space in the Junior book.

After the business was disposed of Miss Farnsworth read a paper and Dr. Wolcott discussed briefly the value of medical societies to the success of practicing physicians.

Ellen M. Stone's Lecture.

Tickets are going rapidly for the lecture given by Ellen M. Stone, the returned missionary. She will lecture in the Lincoln auditorium on Friday night of this week. Student parties should hurry up and order their reserved seats before the last minute. This is under the auspices of the College Settlement association. Come to help another side of the university and hear something worth while.

Sophomore Hop Committee.

President Sweeley of the Sophomore class has made the appointments to the hop committee as follows:

John Forsythe, chairman.
Robert White, Master of Ceremonies.
Misses Blanche Meeker, and Ruth Wilson; Messrs. Robert Burg, Frank Beers and Will Ramsey.

The hop will be held in a down town hall and will occur within a short time.

FOOTBALL APPOINTMENTS.

The president of the Sophomore class has also appointed Mr. Bruce as football manager and Mr. Lundin as field captain.

Second Day's Celebration.

The Nebraska football team received an ovation on their arrival yesterday that was a worthy tribute to their victory at Minneapolis. It was a spontaneous expression of university spirit and gratitude and was given in a measure that may amend in a way for all past differences.

Announcements had been made to the effect that classes reciting at 10:30 would not meet. This was to give assurance to the student body that nothing but a good round reception to the football boys would be expected. Had anything else been expected, the professors would have been disappointed for university students and town people flocked about the B. & M. station by the hundreds and thousands.

The university band which occupied a position to the east of the station, kept up lively tunes, while the expectant and intensely excited crowd yelled and shouted and beat back and forth in waiting for the delayed train.

A band wagon, uniquely trimmed with corn fodder and scarlet and cream bunting, was placed in a convenient place to receive the Nebraska visitors.

When the train arrived Coach Booth and his men were carried on the shoulders of sturdy men through the noisy crowd to the wagon, which was drawn up P street by a long line of students on a 50-foot rope. The procession, led by the band, turned down Tenth, then up O street. Here the rope received an addition of 100 feet, which was quickly taken advantage of by the enthusiastic crowd. As the wagon wound down Eleventh and back to O by M and Twelfth streets, eager crowds packed the sidewalks and filled the windows. Flowers were showered upon the team while the students along the rope gave the cadence by "six, six, six," and "naught, naught, naught."

Turning up Eleventh street, the wagon was drawn at the run to the university gate. When the team arrived at the chapel they were again tendered an ovation. The platform was decorated in scarlet and cream and cornstalks. The whole team, coaches, trainers and manager, occupied the chairs. Roscoe Pound had charge of the doings. Professors Fling, Caldwell and Wyer made timely talks. Rev. Wharton spoke upon demand from a front box. A picture of a log cabin with real dead gophers drying on the wall was displayed. The crowd yelled itself hoarse and demanded of the players to talk. Each one received recognition as well as members of the substitutes. Assistant Coach Palmer stated it was one of the best celebrations he had ever seen. The crowd left the hall shortly after 12 o'clock. It was packed the closest and held the biggest indoor demonstration ever witnessed upon the campus.

The reception given the team at the B. & M. depot, the magnificent parade, and the exercises at Memorial hall, all go to show that football is to receive more universal support by the student body and the citizens of Lincoln.
