The Week's Convocations.

The following is the program for convocation hour for the ensuing week. Dean Ward leads religious exercises:

Tuesday—"The New Australian Constitution," W. W. Cook.

Wednesday—"The Proposed Trust Amendment of President Roosevelt."

The supreme court two years ago held that university students, except in certain cases, had a right to exercise their suffrages at the seat of the university. It is the duty of every student who is qualified to do so, to cast a vote, and by so doing help to make the government of his state what he would have it.

The need of more space in the general reading room of the library is growing more apparent every day. As the weather becomes colder more students do their studying in the library rather than walk back to their rooms between classes, or loaf about on the campus. During some of the periods in the forenoon a chair is at a premium and many who would like to put in a spare moment studying can not do so because a place can not be found.

Some of the advanced students in botany found some cards a few days ago which were printed eight years ago on the occasion of the celebration of the quarter centennial of the university. These set forth the facilities in the department at that time, and the contrast is quite pleasing. Then there were forty-four compound microscopes, now there are eighty; then the herbarium contained forty thousand plants, now there are about one hundred thousand; then there were thirty-seven periodicals taken in the department, now that number is fully doubled; then there were ten lines of botanical study, now there are more than forty courses open to students; then there were about sixty students doing university work in botany, now there are about three times that number.

The following signed article written by the editors of the Junior Annual will explain to the advertisers of the "Daily" the position which the two hold in the university. In the communications, the word "publication" should have been "periodical." The field covered by the Nebraskan is peculiar to itself:

There seems to have been a misunderstanding in regard to the letters sent out by the Sombrero to Lincoln business men. We desire to state that we are not antagonistic to the Daily Nebraskan. The feeling between the two publications is most friendly. The Sombrero, being a biennial publication, does not cover the same field as does the "Daily."

R. A. M'NOWEN.

It is evident that Nebraska will have her hands full next month, if the Indians, Kansas, Knox and Northwestern are beaten, and it will take the hardest kind of work. At all events the people of Lincoln will have the privilege of witnessing several contests of unusual excellence. The Indians are playing better ball than they did last year, and have already scored twice on Illinois, one of the best teams of the "Big Nine." They simply overwhelmed Missouri by a score of 40 to 0. Knox has an all star aggregation and is causing all the big teams trouble. Although Chicago has by far the best eleven that she has possessed since '98, Northwestern gave her a bad scare in spite of the fact that the latter team has been peculiarly unfortunate in having her star players sent to the hospital. Chicago was outplayed in the first half but managed to score twice in the second. It is generally conceded that Northwestern will have a formidable team long before Thanksgiving. Kansas always appears at her best on Nebraska field, and is stronger this year than last.

Class Athletics Awaken.

Class athletics are living up among the girls. Much interest is being taken by them in basket ball. All candidates for class teams report on the floor at 1:30 each day this week. The Junior and Sophomore teams have been organized. Ten men reported at Freshman practice yesterday and prospects are favorable for a good team. Only those Freshmen are eligible for the class team who have had previous basket ball or gymnastic training.

The annual class tournament will take place about Christmas this year. The champion class team will gain possession of a large and handsome pennant. Their names will be inscribed upon it and they will hold it until they are defeated.

Engineering Notes.

W. B. Hampson, who formerly was an instructor in the mechanical engineering department of the university, has recently been called to fill the chair of engineering at the University of Washington in Seattle.

S. D. Clinton, a graduate of the civil engineering department, is in the city. Mr. Clinton has been engaged in road building work for the government in Yellowstone National Park.

The civil engineering laboratory has acquired a new set of scales, with which transverse tests of small beams will be made. A lot of new apparatus has been ordered and is expected in a few days.

The Eleventh Hour club met with Misses Spurlock, Hartsough and Evans Saturday evening at 1345 T street.

Prof. Ross Returned.

Professor Ross returned from his lecture tour yesterday morning, well pleased with the reception accorded him at the places he visited. He says that the west is greatly wrought up over the question of taxation and that there are signs of a tax cyclone moving from the direction of Nebraska. He spent Saturday at Minnesota, where he found still visible the effects of the jolt that the Minnesota team received from Nebraska, although the victory over Iowa did much to dispell the gloom.

Senior Class Deliberations.

The Senior class met in U. 206 yesterday at 10 o'clock and considered matters of importance to the class.

Mr. Maxwell reported for the class orator committee, submitting a list of five names from which the class orator is to be selected. The list was as follows:

Senator Beveridge, of Indiana; Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain), Henry Watterson, of Kentucky; Thomas B. Reed, of New York; Hamilton W. Mabie, editor of the Outlook.

It was agreed that the list be submitted to the Chancellor for his approval. A choice will be made by the class and the Chancellor will be asked to give precedence to this in his consideration. But in order to vote with greater knowledge and care, the choosing was deferred one week, until the class could instruct themselves in the matter.

A committee of three, including Messrs. McGehee, Gilbert and Hiltner, was appointed to confer jointly with like committees from other classes of the university in regard to all class athletics for the coming year.

Messrs. Smith, Case and Linderman were appointed to inquire into the matter of obtaining space in the Sombrero, and this committee was instructed to report at the next meeting.

The class also took up the question of debates with other classes and finally decided to appoint a committee to arrange for a debate with the Junior class, which will come off either this semester or next. The appointing of the committee was deferred, however, until a later date.

The girls announced that they had definitely decided not to wear class hats or caps, but that they would wear pins instead. No action was taken on this matter, because the boys have not yet come to an agreement on what they shall wear.

Guns were assigned to Company D last night. All companies are now supplied with guns and will be drilled in the manual of arms.

Much to the satisfaction of its supporters the football team will appear in full uniform for Saturday's game. The jerseys have not arrived yet but are on the road.

The domestic science department served their first lunch yesterday. These lunches will be served every week day except Saturday, but will begin hereafter at 11:30 instead of 12:30.

The Y. M. C. A. cabinet meets this evening to consider important matters connected with the work in the university, among which will be the filling of the vacancy caused by the resignation of Chancellor Phillips as treasurer.

Professor Ott, formerly of the Brookings College, now connected with the firm of Basch & Lomb, of Rochester, N. Y., was a caller at the department of botany on Saturday. He took orders for additional apparatus and supplies for the department, especially in the class in Bacteriology.

The students of the University of Wisconsin are entering actively into the political campaign. Orators from the various political clubs of the university are being sent throughout the state to do missionary work, and the student body is taking a lively interest in the issues before the people.

In different parts of the state men are prospecting for coal. Although Professor Barbour tells them that there is no coal in Nebraska, yet they continue to put their money into holes in the ground. There is one good result, however, which they bring about. The shafts which they sink, sometimes 500 feet deep, afford to the geological department very valuable information concerning the deposits of the state.

THE NEW BELT OR BROOCH PINS

Are beauties. They are of silver in the rose, French gray, or oxidized finish, in Dutch silver or in Oriental design. Some are of pearl with plain or correct surfaces but without rims.

The patterns are new with a tendency toward Greek or Roman designs which probably were suggested by the relief work in gems done by those people. These are:—

MERMAIDS,
CUPIDS,
ROSETTES,
KNOTS,

BUCKLES,
BARS,
RAMS' HEADS,
DOGS' HEADS,

AND FACES IN ALL STYLES.

They vary in price, 10c, 25c, 50c and 75c. The brooches for 50c and 75c are sterling silver.

Stick Pins

In sterling silver with French gray finish, fancy heads, for 50c, or in bright sterling silver—fleur-de-lis and other pretty patterns, for 10c.

Hat Pins

In Oxidized finish, fancy heads or rosette designs for 10c; Sterling silver tops, for 25c,

MILLER & PAINE.
