READY FOR THE KANSANS

Varsity Team Goes Through Good Preparatory Practice—Other Football Comment.

Half an hour's work last night netted the 'varsity two touchdowns against the scrubs. Mickel scored the first on a straight line buck and Follmer went down the field for sixty yards, scoring the second. The scrubs were by no means slow in their play and very nearly crossed their opponents' goal again. Eager went through the line and around the end for big gains, but the ball was lost on downs and the scrimmage ended with the ball in the possession of the 'varsity on their own five-yard line. The spectators were enthusiastic in their support of the scrubs, an evidence that their work is appreciated. Tobin played their left tackle and Eager the left half. Bill Johnson was not out.

For the past week the scrubs have been lined up in open formation. This is the play used almost entirely by Kansas and its use by the scrubs enables the 'varsity to become accustomed to it.

All of the first squad appeared for practice with the exception of "Chick" Shedd, who is sick in bed and will be unable to appear in tomorrow's game. His end will be played by Follmer. Benedict and Ringer were out again and in good condition. Engelhart is rapidly recovering from the effects of Saturday's game and will be able to play. Follmer received an injury in last night's practice, but it is nothing serious.

The Jayhawkers will arrive in the city tonight at 5:45 over the Burlington. Although somewhat disheartened by the result of the Haskell game, they are by no means discouraged and will go into the game with the idea of holding the score down as low as possible. The team that made an unexpected score against Nebraska last year may have some new surprises in store for the Cornhuskers and it is safe to predict the game will by no means be a walk-away.

Comparison of scores is an uncertain way of determining the strength of a team, as was evident in the case of Missouri, Nebraska and the Indians, but it might be mentioned that Kansas held Knox down to a lower score than did Northwestern, and it may be that we will have a closer game tomorrow than on Thanksgiving.

Mention was made in one of yesterday's paper that there was talk of disbanding the Northwestern team. There is no valid basis for such a rumor and it ought not to be circulated throughout the state. It might influence the people from out of town who expect to attend that game.

Northwestern, as a member of the "big nine," could not afford to disband her team. Such an action would result in her expulsion from the "big nine" conference, and it would have a disastrous effect on football at Evanston in future seasons. It would take a long time to wipe out the disgrace of such an unsportsmanlike act.

Moreover, it should be remembered that Nebraska has guaranteed Northwestern fifteen hundred dollars for the Thanksgiving game, and the Evanston management will not let this money slip out of her hands.

When anything happens which will result in our not being able to play our schedule the people will be acquainted with the facts immediately. All idle rumors ought not to be given much consideration.

Kansas Excursion Tomorrow.

News has arrived from Kansas to the effect that a large crowd is coming up Saturday to cheer the Jayhawkers.

The Kansas management has secured a three-dollar rate for the round trip, and football enthusiasts will take advantage of it. The several fraternities are planning to send large delegations. Our old rival, therefore, will not be without support when the two teams meet on Nebraska field.

Kansas has the proper spirit and is determined to make a good showing against her husky opponents. If the presence of large numbers of her sup-

PEDAGOGISTS ORGANIZE

University Club of Teachers Hold Their First Meeting—Aims of the Organization.

The Pedagogical club of the university met last night for the first time in U. 210, at 7:30 o'clock.

The club is an organization of students of the university who are taking the teachers' course and who will be eligible to take the state teachers' certificate either at the mid-winter commencement or next June. For the past five years Nebraska has issued these certificates which are good for life after the recipient has taught school for three years. From the University of Nebraska about 200 have taken these certificates and success has come to them in a remarkable degree.

Nebraska was one of the very first to introduce such a system. When the state certificates were first issued only two other states gave to their teachers anything of the sort, but now porters will be of service we may expect great things from our southern neighbor in Saturday's contest. Moreover, it will be a pleasure to hear the K. U. yell given by a respectable crowd of rooters.

Scrubs vs. Bellevue.

The second eleven will play Bellevue College Saturday. The scrubs defeated the Omaha Medics two weeks ago by the score of 16 to 0, and they are confident of winning tomorrow's contest.

The Juniors and Sophomores will meet on the gridiron November 18. The receipts will go to the college settlement.

Election returns show that Chauncey Warner of Waverly, '99, who was formerly prominent in university debating circles, has been elected representative from his home district.

practically all have followed the example and issue these certificates.

It is the idea of prominent educators to make the state certificates recognizable throughout all the states and to give to the profession of teaching a dignity that it does not now enjoy. With this in view, the pedagogical clubs of the different states are making an effort to bring about, by cooperation with each other, a universal recognition of state certificates.

The Pedagogical club of Nebraska is now a permanent organization and meets twice each year, in mid-winter and in June. The university club, however, cannot be called a branch of the larger society because its members are not holders of life certificates. It is, nevertheless, closely in touch with the teachers throughout the state and hopes to benefit its members by its wide influence. Further than this, its object is for mutual improvement and social good. The meetings will occur every month when prominent men will speak on leading questions in educational thought. A rather large crowd attended last night, which is probably merely a nucleus of what the society will become by the end of the school year.

The Medical Society.

The Medics held their usual meeting last evening and after a half hour of thorough quiz work Dr. Lillie, a new member of the university faculty, and a graduate of Harvard, was introduced and told in a very interesting manner the way in which medicine is taught at his alma mater.

He dwelt on the high standard of the school by its requiring a degree for entrance, yet there is thoroughness with which they deal with minor details. The speaker gave in part the way in which different branches are taught, which was very interesting as well as instructive to the society.

After the address the society held a short business meeting to decide upon pins for the medical school, but no definite action was taken. The design of the pin will be decided at the next meeting.

Emory Stanley was chosen as correspondent to the Pulse, the publication of the School of Medicine at Omaha.

Debates Begin.

The year's drill in debate began yesterday afternoon when arguments by four members of English 13 afforded texts for criticism by Professor Caldwell and Professor Fogg. The debate, which was on the recognition of the coal miners' union, unexpectedly afforded an example of how easy it is, though special care be taken to prevent it, for opponents to fail to meet squarely. Several visitors were present to hear the arguments and the criticism.

Requests for assayers have been received lately by the chemical department from Colorado and New Mexico.
