The Week's Convocations.

The following is the program for convocation hour for the ensuing week:

Friday—Football mass meeting.

The convocation period will be given up this morning to the better organization of the rooting squads. More effective rooting must be done in tomorrow's game than was done last Saturday.

Several important games will be played tomorrow and Nebraska is not the only team that will have to work hard to sustain her reputation. Kansas will battle with the Haskell Indians on their home grounds; Minnesota plays Wisconsin at Minneapolis, Illinois will play the Ohio State University at Columbus, Iowa and Washington (St. Louis) will clash at Iowa City, Michigan and Chicago will meet at Chicago, and Northwestern and Beloit will come together at Evanston.

Two things are necessary in order to win the game tomorrow. One requisite is a good team, and the other a well organized, scientific band of rooters. The first we certainly have, but we regret to state the second has not thus far won any great amount of success.

The trouble seems to be, not in the size of the crowd, but in their unwillingness to proclaim themselves. Leaders who understand their business and have the crowd under their control should be able to accomplish much.

If you want to do your part in winning the game, you can't accomplish anything by merely sitting on the bleachers. It is your duty to yell, and yell you must if Nebraska is to win the game.

The regular leaders will be in their places in front of the bleachers on the east side of the field. If you haven't a megaphone get one and come out and help make a noise. Yell when your leader gives the signal, and at other times save your breath. The leaders will take care to give the signal at the right time and you will have plenty of opportunity to exercise your lung power.

Encourage the team by watching the practice and cheering when good plays are made.

The classes, seem to be unusually slow in settling the hat or cap question. By this time of the year something definite should be known as to what the classes expect to do along this line.

One of the most commendable recent moves is in the direction of holding inter-class debates. The Senior and Junior academics will pave the way. This might be followed by other combinations. Since class football has been more or less a failure this year, it is a good thing to have something which can rightly take its place.

The worst has finally happened to some students who have succeeded thus far in escaping drill. The hand of the law has descended with the result that the cadet battalion will be increased in numbers. A large number of men have managed in the past to get out of drill, but the law now has been laid down, and all must drill the allotted time.

Y. M. C. A. Concert.

Lovers of music will have the rare treat of hearing the Mabelle Crawford company of Chicago. The entertainment is to be held in the First Baptist church on Friday night, November 21st, at 8:30 p. m. Professor Kimball of the University School of Music had engaged them for his annual concert, which he expected would take place at this time. But the date had to be postponed and the university Y. M. C. A. has made arrangements with the company to give a musicale at the Baptist church on this evening instead.

This company comes highly recommended. The very fact that Prof. Kimball had selected them to sing at his annual concert gives sufficient evidence of their ability. The press speaks very highly of the engagements which have been filled by this company.

The company is composed of Miss Mabelle Crawford, Ada Sheffield, Florence Chamberlain and Mr. Earl Blair. Miss Crawford is one of America's foremost contraltos. She is a singer of wide reputation and experience. She has studied with the greatest masters of Europe and America, and toured with the leading orchestras of the country.

Miss Ada Sheffield is a soprano who is coming rapidly to the front as a singer for concert programs. She has a voice of exquisite quality in the upper tones, which she uses with remarkable skill.

Miss Florence Chamberlain is a violinist who is rapidly gaining great public favor as a concert artist. Her musical training has been received almost entirely from Theodore Spiering, one of Chicago's most eminent violinists and teachers.

Earl Blair, the pianist of the company is a man of unusual attainments and has had the advantage of a most thorough and systematic musical education as a pupil of Allen Spencer, of the American Conservatory of Chicago.

Students should not fail to attend this entertainment. Further particulars will be published later. The share of the receipts received by the Y. M. C. A. will be expended in improving their parlors.

Prof. Condra will give a series of lectures before the class in geology I in the near future. Mr. Condra spent the greater part of last summer studying the glacial effects in the region of the great lakes and especially among the finger lakes of New York.

In addition to the three laws clubs at Wisconsin, a fourth one has just been formed, which is called the "Edwin E. Bryant Law Club," in honor of the dean of the law school.

The ten largest law schools in the United States with their enrollments in 1901 and 1902 are as follows: Michigan University, 835; New York Law School, 811; Harvard, 632; New York University Law School, 515; University of Minnesota, 504; Columbia, 439; University of Pennsylvania, 334; and Georgetown, 288.

C. A. Helvie, a graduate of the university, is engaged in business at Pasadena, Cal. Mr. Helvie took his doctor's degree in medicine at Rush Medical College, Chicago, and did post work here in 1901. He donated a valuable collection of embryos to the department of zoology.
