It was unfortunate it was so wet, for we might have had a celebration.

Considering the difficulties under which people labored the rooting was good.

The Chicago papers seem inclined to resent Nebraska's rise in the athletic world.

As usual the vanquished had explanations to make with a big "if" standing in front.

The red light still shone bright and beautiful upon the tower. The O still remained at the bottom.

There have been fewer complaints made as to the smoking in the grandstand than there were a week ago.

Nebraska now takes rank among the best of them. If she was an eastern school the papers would be full of her doings.

The paper has suffered recently as to the authenticity of news and its completeness by the neglect or carelessness of reporters. Too great caution can not be observed by one who stands responsible for an assignment given them.

The announcement that Harvard University will confer the degree of Bachelor of Arts at the end of three years' study, beginning with the class of 1905, may be regarded as a significant sign of the times. It is reported that Columbia University is also considering the advisability of a similar shortening its own course, concerning this change the Harper's Weekly says:

"It has been growing more and more obvious yearly to those who observe conditions that a four years' course in college, devoted wholly to the study of purely academic subjects, is at least a year too long, and, in the case of young men who are to embark upon a professional career, results in a very material loss of time without any corresponding advantage to be gained. The action of the Harvard authorities is a step in the right direction, but is it any more than a step? Are there not yet other steps to be taken by which the young man who proposed to become a doctor, or a lawyer, or a forbidden from taking part in the recent inaugural parade, and have now been notified that they must sit apart from the men during chapel exercises.

KNOX SUFFERS DEFEAT.

the ball on downs, and after hurdling for four yards Mickel gave up his place to Englehart. Cortelyou made a long run of twenty-five yards through the line. Englehart made five, but it was immediately lost on account of offside play. Bell and Englehart made good gains, but the ball was lost as a penalty for holding, on the 10-yard line. Zalusky punted to Follmer, who returned five yards, and went out in favor of Johnson, who immediately went into the game with his usual sprit. Furious line bucking carried the ball to within six inches of the Knox goal line. The visitors played "stonewall" and by phenomenal work held the Cornhuskers for downs. Zalusky punted and Nebraska secured the ball on the 10-yard line, but were again penalized for holding. Time was called before any gain could be made.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Everybody got in the swim on Saturday.

When asked how it felt one player said, "Why, like mud, of course!"

Very few people had the serenity to roost on telephone poles Saturday.

The crowd had to be good natured on Saturday. And, as a matter of fact, everybody was.

The players have come to the conclusion that they will not have to go to Europe for a mud bath.

The windows of main hall were every one filled with their quota of lookers-on Saturday. They were dead anxious to see the game, but when it came to paying their money to get in, that was a different matter.

When the Knox players appeared on the field Saturday, a young lady in the grand stand was heard to exclaim: "Oh, see that bald headed player." It was her first game and she had never seen football head gear.

The stand that was used for the sale of reserved seats on the gridiron was built in the wood shops.

"Stub" Crandle comes down to nearly every one of our big games. He says Omaha is not big enough to hold him then.

The people over the state are taking more interest in football than ever before. Springfield, a village in Sarpy county, sent down a delegation of six to see the Knox game.

Saturday's Gridiron Results.

Nebraska, 7; Knox, 0.
Minnesota, 11; Wisconsin, 0.
Yale, 12; Princeton, 5.
Northwestern, 10; Beloit, 0.
Harvard, 16; Dartmouth, 6.
Michigan, 21; Chicago, 0.
Carlisle, 5; Pennsylvania, 0.
Cornell, 28; Lafayette, 0.
Iowa, 61; Washington, 0.
Haskell, 24; Kansas, 5.
Iowa City, 11; Cornell, 5.
Drake, 0; Ames, 0.
Kentucky, 6; Cincinnati, 6.
West Point, 44; Syracuse, 0.
Danville, 21; Bloomington, 5.
Bucknell, 23; Navy, 0.

Lincoln Medics vs. Hastings.

The Lincoln Medics football team and Hastings College eleven will contest for honors this afternoon on the gridiron at 2:30 p. m. This will be a good game of minor football. The medics recently defeated the Grand Island College team and they are quite confident of victory today.

Scrubs to Play Medics.

The university second eleven will play the Omaha Medics on the home grounds next Saturday afternoon. These two teams met three weeks ago at Omaha and the Medics were defeated by a score of 16 to 0. They will come next Saturday with the determination of retrieving their former defeat.

To Decide Championship.

The Juniors and Sophomore will contest on the gridiron for championship honors tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. This promises to be an exceedingly interesting contest. The Juniors are confident of winning while the Sophomores believe they can defeat their upperclassmen by a decisive score.

By comparative score the Juniors have the stronger team, as they defeated the Academy 23 to 0, while the Sophs won from the Preps by a score of 16 to 5. But this is the only time the Juniors have lined up while the second year men have defeated the Freshmen to the tune of 11 to 0.

The Sophomores have practiced much more than the Juniors and will probably have the better team work. Nevertheless the Juniors will excel in weight and five of their men are regular players on the second eleven.

Every loyal classman will be out to shout for his team. Fifteen cents admission will be charged and the gate receipts will be expended for the benefit of the college settlement.

Thomas Johnson, the Junior half-back, is on the sick list and will be unable to enter the championship game tomorrow.

Chancellor Andrews Talks.

Chancellor Andrews occupied the convocation period Friday with a discussion of some facts and incidents gathered on his last trip to the south. He considered the problem of the black man the most interesting problem met with there. The negro remains an indefinable quantity. Even the people who live among them do not understand them.

Inquiries carried on among all class showed that in the larger cities the young blacks of both sexes are going to the bad with no likelihood of a change for the better. Out in the country the colored people are becoming more industrious and more moral. The chief reason for this is that they can not get liquor. This is a point in which the south is in advance of the north. Liquor laws, wherever any such exist, are carried out to the letter. This is of the greatest conceivable good to the blacks of both sexes, as they are excessive consumers of liquor when they can get it.

From an economic standpoint the negroes, as well as the whites, are progressing. For a long period immediately following the war all classes took advantage of the credit system to a ruinous extent. Crops were pledged and traded out at the stores before they were harvested and farms were involved in the same way. Gradually they are getting away from this sort of thing. A mortgage is given to the banker on the farm or stock and
