WE MUST HAVE SUPPORT.

Thanksgiving approaches. The last game and the climax of the football season is with Northwestern on that day. Whether we win or not is not so much the question now—that will come later. What Nebraska needs is more spirit. With the fastest team in the west, our university has a right to demand the best support the student body can give, and that means better than has been given. There are a great many who take the proper interest in all school affairs and there are others who do not do their part. The best results can come only with the united efforts of the student body.

Remember that the support given from day to day counts and the celebration of a victory, while it is a splendid affair and deserving of encouragement, does not aid in winning games as much as the support given before contests while in preparation.

From now on let every man and every woman who takes an interest in the university go out for at least ten minutes from four to six o'clock and watch and cheer the players in their practice.

The second team must now be left out of consideration. The scrubs make it possible to have a good first team. And remember that Nebraska must have a good team next year. For several evenings there have been scarcely enough scrubs out to make a team. This is a deplorable condition and is inexcusable when the amount of good material in school is considered. Second team men must get out and others ought to give them credit for the hard work they do.

There is but a few days in which we can do our duty and for the sake of the university let us do it.

Would it not be possible for those who work the semaphore to get some practice in speed. The fault found this year is that the records work so slow that the ball is out in play oftentimes before the change is made on the semaphore. Different parties have urged that this fault be remedied.

It has been suggested by those most interested that the classes should hold meetings for the purpose of arousing more interest in collegiate affairs, and especially now in football. This could well be carried out before Tuesday.

Department Debates.

In criticizing the debate in English 13 yesterday afternoon, Prof. W. G. L. Taylor was associated with Professor Fogg. The debate, the critics thought, was a good one, though marred by a good many flaws in both substance and method. Vigor characterized the discussion, some of the rebuttal being particularly effective.

The first debate of the semester in English 11a, the introductory course in debate, will take place this afternoon in U 206. E. R. Buckner and E. F. Myers and J. F. McReynolds and J. L. Clark will discuss the army canteen question.

Robbins at Convocation.

Publicity in corporate affairs was discussed by Professor Robbins of the Law School yesterday at convocation. This discussion was to have been given last week, but was deferred to allow the Rev. Dr. Ballantine to speak on the coal strike.

"In my opinion," said Professor Robbins, "legislation is the greatest factor in the development of modern corporations. Corporate control of industries is a new thing in this country, although not in the world. They are commonly regarded as the result of economic conditions. One would hesitate to become a stockholder in a corporation if it was necessary to become responsible for its debts. Any individual or set of individuals, without respect to their responsibility, may form a corporation, because there is no statute to prevent them. These laws should be repealed.

"The right to do business is inherent and existed before there was any law."

Professor Robbins summed up the evils of trusts under four heads:

First—Over-capitalization comes first because it makes unjust profits possible.

Second—Unjust discrimination.

Third—Irresponsibility of corporate officials.

Fourth—Public corruption.

Professor Robbins believes that publicity in public affairs will remove these evils.

The University club will give a dance tonight at Fraternity hall.

The Latin club met with Miss Alma Vandervere, Eighteenth and M streets, Thursday evening.

§S. D. Clinton, '02, is running a transit on the surveying party for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

The football team will go to the Oliver Thanksgiving night to see "King Dodo" after their spread at the Lincoln.

A. F. Woods, formerly of the Nebraska entomology department, is now working at Washington, D. C., as pathologist and physiologist.

Many alumni seem to be interested in mining. The chemistry department is in receipt of several samples of ore sent by graduates of the university.

Mr. Raymond Benedict, Nebraska's famous half-back, arrived in Lincoln yesterday. He came home principally to see his folks and the Northwestern game.

Miss Webster has painted several very pretty geographic photographs of the dark lantern lectures in geology.

Dainty Handkerchiefs

Our line of Holiday Handkerchiefs is ready and though there will probably be a rush at the last minute for gift handkerchiefs, still people are beginning to make earlier preparations and already choice patterns are rapidly disappearing from their boxes. Pure linen handkerchiefs begin at 5c and after that you can pay as high as $5.00.

The Initial Handkerchiefs take the lead this year. One for women has 44 INITIALS embroidered around above the hem with a tiny spray between each.

A dainty 25 cent-er is of sheerest linen with a very small script initial in the corner. This with edging sewed round would make a very pretty affair.

For every day use we are offering a special that is just the thing—pure linen 13 inches square, quarter-inch hem, a 15c value for 10c.

MEN'S INITIAL HANDKERCHIEFS, fine linen, unlaundered, 17 inches square, quarter-inch hem, a special at 10c.

Laundered Initial Handkerchiefs for men, 25c and 50c; silk with an elaborate initial, inch wide hem, 18 inches square, 50c.
