SENIORS AND OTHERS.

Seniors and other students, who intend to teach next year, should not fail to attend the session of the

STATE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION, which will be held in Lincoln, December 31, 1902, and January 1 and 2, 1903.

Teachers come hundreds of miles, from all parts of Nebraska, to attend this meeting. Students intending to teach, especially those who have had no experience as teachers,

Need to Go Much More.

The program attractions are particularly strong this year. Here are a very few of the features:—

The Week's Convocations.

The following is the convocation announcements for the week:

Wednesday—Dr. Jones continues discourse on the British Educational Bill.

Thursday—H. H. Wilson, president's message.

Friday—Music.

Wednesday, December 17, Mr. Williams.—Has Congress Gone to its Limit on the Trust Law.

Thursday, December 18, Dr. Write.—A Layman's Observation on the Political and Social Condition of Europe.

A large number of this year's students will be next year teachers, two hundred or more. Those who think of teaching should be sure to attend the sessions of the State Teachers' association during the holidays. Even others would be well paid by the attractive program offered. But those who will teach should not miss this opportunity to get into the spirit of the work in advance. The State Teachers' Association is the largest, most enthusiastic and most successful meeting in the state. 2,000 teachers will be in attendance this year. They get much more than the worth of their money not alone from the program but from one another. Students intending to teach should arrange to be in Lincoln on Dec. 31 and January 1 and 2, to attend these meetings and meet the school people.

Singing in German.

The German department of the university is soon to initiate a plan that promises to become very popular among the students interested in the German language. The idea is to organize a singing class that will meet once each week to familiarize the students with the popular melodies and folk-lore of Germany.

The plans are already well under way, but the class will probably not be able to meet until the first of the year, because the collection of ballads that will be made use of cannot be secured before that time.

The proposition struck a popular chord and over one hundred students have already signified their intention of joining the class, which will probably reach such numbers that it will be necessary to make two divisions. The movement is entirely voluntary on the part of both students and professors, and no credit will be given for the work accomplished. The class will be under the management of Professors Fossler and Grumann, but a musical director will be furnished to take charge of the exercises. Any student taking work in the department is eligible to join the class on the payment of 25 cents to pay expenses. The department proposes to use the songs in the daily classes and make the students thoroughly familiar with them before they will be taken up in the singing class. In this way the work will be facilitated and every student of German can at least become acquainted with the songs from which many of our own popular airs have been derived.

The University Engineering Society will hold a regular meeting Wednesday, Dec. 17.

Miss Josephine Duras, who has been ill so long with typhoid fever, is now convalescent.

Miss May Belle Hagenow played as violinist at the Omaha Medical Society reception last week.

Miss Mary Meeker will leave for Yuma, Colo., next semester to teach in the Yuma high school.

The regular monthly meeting of the Athletic board will take place in Dr. Clapp's office next Monday evening.

All the votes for candidates for football captain must be in by the twelfth. There are seventeen eligible voters.

Hon. Peter Grossup of Chicago will deliver a lecture on "Trusts, the Next Great Step in American Politics" in the Memorial hall Friday evening, Dec. 12. This lecture is given under the auspices of the law college. Admission free.

F. L. Goodwin, one of the national secretaries of the Y. M. C. A., desires to meet the leaders of the bible classes and all interested in bible study in the Y. M. C. A. parlors at 4 four o'clock this afternoon.

The chemistry department refined the sample of syrup recently received from the Sioux City Beet Sugar Factory, and obtained a good product from it. The product has been returned to the factory, which is highly pleased with it.
