Vacation for Holidays

The Christmas holidays begin at 6 o'clock Friday, and last until Monday, January 5.

After a number of overcoats and other wearing apparel had been stolen it was thought best to start the check room again. Most of the students at the university have a place for all their money and can ill-afford to lose overcoats. Some people seem to be following a code of morals which permits the stealing of overcoats and books.

Mr. John R. Bender, whose election as captain of the football team was announced by the Athletic board last night, received his first training in the gridiron game while attending the Sutton high school. He has been on the varsity three years and has taken part in almost every game played by the university during the past year. His work during the past season needs no comment.

Several interesting questions have been propounded to the members and students of the American history department during the past week or two. "Did the Abolitions aid or hinder the progress of Emancipation?" met with very contradictory replies, though a majority took an affirmative view of the question. "Can President and Vice President Come from the Same State?" revealed the mistaken notion of many of the students, and many of the prominent historians as well, that they could not. "Can a person be a member of the house and senate at the same time?" found no negative answer in the Constitution, nor was there anything found to prohibit the house from choosing a speaker or the senate a president pro tem from outside its membership.

There will be no 10:30 classes on Friday on account of the rendition of "The Messiah," by the University chorus, which will occupy most of the hour.

There will be a full recital of "The Messiah" this evening at 7 o'clock. There will be more than 100 people in it, instead of more than fifty, as stated yesterday.

The second pupils' recital will take place tonight, December 16, in the new chapel. There will be about twelve numbers. As no admission fee is charged, a large attendance is expected.

Kappa Alpha Theta held an initiation at the home of Miss Robbins Saturday evening. Miss Zola Dellecker of Omaha was the initiate. After the ceremony a banquet was held at the same place.

It is hoped that every fraternity man will stay by the Pan-Hellenic congress in their attempt to readjust the exorbitant hack rates. Every man should follow the directions of the congress for next Friday evening.

The University club gave its annual vacation hop at Fraternity hall Friday evening. Owing to so many other attractions on the same evening there was not a very large number in attendance, but those present enjoyed the excellent music and dancing to a late hour.

At a meeting of the Sophomore class of Iowa University, resolutions of regret were passed for their actions in breaking up the Freshman dance two weeks ago, and they expressed their willingness to settle damages done by the class. Proprietor Buckley, of the hotel in which the dance was being held, estimates the damage done to his property at $165.

Vacation at the Conservatory begins December 24 and ends January 2, required.
