The State Association is a great thing for the new teacher. Two or three new acquaintances among teachers may be the means of getting you the position you want next year, to say nothing of the program. Don't forget the days: Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, December 31, 1902, and January 1 and 2, 1903. Programs and Enrollment blanks in Registrar's office

Today at Convocation

"The Messiah" which will be rendered this morning, is one of the largest musical events of the year. Over 125 students will participate in the chorus, and will be assisted by a string orchestra, Miss Burruss, Miss Fiske, Mr. Johnston and Mr. Starr, as soloists.

Mr. Clark takes his company of players to York tomorrow night and Fairbury Saturday.

Prof. A. E. Sheldon will visit the Great Sioux reservation in South Dakota next week, where he will spend a few days in historical research among the Indians.

Mr. Charles Engel, whose duties as football manager ended with the election of Mr. Buckner yesterday, is deserving of great praise for the manner in which he managed the team. The position of manager is one of great responsibility, the duties are both numerous and perplexing, and much of the success of the season depends upon the manager. We congratulate Mr. Engel for having acquitted himself so creditably.

It is unfortunate that through necessity the state teachers' institute is held during the holiday season, at the time when the students are absent from the university. It is an invaluable chance for any student who intends to teach next year to get acquainted with the educators of the state.

Besides this the program offered is worth listening to and is worth the registration fee and expense of being in attendance. Every student who intends to go into teaching would find it to the utmost importance that he or she be in the city during those days.

Debate Questions Settled

Two of the inter-state questions have been definitely decided upon. The Kansas question is, "Resolved, That as a general principle the continuous operation of public service industries in the United States should be insured by legislation compelling the arbitration of disputes between the companies and their employes."

The other question is, "Resolved, That experiences proved that the concentration of vast aggregations of capital in the hands of single private manufacturing corporations is inimical to public welfare."

These questions are regarded by the Debating board as most excellent. They are live, present-day questions, and the students who investigate them will be well repaid by the knowledge they will acquire on two of the most important questions engaging the attention of the country—trusts and compulsory arbitration.

In the preliminary debates these questions will be discussed. The dates of the preliminaries have not been set, but they will undoubtedly take place late in January.

To prepare for the preliminaries a number of the candidates for places on the inter-state teams have arranged to remain in Lincoln all or part of the vacation.

Sorry to Refuse

The arrival of a challenge to debate from the law school of Georgetown University makes the Debating board regretful that it has not the money to warrant the establishment of debate relations with an eastern institution with the rank in debate that Georgetown has. The Georgetown law students are mainly college graduates. For several years their debating teams have been very strong. Georgetown has debated with the University of Pennsylvania.

J. P. Koehler, last year's football center, and popularly known as "Deacon," appeared at the university yesterday. He looks bigger than ever and attests to the training of Coach Stagg of Chicago. "Deacon" has been playing guard with Chicago the past season and made a good record. He is now on his way to Superior to spend the holidays at his home. He officiated at the basket ball games last night.

Reynold Kanzler of Kearney, was a guest of his brother Jacob at the Delta Upsilon house Tuesday.

The students in the short course in agriculture will begin work in the shops after the Christmas holidays.

Professor Swezey will leave for Washington, D. C., Saturday, where he will attend the meeting of the association for the advancement of sciences. Professor Swezey will not return until after the holidays.

MILLER & PAINE

With many people reputation is largely a matter of locality; to them the quality of a thing depends on the place from which it comes.

In the matter of location the Effete East has an advantage over the Progressive West. People accord to one things which the other has to secure by the hardest kind of fighting.

We may not be from Boston, but we make as good chocolates as anybody on earth. The taste is there; the quality is there; the appearance is there. What more do you want?
