

The Daily Nebraskan.

VOL. 2 NO. 68.

LINCOLN, NEBRASKA, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 7, 1903.

PRICE THREE CENTS.

THOSE JUNIOR HATS

Class of '04 Causes a Sensation Upon the Campus—The Hats a Striking Novelty.

The class of '04 is the first to appear in class headgear this year. The girls have been wearing their caps for some time and the boys appeared in their new hats yesterday. The hats are decidedly odd in color, shape and design, as the class intended they should be. They are olive green and red in color, of soft flannel-like material, and bear no class numerals. Being of this soft material they can be placed in the pocket or even sat upon without injuring them and will be very easy to "swipe." The hats can be secured by calling on E. P. Tyner at L 102 during convocation hour. New orders may also be left with him.

Bret Hart's Estate

It appears that Bret Harte left an estate which is valued at only $1,800, but he also left an estate which is invaluable, since it is beyond price. He was richer both in his life and in his death than a convention of multi-millionaires. We can think of no one who would be entitled to a seat in that convention who would match him in the power to get or to give. There have been some of the class who had their start in mining camps, and who enjoyed the experience, but Harte saw many things beyond the range of their vision. His sensitive temperament, his fancy, his imagination, not only multiplied the objects, but reveled in them, responded to every touch of humor and pathos, to every inspiring suggestion of man and nature. Hence the quality of his enjoyment was unapproachable, and when the period of observation was past there was a new enjoyment in the exercise of that art which made him not only the first but probably the greatest of writers of short stories in the modern style. While the memory of the camp was growing less distinct with others, he accepted all the old pleasures by re-creating picture after picture and so saved them for all time.

It was thus that he built the great estate which compares with the estates of the multi-millionaire as his best happiness does with theirs. This is said without any intention to disparage industrial genius, its material contributions to human progress or its public benefactions. We are considering now merely the value of the possession to the individual himself and to his future fame, and it is safe to say that from this point of view nine people out of ten would rather be Bret Harte than a Rockefeller or a Carnegie.—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Christmas souvenir edition of the Wisconsin Daily Cardinal, issued on December 22, 1902, is very attractive.

School of Music Notes

Mr. George Johnston is in Chicago for a few days.

Miss Lena Fricke visited Miss Dumont during the holidays.

Miss Bess Burruss is visiting her sister in Nebraska City for a few days.

Miss Lulu Crawford, a former pupil at the conservatory, is instructing a class of pupils at Central City, Neb.

Misses Kate Gellatly of Fairbury, Maude Stevens and Pearl Younger of Geneva, and Marie Mayland of Seward, are new students at the conservatory.

Interstate Debates

With the return of the students earnest work in preparation for the preliminary debates has begun. Several men have registered already and many more intend to do so. All those who are going to try for places on the inter-state teams should register as soon as possible with Secretary Meier of the debating board.

ACADEMY PEOPLE BUSY

Girls to See Pictures—Debating and Basket Ball Receive Attention—Mr. Hodge-man Surprised.

The boys' debating club will hold its first meeting Friday evening at 7:30. Much enthusiasm has been developed, and a strong club is almost assured.

Basket ball is receiving considerable attention from the young men of the Academy, and it is hoped that a strong team may be the result. January 15th the team will play the Tecumseh high school team, which will be the first out of town game this year.

The Girl's Social Hour club will take advantage of the rare opportunity to see the productions of the best American artists, and meet in the university art gallery next Monday from 3 to 4 o'clock. This visit to the art rooms will

To Be Worth While

As was stated in yesterday's issue of the "Daily Nebraskan," the Shedd benefit will be given Friday evening, January 9th, in Memorial hall.

The business men of the city and the university professors are putting forth great efforts to make the entertainment a success. What is now needed is support from the student body, which will undoubtedly be forthcoming. Several fraternities and literary societies have signified their intention to attend in a body.

An excellent program has been arranged and every student who can attend Friday night should take advantage of the opportunity to witness a first-class entertainment and at the same time aid in a worthy cause.

Repetition of Course

It is hoped to repeat the course in zoology during the second semester and to offer the opportunity of taking zoology II in the summer school. This will enable those who desire to start on the six year medical course at the beginning of the second semester to undertake the work as it stands in the catalogue. No definite hour has been decided upon. It is desirable that students who are planning to take this work announce their intention early in order that the most feasible hour may be decided upon, and that preparations may be made for the laboratory work.

Legislative Elections

At yesterday's session of the legislature J. H. Mockett, jr., of Lincoln, was elected speaker of the house, John Wall, of Arcadia, was made chief clerk, and A. Wiltse of Moorefield, sergeant-at-arms.

In the senate the important officers elected were as follows: Secretary, A. R. Kelm, Falls City; sergeant-at-arms, Capt. L. L. Russell, Fremont.

Military Athletics

The war department has seen fit to encourage athletic exercises in the army, and in pursuance of this policy Major General Bates, commanding the department of the lakes, has set apart one day of each month to be devoted to athletic sports. When practicable the recreation will be enlivened with music.

How to Kill a College Paper

1. Do not subscribe. Borrow your neighbor's paper. Be a sponge.
2. Look up the advertisers and trade with the other fellow. Be a chump.
3. Never hand in a news item and criticize everything in the paper. Be a cox-comb.
4. If you are a member of the staff play pool or ten-pins when you ought to be tending to your business. Be a shirk.
5. Tell your neighbor that you pay too much for the paper. Be a squeeze.
6. If you can't get a hump on your anatomy and help make the paper a success be a corpse.

Columbia has established a course in automobile engineering.

SHEDD BENEFIT

MEMORIAL HALL

Friday, 8 P. M. - Jan. 9, '03.

ADMISSION 50 CENTS.

Postoffice Box for Cadets

A large postoffice box was placed in the east end of the armory near the door, during vacation. It is to be used by the military department exclusively, in communicating with cadets. Each company has a tier of boxes arranged in alphabetical order and cadets are requested to watch them for mail. This improvement has been needed for some time and will be welcomed by all concerned.

Padlocks on Lockers

Some much needed improvements were made in the men's locker room during vacation. The combinations were removed from all the lockers and they were fitted with latches. Every one who uses the lockers will provide himself with a padlock and key of his own and carry and keep the key himself. Padlocks can be secured from Jack Best. This change will eliminate to a great extent the further loss of property and confusion arising from the combination method of locking. Besides much time will be saved.

The Michigan university band is now under its own management and all receipts for services rendered are divided among the members.

take the place of the regular weekly meeting of the club. A serious study of the pictures will be made and a profitable time is contemplated.

Principal Hodgman and wife were very delightfully surprised on the Thursday evening just preceding the holiday vacation. An onslaught was made on the principal by the students and teachers of the Academy, who, after taking possession of his home for a time, left a dozen solid silver spoons as souvenirs of the occasion, and as a token of good wishes. The affair was planned entirely by the students and proved to be a perfect surprise.

The Lincoln Academy girl's poster appeared just before Christmas and was distributed with the compliments of the management to teachers and students of the Academy and to superintendents and principals of the state during the association meeting. A few copies have been placed on sale at the Co-Op, and the University book store. The poster is the first one ever produced in the state by purely home talent. It is a neat piece of work and reflects much credit on those who had the matter in hand. The drawing was done by Miss Beans, the coloring by Miss Hayden, and the etching by Miss Cornell.