The address given by L. C. Burnett of Nebraska City, before the Agriculturalists Wednesday morning, was said to have been one of the best given this session. Mr. Burnett received great applause, congratulations and thanks for the enlightenment given in his paper.

Charles A. Scott, who is in charge of the government forest reserve in western Nebraska, called at the department of botany headquarters recently to consult some books on forestry in the library. Mr. Scott spent several days in visiting the nurseries in and around Lincoln and in studying the trees in this section. He is stationed at Halsey.

The American history seminar is engaged in making investigation as to the original election districts of the state in 1854. This work is one of extreme difficulty and involves considerable research. Many of the volumes and records of the Historical Society are being consulted and are found to contain much valuable information on the above subject.

On account of the examinations next week and the difficulty which would be experienced in distributing the paper and also so as to allow the editors of the paper a chance to redeem themselves in their scholarship on account of past newspaper interests, the paper will not be published until February 2. It will be ready for distribution on the first day of the second semester.
