Alfred B. Lyon, academic '97 and law '01, writes for the University paper from Mexico. Since his graduation Mr. Lyon has traveled considerably about the southern and southwestern parts of the United States, and has accumulated a large amount of interesting material. A little portion of this was given his University friends in the form of a talk on the negro question before Professor Caldwell's classes in the spring of 1901. More of it The Nebraskan hopes to have before long in the shape of a letter from him on Mexican life and manners.

The Colorado Game.

Colo. Springs, Feb. 12th.

Special Correspondence to The Nebraskan: Nebraska once more carried her banner victoriously at the Temple theatre, Colorado Springs. The local team was clearly outclassed. They showed lack of practice and experience. The game was very slow, owing partly to this, and partly to the slippery floor. The attendance was about 130, but their cheers did not avail much. The game was striking by its entire absence of rough play. The feature of the game was Eliott's goal throwing. Benedict made a sensation by throwing a goal almost across the field. The team is standing the trip splendidly, and the altitude seems to make them play all the better. No one seems to get any satisfaction from the answer to the question whether the altitude affects them or not. The team is confident of beating Boulder, which team is considered the best in the state. Between halves the college quartet rendered two fine selections. Everybody was well pleased with the game and could not help but express their admiration at the way in which our boys handled the ball in catching and passing. The line-up:

Colorado.	Pos.	Goals.	Fouls.
Shaw	C	..	..
Mead	G	1	..
Ingersol	G	..	..
Churchill	F	2	5
Keplinger	F	..	..
Nebraska:
Hewitt	C	4	2
Benedict	G	2	..
Hiltner	G	1	..
Elliot	F	8	1
Ferguson	F	2	..

Referee: Professor Stillwell.
Umpires: Baker and Newton.
Score: 37 to 11.
