

Those of Other Days

Anna Rogers, '91, has been quite ill in New York city.

Few remember, perhaps, that Major J. J. Pershing, now doing such good service in the Philippines, is U. of N. law, '93.

Miss Laura A. Haggard, '89, resigned her place in the Lincoln schools in January, and has gone to Omaha to teach.

C. P. Anderberg, law '96, had business with the supreme court Tuesday and Wednesday. He has now returned to Minden.

Mr. Geo. L. Sheldon, '92, of Nehawka, is being interviewed by his old friends at his place as senator in the present legislature.

Charles Purcell, of North Bend, a University student in '00, is visiting college friends. Mr. Purcell has been attending Leland Stanford since 1900.

A former student, Miss Mabel Amber Barnaby, was married at Minneapolis, January 28, to Mr. Otis Frank Hartquest. They will live at 1221 D, Lincoln.

Mrs. A. C. Fling (Miss Maude Hammond) '96, spent several days recently with her relatives and friends in Lincoln, but has now returned to Nebraska City.

The friends of Dr. Geo. E. Howard, '76, and Mrs. Howard hear from them occasionally from Cambridge, Mass., where Dr. Howard is engaged in historical writing.

Dr. G. W. Botsford, '84, who accepted a place on the historical staff at Columbia, has a new book that is receiving favorable comment from the critics for its excellent English and its marks of ripe scholarship.

E. M. Pollard, '92, of Nehawka, was in Lincoln the early part of the week, instructing the revenue committee of the legislature. Mr. Pollard, while a member of the legislature in '99 and '01, spent much time on the subject and is said to be very well versed in it.

S. W. Pinkerton, '98, who is in the employ of a law-book firm of St. Louis, is reported by his friends as enjoying his work and doing well at it. A liberal raise in his salary, recently, attests that "Sam" is as popular with his employers as he was among the University students of his day.

Tuesday evening Star: Charles J. Warner, representative for Lancaster county, received a telephone message from his home at Waverly Tuesday noon, announcing the death of his mother. Mrs. Warner was a woman of advanced age and her illness was of but short duration. Mr. Warner left for Waverly immediately upon receipt of the message.

Professor Haven Metcalf, who was one of the instructors in Botany last year, returned to the University during examination week and took his examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. He was accompanied by his wife, and they were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Bessey during their stay in the city. They are now located at Clemson College, South Carolina, where he is Professor of Botany.

Members of the Graduate Faculty are now examining the thesis presented by Dr. Metcalf for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. It is in the Chancellor's office, where it will remain until the 12th of this month. It consists of a discussion and description of the micro-organism which he has found to be the cause of a peculiar disease of the sugar beets in Nebraska and other western states.

The last number of the Berichte der Deutschen Botanischen Gesellschaft contains the announcement of the nomination of Ernst A. Bessey, '96, to membership in that society. As this is the highest botanical society in the world, Mr. Bessey's friends are much pleased, especially as the honor came to him within a month of his entrance to the University of Halle. He was nominated by two of the professors under whom he is studying in the university.

P. V. Ross, university student of 1900, who was compelled to leave school in the middle of the year and travel westward for the recovery of his health, writes as follows from San Francisco to one of his former University professors:

"I have been in San Francisco most of the time since leaving Lincoln, doing as well as could be expected. My practice is not large, but my time apart from it (which is large) I have devoted to editorial writing for the Bancroft-Whitney Company, law-book publishers of this city. I have engaged in this work for over two years. Most of the writing has been done on the American State Reports, a series of books made up of the most important current cases decided by the supreme courts of the American commonwealths. Besides these cases we write for each volume some two hundred pages of notes on various subjects of present-day importance. We issue six volumes a year. Mr. A. C. Freeman, the well known author of works on judgments, executions, etc., is the editor-in-chief. Most of my work in this line consists in writing syllabi and the notes just referred to. The note writing is an especially valuable training and more to my taste than the turmoil of practice, to say nothing of the cheerful financial aspect of it."
