A BAND AGAIN.

Cadet Organization Once More in Vigorous Activity.

During the past week the band has been completely reorganized, and no apprehension need now be felt in regard to its progress in the future. Matters have so shaped themselves that all misunderstandings have been cleared away and the present outlook is most encouraging. Absolute harmony has been established between the band and the military department, the demoralizing complications that arose last fall having been amicably settled. Most of the old men who left the band for various reasons last fall have now returned and are making their presence felt. The long period of inactivity seems to have stimulated the spirits of the players so that the interest in practice is all that could be desired. The band is now fully up to its old standard in membership, which includes twenty-two players, and after a week of hard practice promises soon to attain to its former high standard of excellence. In the future special attention will be given by the band to the social side of University life, and a series of dancing parties will be held in the armory under its auspices. As a committee to have charge of the necessary arrangements, President Pepperburg has appointed the following: M. P. Campbell, chairman; R. H. Jenne, master of ceremonies; F. Fairman, A. Hayman, J. L. Clark, D. M. Clark, and Mr. Cornell. It is hoped that the arrangements for the first of these dances may be perfected so that it will take place in about two weeks. The proceeds will be used for the purchase of music and instruments. In order that nothing may be done to impede the progress of the band, now that it is once more established upon a firm footing, the military department has excused from its classes on Friday all members of the band who were formerly obliged to attend. According to present plans, practice will be held in the band room three days of the week, and on the campus the other two if the weather permits.

A concert will be given in chapel Friday morning by the revived organization and this will be the place for every student to be present and show his appreciation of the faithful work that has been done to give the University a good and efficient band.

Stanford's Prize Song

The Leland Stanford Girls' Glee Club prize of $10 for the best Stanford song has been awarded the following verses and chorus:

I.	II.
Youngest of the colleges, we raise our voice to thee; Let thy pillared arches echo clear and strong 'Till the Coast Range flings the sound across the peaceful sea, Alma Mater, dearest mother, hear our song.	Now all life is fair and free, our blood flows full and red, Pride of youth is ours to give and hearts of cheer, While we sing the Stanford spirit that shall live and spread, Through the changeless love of those who hold thee dear.
CHORUS	III.
Still shall we cherish Tender love for three. Faith that will not perish It shall be. Thy banner o'er us, Thine the love that springs; With this rousing chorus Stanford rings.	Though thy sons and daughters scatter far and wide away, Still the old life beckons where the old quad lies, When the west is robed in splendor at the close of day, In the homeward wandering heart this song shall rise.

We believe Nebraska can improve on this, and hope the May announcement will give us a song having the true western swing and dash. A college song is a difficult proposition, and even a $100 prize will not produce it if the song genius is lacking; but we covet at least a 100 per cent improvement on the Stanford effort.

Girls' Basket Ball.

The second match Saturday afternoon, when the alumnae play the 'varsity, will be between the "midget" team and the University second team. The "midgets" do not expect to win, but will endeavor to give their taller opponents practice for their next week's match with Kansas University.

Night practice for the two University teams was held Tuesday from 7 till 8 in the armory. The first team won by a decisive score, but playing by both teams was swift and brilliant. For almost the first time the whole 'varsity team was out for practice, wearing their new suits of dark blue and red. They made an attractive showing.
