

The Daily Nebraskan

Baker Instead of Kansas.

The management of the girls' basketball teams received a final message Wednesday night from Kansas demanding "first team or none," and were compelled to reply, "none." To supply the place made vacant by the Kansas withdrawal, the offer of Baker University has been accepted, and the games for Friday night will therefore be Haskell vs. Nebraska First Team, and Baker University (Kas.) vs. Nebraska Second Team. A match between Baker University and the U. of N. girls' team was almost arranged in 1899, then given up because Baker was accustomed to outdoor and Nebraska to indoor playing.

The names and positions of the Haskell players have been received, and are as follows:

Oma Waybourne (Wyandotte) and Mary Hauser (Cheyenne), centers.

Alice Ma Cauley (Chippewa) and Amelia La Bissonniere (Wyandotte), guards.

Mamie Setter (Chippewa) and Irene Sarter (Clatsop), forwards.

Against these will play the Nebraska 'varsity team, captained by Miss Elva Sly, '03: forwards, Minnie Jansa, Cora Scott; centers, Pearl Archibald, Edith Craig; guards, Alice Towne, Elva Sly.

The Indian team is said to play a swift, clean game, and is admittedly stronger than K. S. U.

The Pocket Book Case.

Later developments appear to indicate that the letter published in yesterday's paper concerning a stolen pocket-book was genuine in both explanation and intention. The initials attached to the letter, but not published in the paper, have been found to correspond with those of an out-of-town young lady who was at the time visiting a University friend. So far as we can learn, there is no inclination to push the investigation any farther, and it is hoped the unfortunate incident may soon pass from University memory. Just why such a surprising impulse should have moved the young lady to commit the theft is wholly a mystery; but that it was purely a momentary "fall from grace," and not any part of a deliberate course, appears quite evident.

Meanwhile, petty thieving seems to go on with scarcely an interruption. When even steel rings are stolen from note book, and small quantities of paper are taken therefrom, it is difficult to determine whether the theft is prompted by a desire for the property or by pure malice. It is to be hoped, in either case, that someone happens on the culprit or culprits soon, and through exposure or its alternative succeeds in putting an end to this constant annoyance.

Dante Address.

At the next meeting of the Graduate club, to be held Saturday, March 21st, Rev. M. J. Stritch, dean of the college of literature of Creighton University, will give an address upon Dante. Rev. Stritch is one of the best informed Dante scholars in the west, and the Graduate club counts itself especially fortunate in securing his services for this occasion. The meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sawyer, corner of Seventeenth and F. All local alumni are invited.

Warner's Library Bill May Pass.

Our reporter is informed that Mr. C. J. Warner's bill, drawing more clearly the line between the Capitol, State Historical, and University libraries, is very likely to receive favorable consideration at the hands of the legislature, and be speedily enacted into law. Mr. Herdman, of the Capitol library, is reported as endorsing the bill, and the other two libraries, less affected by the provisions of the bill, are reported as presenting no opposition to its passage. If passed, it will probably be found necessary to interpret the "law books" clause as embracing such books as constitutional histories and records of convention and legislative proceedings, such as Elliot's Debates and Madison's Journal. If this is not done, legislation and executive officials will probably find the usefulness of the Capitol library for reference purposes much handicapped.

A bill has also recently been introduced permitting the state historical society to become the storage place of valuable state, county, and local records of more than twenty years' existence, in case they contain historical material and are not in use in their present places of deposit. The bill, if favorably acted upon, will increase the value of the historical society's library enormously for research work upon state history, and will appreciably add several lines of work now under way, but handicapped by the scattered condition of the original materials. Students of Nebraska history hope the legislature may look with favor on this bill, especially as it adds no expense to the state budget, and is operative only on consent of the local officials, and so can produce no friction.

J. A. Green is pledged Delta Upsilon.

Miss Margaret Porter is on the sick list.

F. C. Volck is confined to his room with sickness this week.

The class in dairy husbandry II will meet at the state farm Saturday.

Ross Druhner, law '01, now practicing at McCook, spent Sunday with University friends.

The fifth regular students' recital of the school of music will be held one week from Monday in Memorial hall.

Professor Bessey has just finished a series of lectures on the structure and classification of the orchids, before the class in systematic botany.

A new Y. M. C. A. mission study class has been organized and is making a study of a work entitled "The Geography of Foreign Missions."

Hugo Honig has returned to his work in the University, after a week's recuperation at his home in South Omaha from a spell of sickness.

Mr. W. B. Cartmel, U. S. national bureau of standards, has completed his report of the past two years' researches and sent it to the publishers.

In general botany Professor Bessey is now lecturing on the ferns. The class is engaged in laboratory work on this interesting group of plants.

Miss Bonnie Forbes, '02, who entered the University the first of this semester for graduate work, has gone to her home at Fremont on account of ill health.

Dr. Skinner of the physics department is getting out a new vacuum pump which is a decided improvement over other pumps from the standpoint of rapid and thorough evacuation.

The regular meeting of the Young Women's Christian association will be held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Union hall. Miss Alina Wilson will sing. All women invited to be present.

A new baseball pitcher yesterday increased the already copious squad of Nebraska twirlers. James Beltzer has registered, and declared his intention of trying for the team of '03. Mr. Beltzer is a man of considerable experience, and filled the box part of last season for McCook. The number of pitchers in proportion to catchers this year is very striking.
