The joint party of the three societies held last Friday evening was a crowning event in society circles. The large art hall beautifully decorated with the many colors of the three societies, fine art pictures and statues offset by the green of palms, the evening dresses of the guests, all made bright by the countless electric lights above, gave a most pleasing and fascinating effect. The societies were honored by the presence of the chancellor, who mingled with the guests for a short time, enjoying the evening and lending dignity to the occasion.

The mode of entertainment was as unique and pleasing as it was novel. The committee had prepared programs on scarlet and cream cards, which consisted of a list of ten topics for conversation as follows: What is beauty; Exams; Who is Cupid; The Theatre and its Influences; Dancing and Card Playing; Uni Profs; Boarding House Hash; Are Lies Justifiable; Coeducation; Uni Sparks. When everyone had secured partners for each of these, five minutes was allowed to talk upon each topic. This plan kept the large crowd continually moving so that at no time did interest lag.

The partners in the tenth set were reserved for the grand march which followed, led by Miss Eliza Meier and Mr. Anderson. Seventy-six couples were in the grand march and about thirty did not take part, which would make the attendance about one hundred and eighty. After the march Miss Sargent rendered a piano solo, "The Sleigh Bells," which was played by request and greatly enjoyed. Mr. Bates followed with a most humorous reading of Tom Sawyer, which kept the audience in continual laughter and elicited a hearty encore. Mr. Bates responded with "The Pillow Fight." The violin solo by Mr. Hasted was enjoyed by everyone. The Delian male quartette then held the interest of the crowd for some time and responded to the second encore. While the program was being rendered the young ladies of the refreshment committee served ice cream, wafers and candy to all. Punch was served during the entire evening. Almost before the guests had finished their refreshments the night watch appeared and gave the signal for departure. The many society people went merrily home, pronouncing the event the most successful of its kind they had ever attended.

Much credit is due Mr. Spafford, chairman of the joint committee, who superintended the whole affair from beginning to end, and also to Miss Vera Maughlin, mistress of ceremonies, who planned and conducted the amusements. The affair is a commendable illustration of what can be done in university without dancing and card playing. Whether this annual function will hereafter include those forms of amusements or not remains to be seen.

The party Friday night serves as a precedent, at any rate.

Miss Kathleen Erskine of St. Paul, who has been visiting Miss Chadwick at the Tri Delt house, left for her home on Sunday.*
Miss Maude Williams gave a house party on Friday and Saturday of last week. Misses Edna and Alice Spears, Edna Harpham, Viola Gray, Jennie, Helen and Elsie Piper, Carrie Damon and Mabel Williams were pleasantly entertained.*
The engagement of Miss Bessie Burruss to Mr. Fred Funke has been announced. Both are well known in University social circles, Miss Burruss being a member of Pi Beta Phi and Mr. Funke of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. The wedding will take place early in June.*
It has been definitely decided to hold the next band dance in the armory on Saturday night, April 4th. The dance will be conducted similar to the first one held two weeks earlier, and the committee expects to make it as successful in every way. A large crowd is expected.*
Each year we look forward to the coming of the non-commissioned officers' hop with great expectations. This year the committee wish to make it one that will be remembered for many years as the most pleasant event of the year from the social standpoint.

This year, providing the evening is pleasant and the walking is good, the non-commissioned officers will appear in white duck trousers and blue blouses. It is hoped that the officers will take some action in regard to this also.

The "hop" which, as you all know, is informal, will be held the 24th of April and the committee assures that all who attend will have an excellent time.

The following are the committee arranging for the hop: Harris, chairman; Hupp, master of ceremonies; Loomis, Bell, Kanzler, Mohrman, and Brown.

Latin Courses Altered.

Next year there will be an alteration in the courses offered by the Latin department and several new ones will be added. Of recent years an historical element has entered into the study of the Latin language. Accordingly a number of the present courses will be somewhat altered and a number of new ones of an historical character added. These courses will bear upon ancient Roman life and civilization. One will deal entirely with the ancient Roman woman—her manner of dress, social condition and other interesting points in regard to her life. Another will treat of the personal and material characteristics of the Roman people. A tentative course on the Latin element in English will also be offered. The purpose of this course is to give instruction on the composite and derivative nature of the English language. Its purpose is to help students in modern languages who have had little or no Latin. Some of the older courses will be altered so as to include a study upon the life and civilization of the Roman people.
