BELTZER WILL REGISTER.

Chancellor Says He May Enter the Law School.

James Beltzer will register Monday. When interviewed yesterday he said he would register Monday in the law school; that he had interviewed the chancellor, who had given him permission to do so. Further, the registrar stated yesterday that Beltzer could register in the law school if he desired, as the fourth term begins Monday.

Baseball enthusiasts will rejoice to hear this news. Last Tuesday it was published that Mr. Beltzer would not be permitted to enter school, and would soon return home. The matter was considered settled, but new developments have taken place with the above results. Dr. Clements, chairman of the baseball committee, said that this committee would now have no jurisdiction over the affair, and the decision of the authorities in letting him register would be considered as final action in the matter. Thus it is a settled fact that Beltzer will twirl the sphere for the Cornhusker nine this year. This is very encouraging to all vitally concerned, as he is considered the best candidate for the box in the field.

The Northwestern Meet.

In sanctioning the meet with Northwestern, at yesterday's board meeting, the athletic board clearly demonstrated the fact that track athletics will be given more support than ever before. In other years we have not had what may be termed, deservedly, a good meet. Track athletics, in fact, have never been accorded the proper support because of the scarcity of good athletes or other unfavorable conditions, but this year will mark a new era in this line of sport.

The conditions this season are, fortunately, different from those of other years; we have a splendid coach and plenty of promising material. The board recognizes these changed conditions and intends to give the men interested in track athletics an opportunity to show what can be done. The track manager was authorized to guarantee Northwestern $275. This means that considerable work will have to be done in order to make the meet a financial success, but it is believed that if the efforts of those interested are properly directed a large crowd will turn out. This will be the only meet of any consequence held on our home grounds and inasmuch as it is with a strong team from one of the "Big Nine" institutions it is felt that the necessary support will be forthcoming.

The general feeling is that track athletics should be given a fair show and that the only way to do this is by supporting the team on a large scale, by giving the public something worthy of their patronage. The prospects for a strong team have never been more favorable and the athletic board is to be congratulated for the stand it has taken.

Summer School Edition

Roosevelt April 27th.

The President and party will visit Lincoln April 27, about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. They arrive via the Burlington from Hastings and after the exercises here leave over the Elkhorn for Fremont. Congressman Burkett will have charge of the program.

In 1900 a large number of University students saw the President—then the Republican candidate for the vice-presidency—on his campaign tour of the west. A good many more expected to see him last year, but were disappointed by the abrupt ending of his trip on account of the Massachusetts accident to the presidential company. All of them will contribute to the immense crowd which will undoubtedly gather at the capitol grounds, where the President will probably speak. He will be escorted through the city by the University cadet battalion and the G. A. R. post.

German Acquisitions.

The German department is rejoicing over the receipts of four very fine pictures. These pictures are photographs from the original paintings, and all the details are present. Two of them are by K. Diehlitz, the famous German painter. His "Nach Walhall," or "To Valhalla," is well known to all lovers of art; his other one is "Siegfried Fafnerstoter" ("Siegfried slaying the dragon"). The third picture is by C. Ehrenberg, and is known as "Die Nornen" ("The Fates"). It is a wonderfully fine conception. The fourth is "Weimar, 1803," by von Otto Knille, showing in a splendid arrangement the great German celebrities, including poets, critics, scientists and men of scholarly attainments. These pictures are exceptionally fine, and it is no small privilege to be able to study them. They will be framed and hung in the recitation rooms.

Up to Omaha.

The students at the medical school in Omaha and the alumni of the University in that city will have a chance to support a real college affair by going to the Glee Club concert next Saturday night at the First Methodist church. Arrangements have been completed to make this a big affair, and all Omaha people who are friends of the University will be out en masse. Already enough tickets have been sold to pay expenses.

The club is composed of twenty-one members, counting reader and vocal and instrumental soloists. The program offered by the club is extremely varied, from the light college and comical songs to the heaviest works of "Faust" and other strong productions.

Professor Starr, the leader of the club, is instructor of vocal music in the school of music and soloist in the St. Paul's Methodist church of Lincoln. The program given in Lincoln in February was a decided success, and the club scored a high reputation.

Cards have been sent out this week from the executive office addressed to the University alumnae, and signed by Drs. Bessey and Fling, Mr. H. G. Shedd and Miss Edith Higgins as committee on arrangements, reading as follows: "Memorial services for Ellen Smith, many years registrar of the University of Nebraska, will be held in Memorial hall on Friday, April 24th, 1903, from 10 to 11 o'clock in the forenoon. The University invites you to join in this last tribute."

Notwithstanding the censure of other firms, during the past year we increased the pay of all our tailors above the union scale. Our purpose was to bring in from other cities and add to our already skillful corps of workmen that we might do the very best for our patrons. A first-class cutter is the thing, but you must give him skilled workmen.—Paine.

For rent soon—several unfurnished rooms at 312 North 14th.

SENATE KILLS IT.

Warner's Library Bill Is Indefinitely Postponed.

The three libraries owned by the state and located in Lincoln will retain their present systems of acquisition and classification of books. Mr. C. J. Warner's bill providing for making the capitol library more exclusively a law library was indefinitely postponed by the senate Thursday, in spite of the strenuous endeavor of its originator to get it passed. Although the local interests affected by the bill appeared to favor it, and favorable action had been secured on the part of the house, the protest of the legal fraternity throughout the state caused the senate to turn it down. The reason given for such a protest is that out-of-town lawyers, when coming to Lincoln to consult books in the state library, almost invariably wish to make use of other than law books alone, and would find it very inconvenient to be compelled to travel about from one library to another in order to obtain the desired references. The senate has been unfavorable to the bill from the first, and Mr. Warner was able only by the exercise of considerable pressure to secure a favorable report by the senate committee to which his measure had been referred for consideration. To the task of winning over the senate in committee of the whole he was unequal, and his measure was numbered among the lost.

University people have been rather interested in than concerned with the progress of Mr. Warner's bill. Its passage would probably have increased somewhat the number of volumes in and the general efficiency of the two libraries now located on the campus, and would have decreased a little the expense of maintaining a third, by doing away with present duplication. Not enough was thought of these three gains, however, to cause an attempt to secure the passage of the bill against any pronounced protest from other interests affected by the proposed transfer. For two years more, at least, patrons of the three libraries will find them still conducted after the old order.

Freshmen Are Champions.

At a meeting of the class athletic board yesterday the interclass basketball championship was awarded to the freshmen. This settles the much talked of class controversy and the attention of classes will now be turned to interclass baseball. A committee was appointed to see to the purchasing of caps for the freshmen players.

Light colored suitings are in demand this season. I have a large assortment of these goods as well as plain colors. Try one of my $25.00 suits.—Bumstead, in the Burr block.
