Takes Third Frat Game From Delta Tau 20 to 19.

The third in the series of inter-fraternity games was won by Phi Kappa Psi from Delta Tau Delta yesterday by the close score of 20 to 19. The usual amount of vocal enthusiasm accompanied the game, which was not marked by any very sensational features except the evenness of the score and a badly bungled-up finger for Ringer. The line-up:

White Ducks at the Hop.

It was announced last night before dress parade that cadets would wear uniforms with white duck trousers at the non-com hop tonight. The committee would like to see the men turn out in uniform, as it adds much to the beauty of the dance.

are responsible for the minor bruises and broken shoulders. Since last fall many college presidents and professors have been advocating a more open game, but none of them have formulated a plan by which it could be played. The rules committee made no change in the rules for the coming year, except advocating the doing away with the heavy leather helmets. The only way to make a more open game is to change the game entirely, and play a game something like the English game, which is not exciting enough for the American people, nor could it take the place of the present game. Injuries are less numerous and severe in the game now than formerly when the end runs were in vogue. I think that if the non-football playing public will let the game alone it will work out its own salvation."

Dr. Clapp is in favor of having seven men in the line, by keeping the ends up in the line, and believes more can be accomplished in this way than by increasing the distance to be gained.

When you buy Clothes at this Store

You are satisfied and so are we; no one has the best of it

You want well fitting clothes certainly—there are two ways to get them. One is, to pay the very best custom tailors in town $40 to $60 for a suit or overcoat. The other way is by buying them from us for less than half what this very tailor must charge you. Our spring suits are as finely tailor made as the highest priced custom tailor's production possibly can be.

Our line represents the very best creations of such well known makers of fine clothing as Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Stein-Bloch Co., A. B. Kirschbaum & Co., Hirsch, Wickwire & Parks, and Strom & Myrer. These makers originate and create style—put a lot of "go" in every garment they turn out. Better come in and try on some of the new suits and overcoats and see what a "short cut" you can take to good dressing, say nothing of economy.

This change would decrease the number of men who could be suddenly massed at the center, or even at the tackles. As much premium as possible should be placed on a kicking game, but it is difficult to increase kicking more than it has been increased in the past few years. An open game while more interesting to the spectators, would not decrease the number of serious injuries, as these are caused in the open field.

Mr. J. W. McDonald, of this city, who is an admirer of football, said the open game would be preferable from the spectators' point of view and would be desirable if it could be had without injuring the game. The spectators enjoy the running and kicking. Just as many would be hurt as in mass plays, because the severe injuries are due to sharp tackles in the open field.

Dr. Clements agrees with those who contend that the severe injuries are caused in the open field. He believes that the most objectionable feature in the present style of play is the continual bucking of the weak spot in the opponent's line. This often causes the man who is the object of the attack to retire and makes the game unnecessarily severe. Something could probably be accomplished by a restriction on the number of times the same man could be bucked.

The majority of the men interviewed apparently agree on three important points. In the first place, injuries would not be decreased by a more open game. In the second place, the majority of those who criticize football are unacquainted with the game and base their complaints on exaggerated newspaper stories. In the third place, the open game is more interesting from the standpoint of the spectators.
