The Misses Marquardt enjoyed a visit from their mother yesterday.

Mr. G. A. Loveland returned yesterday from his extended trip through western Nebraska.

Professor Caldwell speaks before the ladies of the Hall in the Grove this afternoon on "The Negro Problem."

The cadets appeared at dress parade last night for the first time in white duck trousers. The white ducks add materially to the appearance of the battalion.

Glen Chapman, who was obliged to leave the University several weeks ago and has since been seriously ill with stomach trouble, at his home in Aurora, is reported to be convalescing.

Miss Mabel Eckerson, who was called to Aurora some time ago by the illness and subsequent death of her grandfather, will not return to school this year, but will remain at her home in Ravenna.

C. M. Heck, at present fellow in physics here, has made arrangements to study in Berlin, Germany, next year. After visiting his home in Raleigh, N. C., he will make an extended trip through the states, touching New Orleans, Salt Lake City, and San Francisco.

The semi-absence of our regular athletic editor on account of the grip caused rather an embarrassing error in The Nebraskan's account of Wednesday's inter-fraternity game. Our extempore athletic editor has been instructed to beg the Pi Beta Phi's pardon, and has promised not to flatter the Beta Theta Pi's again by a similar substitution.

Professor E. H. Barbour delivered an entertaining and instructive lecture at the college settlement house Wednesday night on the subject, "Early Inhabitants of the Plains." The interest of the lecture was heightened by a series of illustrated views descriptive of the subject discussed. A fair-sized audience was present and thoroughly enjoyed the discourse.

The engineering society held its regular meeting Wednesday evening and enjoyed one of the best student programs of this year. J. B. Davidson's paper on "Steam Turbines" was excellent in every respect. He illustrated his talk by sketches and curve diagrams which were very instructive and represented an immense amount of labor. H. V. Yont read a paper on "Automobiles." A. A. Steel, '99, closed with a short talk giving his experience in mining engineering work in Mexico.

(Orchestral parts on second piano, Mr. Eames.)

Mr. Starr accompanied the Glee club to Wahoo yesterday.

Misses Gullfoile and Hess visited at Plattsmouth this week.

Mrs. Henry Eames arrived from Chicago Sunday and will be here the rest of the year.

Miss Florence Fiske went to Auburn yesterday to take part in the concert given at that place last night.

Mr. Charles Courtwright, a recent student in the University and School of Music, and member of the cadet band, died in Omaha Tuesday.

The spring music festival was very successful from an artistic point of view, if not so successful financially. The chorus, drilled by Mrs. Raymond, was complimented very highly by the soloists.
