READY TO LEAVE

Only Light Practice Today. Sixteen Men Make the Trip.

Over the back fence the wind hustled and tore the sandbars out of the campus, and howled gleefully out the gate with its burden of hats, and still they practiced football.

The work was fast and snappy, both teams working well. The Varsity scored several times and made their distance at will both around the ends and through the line.

Cy Mason's brother went in at full for a while and showed up well. Cy himself was on the side lines tonight, but only on account of some outside duties; he will be out again tonight.

Borg was given a night off on account of a cold, from which he is suffering. He will be out tomorrow evening.

Marsh is out after a short illness, and back at his old place.

This evening at 5:50 the team leaves via the Burlington for the city in the hills. No more reports come from the mysterious west and the boys start out with assurance of victory and the hearts of the student body with them. All will be in readiness early tomorrow afternoon. The suits will be packed and Jack will stand in readiness to send the team off to victory.

The practice tonight will be short, consisting of light signal practice. There will be no line-up.

Bender's ankle will be in good shape to put him through the game.

Cotton is practically over his injury and will be in the game to make up for lost time.

Sixteen men will go out tonight to uphold the honor of Nebraska on Saturday.

The names of the men are as follows: Bender, Bell, Benedict, Borg, Briggs, Lesh, Eager, Fenlon, Graves, Hunter, Cy Mason, J. M. Mason, Perry, Robertson, Cotton, Wilson.

A strange bit of news comes from South Omaha.

The Bellevue College team, which is to play here near the end of the season, went to the city of packing houses not long ago and played the High School team of that city 0 to 0. For a while it appears that the High School boys had the better of things, but failed to score against the college.

Geology Lectures.

The lectures in geology 1 will shortly be held in Memorial hall, which is being prepared for lantern-work. During the year illustrated lectures will also be held at convocation from time to time. The lantern purchased for this purpose has been installed and is giving the best of satisfaction.

Company Drill.

The battalion was drilled in company movements Tuesday evening. The men showed up in excellent shape, considering that this was the first time these movements have been attempted this year.

The musicians of the battalion held their first practice Tuesday night in the chapel. Six buglers were in attendance, under the leadership of Fred Culver.

TRUST FEELS LOSS-

Student Trade Not Such a Bad Thing After All.

The state association of laundrymen now in session at Omaha is reported to be taking steps to discourage the sending of student laundry away from Lincoln. They missed their best opportunity when they neglected to persuade the laundries here to deal fairly with the student in the first place. The best means that could have been employed to discourage students from sending their laundry to Omaha would have been for the laundrymen here to have offered them reasonable rates in the first place. Now that they have over-reached themselves and gained nothing when they hoped to compel the students to pay whatever they were minded to demand, the laundry trust through one of its concerns, concludes to offer a reduction. The fact that the work can be done by a laundry in the city at the prices offered by the new concern that has suddenly sprung into activity, shows that the increase in rates was not warranted by such pressing necessities as was claimed by the trust. They could afford to do the work at a rate much less than they held out for and the natural course of events is constantly bringing up some new proof in support of this fact.

University students should be slow in rushing into an agreement with any new concern that solicits their business. They should remember that the Laundry club prevented them from being held up and charged a double price. If the club had not taken action the Lincoln laundries would never have made any reductions in the world. No new concern should be allowed to slip in and draw the trade, because if the Lincoln laundrymen once recover control of the students' business, they will raise prices later on, charging whatever they please, and the students will be compelled to pay them or wear dirty linen, which under the circumstances would be their just deserts.

Students should not be misled by the appeals circulated against sending their laundry out of the city. They should remember that they are under obligations to none of the laundries here. The Lincoln laundries have lent practically no support to student enterprises but have shown themselves tight and unobliging whenever appealed to. Furthermore it should not be forgotten that their combination to put up the prices on students was made for no other purpose than to increase their own gains at the expense of the students. They showed their color and do not deserve to be patronized.

And now finally. The Laundry club will offer rates fully as reasonable as those offered by any Lincoln concern. Don't be misled by reports of a 30 per cent discount. The club offers a straight 25 per cent and an additional discount on special articles. It will duplicate any rates that have yet been offered here. Once more. Keep in mind the fact that the Laundry club paralyzed the trust, and that the inducements offered by one of their concerns are sanctioned by the whole system, in order that the trade may be weaned away from Omaha and all will in a short time be drawing their share of it when other unfortunate conditions necessitate a rise in prices. That is the way that any trust would do business if it found its operations blocked. The trust sees that it is unable to carry out its purpose, but the leading laundries can not come out openly with a reduction, and hence they use a side-show in order to ultimately draw the multitude to the larger attraction. Let the students stand firm. The Laundry club will fulfill its obligations and those who stay with it will profit in the long run.

IS INVITED TO JOIN

Nebraska's Presence is Desired in Oratorical League.

The University of Nebraska has been invited to join a proposed Oratorical League, composed of the state universities of the Mississippi valley, which league it is intended shall be the nucleus of the American State University Oratorical League. This offer comes from President Benton of Miami University of Oxford, Ohio, in a letter to Chancellor Andrews. As yet no action has been taken in the invitation. Last year Nebraska declined to go into a three cornered oratorical league, with Kansas and Missouri, on the ground that interest at Nebraska was in debate rather than oratory. President Benton writes Nebraska to send a representative to a meeting of the representatives of the various institutions, to be held before very long. So far we hear that Kansas is going into the league.

The Anatomical Laboratory.

One of the busy places on the campus is the anatomical laboratory. About seventy students are enrolled in the different courses, as against twenty a year ago. During the summer it has been necessary to fit up a second dissecting room equal in size to the one in use last year, and to also build a third room for lectures, quizzes and laboratory work in osteology. Courses are given this semester in human anatomy, including osteology, to first and second grade medical students and to second grade dentals; in anatomy of the dog to first year dentals; and in anatomy of the cat to students in physical training. The laboratory is open daily from 1 to 6 p. m. and it has also been necessary to open it on Monday and Wednesday evenings. Dr. D. C. Hilton, a graduate of the University, who also took his M. A. here, and who has since graduated from Rush Medical, has been appointed assistant demonstrator.

As a nucleus for a reference library in connection with the laboratory Dr. Wolcott has placed his own books on anatomy at the disposition of the students, and has also received several books from the publishers to be used in a similar manner. Noteworthy among these is a set of three volumes of "Deaver's Surgical Anatomy," sent by P. Blakiston's Son and Co., of Philadelphia; the work is profusely illustrated and elegantly bound. It is a standard work and sells for $21. The opportunity of having such books at hand for ready reference is one which is deeply appreciated by the students.

OPENS THIS EVENING.

Year's work of College Settlement Will be Opened.

The formal opening for the year's work of the College Settlement will take place this evening at the settlement home at Twentieth and N streets. An entertainment will be given to the residents of the neighborhood to get them together and make announcements of the year's work. After a short program of music and tableaux the class work and organization of clubs will be explained. The rest of the evening will be social and an opportunity given for all to become acquainted. A bright year is looked forward to by those in charge. The University Y. W. C. A. will furnish some one to have charge of games four evenings of the week and Mr. Collins and A. F. Magdanz will have charge of the boys' game room, and Mr. Brown will look after the organization of the Boys' club. Miss Burlingame will have charge of the Little Girls' club every Saturday evening. The sewing and cooking schools will be started in the near future.

Law Seminar.

The seminar course in law, recently introduced, is very popular with the students. There are three divisions, of twenty pupils each, one reciting Monday at 7:30 p. m., the other two on Saturday at 10 and 11 a. m. The hour is devoted to filling out legal papers such as deeds, mortgages and complaints. Thus the students are trained in drawing up legal documents. This should prove a very valuable study.

The students in the law department are petitioning for a water tank in the hallway near the law library.

Ed R. Lindburg is down from Wayne in the interests of a suit which is pending in the supreme court. While here he is visiting his University friends.

The class in constitutional law is laboring under difficulty on account of a lack of books. The library has ordered a supply which is expected daily.

The new law library is nearing completion and access can now be had to the books. It is very conveniently arranged and well lighted, and is a vast improvement over the old one.

The geological department has just received ten boxes of minerals, rocks and fossils, which have been collected for a number of years by the assistant of A. W. Winchell of Michigan.

Basket Ball Practice.

Practice will be held at 4 p. m., regularly hereafter on Tuesdays and Thursdays. It is desired that as many men as possible attend the practice. Every one will be permitted to play for the next two weeks at least.

Choir Entertains.

St. Luke's Episcopal choir held a dance at Walsh hall Tuesday evening. Various forms of amusement were indulged in. The singing of Professor Miller and Miss Rivett's playing was excellent. A large crowd was in attendance and an excellent time is reported.

Chorus Class Work.

The University chorus practiced several songs from the new book Tuesday afternoon. Some of these will be rendered in chapel before long. This new book is a recent publication and is a collection of merit. Words from a great many fine poems by standard authors have been set to music.
