TEACHERS GATHER

Held Two Sessions Yesterday
Chancellor Andrews' Address.

The convention of the State Teachers' association is now in full swing. Yesterday the campus was thronged with the visiting instructors who visited the principal places of interest and made themselves at home to the best of their ability, taking advantage of the kindly spirit of hospitality proffered them by the University authorities. The advance guard began to arrive Thursday but the list was substantially swelled yesterday.

Thursday evening they held their first meeting in Memorial hall, at which a number of inspiring addresses were made. An account of this meeting was published in yesterday's issue.

Yesterday morning before a splendid crowd of students and teachers assembled Chancellor Andrews delivered an address of welcome to the visitors. He extended a greeting to them in behalf of the students, faculty and regents.

They were not only invited to make use of University rooms and the premises for the purpose of their meeting, but also to visit the offices, classes and principal points of interest. He said that it was a good thing for the students and the University to have visitors come, as it shows that there are people who care to know of our University. It would seem as if the commissioners had turned the work over to the faculty without further interest, deeming them competent to administer affairs properly, and it is indeed a delight to have here an intellectual and critical representation of people who are interested in our work.

Chancellor Andrews said that the instruction of students in the first eight grades was the most important of all, and that of the rising generation in the first grade ranked next. But the teachers out in the state and the students here are doing important work, and each can help the other do their work.

The chancellor expressed his pride at seeing so many of our graduates taking such high rank as instructors. A great part of the educational work—at least one-half—that is being carried on in the high schools of the state is being done by our own sons and daughters. And of course there is no objection to those coming in from the outside, and there is no desire to set up a comparison. In fact some of the very best work is done by those coming from other institutions.

The superintendents and teachers on the grounds know a hundred times as much about pedagogy as the average person here. University teaching is not nearly so good as that of the high school. We are absolute in our faith that we know it all. But when it comes to a question of how to teach what we know, how to make it take, and how to inoculate the students with it, we fall down. It is to be hoped that those who teach in the University will gather the inspiration and pour pedagogy into the students.

There is certainly a chance for instructors in Universities and Colleges to learn. The best instruction is given in high schools and throughout the public school system at large. But the instruction in the high school is not as good as grade instruction. The grade of instruction is not as high.

So many boys and girls run away from the high school because the teachers there forget what those in the grades never forget. They forget the pupil. The students are lost in the subject. But they are never lost in the grades. The central idea of grade instruction is to build up the pupils in character and make men and women out of them. The great majority of grade teachers never forget that the making of the pupil and the forming of his character are taking place.

But this is not so in the high school. The teachers forget why they are there. A man with a specialty comes and regards the class as material upon which he is there to spring his powers. He doesn't necessarily ignore the pupils, may like them. But the pupil is made be a propriety in a teacher high enough in his line in becoming wrapped up in a subject and thinking relatively less of the pupils, but if there are such men in the University we won't send them to perdition—we will let them off with the tar and feathers. No subject should be set up as a god.

The chancellor again welcomed the visiting teachers and superintendents heartily extending to them the liberty of the grounds and buildings.

The State Superintendents and Teachers' association met yesterday morning at 9 o'clock in U. 107. Entertaining and interesting discussions and addresses were given.

"Some Fundamental Points of Discipline," was discussed by W. L. Stephens of Lincoln, who handled his subject well and brought his points out with good effect. He was followed by C. G. Pearse of Omaha, who entertainingly spoke on "The Business Management Work of a Superintendent or Principal." A discussion by D. C. O'Connor of Norfolk, and S. H. Martin of St. Paul was the center of interest for some time, and was enjoyed by all.

The teachers then attended chapel in a body, where Chancellor Andrews addressed them.

At 2 p. m. they assembled in U. 107. W. L. Rouse of Plattsmouth took up an extended treatment of the subject, "Supervision Work in the Grades," first dealing with it in reference to material to be taught and then in reference to increasing the efficiency of teachers. A discussion followed, in which A. A. Reed of Superior, J. M. Pile of Wayne, and J. E. Delzell of Lexington participated. Dr. Fletcher L. Wharton then delivered a most impressive address on "Proper Moral Training." E. E. Bishop of York ably treated the subject "Co-Operation of City Superintendents and Principals with County Superintendents," and a discussion by W. W. Stoner of York and W. H. Bartz of Alliance completed the program.

The enrollment has thus far mounted up to 175 as against 113 for last year. It is probable that it will reach at least 200.

Yesterday evening the annual banquet was held at the Lindell hotel. Principal A. H. Waterhouse of Omaha acted as toastmaster.

Hawxby Up for County Judge.

Fred G. Hawxby, long one of the University veteran debaters, is a man whose merit is winning recognition. The democrats of Richardson county unanimously nominated him for county judge. This county being one of the wealthiest in the state, makes the position for which he is a candidate a most responsible one. Hawxby's political career began while he was a student, he being elected to the legislature in his Senior law year. His intelligent and energetic labors elicited commendation even from his political opponents. His untiring efforts to further the University's interests won him the loyalty of every supporter of the scarlet and cream.

The reputation for ability made while representative secured him the nomination for regent. The past two years have been devoted exclusively to law practice, his office being at Humboldt.

Hawxby visited the University the other day. The students know and remember him. He is the same genial, open-hearted fellow as in the days of old when he put his shoulder to the wheel in everything requiring college spirit. He will long be remembered as the leader of the debating team that won a unanimous decision from Kansas in '98, and the man who retrieved the day in the Colorado debate of '00, when all had lost heart, save those who remembered that Hawxby had ten minutes to close.

The University wishes Hawxby, as it does all other University men, the greatest measure of success.

Scrubs Leave for Peru.

Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock the second Varsity team departed for Peru, when they play the Peru Normal Saturday. A hard game is expected. The men who made the trip are Shallenberger, Stryker, De Bey, Horschoner, Burns, Frazier, Newton, States, Weller, Drain, Craig, Foster, Myers, Laird and Manager Morrison.

College Settlement Entertains.

A musical and literary entertainment was held at the College Settlement Thursday night. Mrs. Westerfield had the matter in charge. Among the features of the program was a vocal solo by Miss McCane, and a piano solo by Mrs. Emerick, both of the Conservatory. There will be an open meeting Thursday of each week.

READY TO KICK-OFF

Colorado Arrived Yesterday. Varsity Out at State Farm.

Today the football teams of the University of Nebraska and the University of Colorado will meet on the gridiron (which has been especially heated for the occasion) to contend for the honors of the fray.

The two teams are in the pink of condition and ready to do valorous battle. The Colorado team left Denver at 11:30 Thursday night on the Rock Island road, arriving here at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. The team was a little worn from the long trip, but with a good night's rest will be as good as ever.

They practiced yesterday afternoon at the F. & M. park in suits. The work did not last very long, but was good and earnest while it did.

This team has been beaten only once this year and that at the hands of the Kansas team by only one point. Speaking of that game one of the Colorado players remarked last night:

"We could have beaten those Kansas fellows if the halves had been a little longer. You see we only played 25 and 20 minute halves, and in the second we had them going. If we had played the regulation time the outcome would have been different.

"Each side made a touchdown in each half and we were on the high road for another when time was called."

The above statement points to a good game today and all who come out will in no wise be disappointed.

The entire Colorado team will be in the game. No substitutes will be in the line-up. All the men are eager and ready for the fray.

The team tips the beam on the average at 162 pounds.

The next game for the Colorado team will be with the Colorado School of Mines, on November 3. No game is scheduled for next Saturday.

The Nebraska team went out to the State Farm for the final practice last night.

Squad practice was the order of the evening and was snappy.

The York team was out and watched the practice, thereby gaining many valuable points for their game tomorrow. They are to play the Omaha High School.

Borg was in the line-up and will start in the game tomorrow, although his injured shoulder may not permit him to play it through.

Robinson's ankle is much better and he will probably be able to play clear through the game tomorrow.

Bender is much improved and his ankle will probably not cause him very much inconvenience, although it is not entirely well yet.

Aside from these few comparatively minor injuries, the team was never in better condition for a game, and they will try and make up against Colorado for the touchdowns they did not make against Denver.

It is earnestly hoped that the team will not suffer any serious injury in the game tomorrow, as next Saturday they are to meet Knox, and Knox—well you have heard of them before. In that game it will be the business of the Nebraska boys to keep their opponents away back from the Nebraska goal, as the Knox team has in its line-up a man who kicks goals from the 45-yard line. That has a "wicked" sound and means that the home team will have to get busy in the blocking business.

Following is tomorrow's line-up:

Borg c	Fowler
Hunter r. g.	Tonkin
Cotton l. g.	Coffin
Robinson r. t.	Sturm
Mason l. t.	(capt.) Foote
Wilson r. e.	Trudgian
Benedict l. e.	Roberts
Bender (capt.) qb.	Owens
Bell r. h.	Johnson
Eager l. h.	Kingsbury
G. Mason fb.	Baker
