Editorial Remarks

Iowa is beaten; therefore there is cause for rejoicing. The uncertainty that had overshadowed this game worked up a high tension of feeling, and now that the strain has been removed we should all rejoice because we won. True, our goal line was crossed, and while none of us can take pleasure in this fact, there is no special cause for grief. If there is any special significance—and there may be—attached to this, each one is privileged to weigh the matter for himself and draw his own conclusions. But at the same time we should not lose sight of the fact that our team won a glorious victory and retrieved the humiliating defeat that fell to our portion at Omaha in '99.

Indeed, the hearts of the supporters of the Scarlet and Cream were filled with sadness, when the tidings of that terrible defeat at Omaha in '99 came to their ears. How we longed for the time when our team could meet Iowa again and retrieve the disgrace. But peculiarly adverse circumstances arose making the attempts to schedule a game between the two institutions a failure, and we were obliged to retain in our hearts the remembrance of a defeat that was galling to an extreme degree.

But a favoring tide set in, bearing with it an opportunity of meeting Iowa again. And as a result of this meeting the Scarlet and Cream floats proudly aloft as a proud token of our team's success. Nebraska won because of her superior speed and strength, the Iowa team being completely overmatched in these respects. In face of the almost hostile demonstrations of the crowd our team beat back the assaults of their opponents and fought their way down the field, in spite of all active and auxiliary opposition that could be brought to bear against them.

We certainly have reason to congratulate ourselves upon this victory, and it should quicken an interest in the big games that will soon be played here. We have beaten one member of the Big Nine. Can we beat the other two with whom we shall meet? The answer to this question rests in a large measure with ourselves.

We have received from James E. Sullivan, chief of the department of physical culture, world's fair, St. Louis, the preliminary program of Olympic Games, and a very elaborate one has been arranged. The Olympic Games will surely interest all school boys and athletic colleges. The Inter-Scholastic meet for schools in the state included in the Louisiana purchase is scheduled for May 28. The Olympic College championship, open to the athletes of western colleges will be held on May

30. The Olympic track and field college championship open to the colleges of the world, has been scheduled for June 11. The Olympic gymnastic college championship has been scheduled for June 9 to 10. Inter-scholastic basket ball, July 15 to 16. College basket ball championship, July 13 and 14. The Olympic Games, the feature of the year, are scheduled for August 29, 30, 31, and September 1, 2 and 3. College fencing in September. College relay championship and school relay, November 10 and 11. There has been arranged an Olympic championship at baseball in the spring of the year for colleges and schools. An Olympic football championship will also be held in the fall of the year, one for colleges, and one for schools.

The physical training committee will have gymnasium exhibits from all the schools and colleges of America. These exhibits will consist of charts, photograph records, pictures of teams, and other matter that pertains to physical training and athletics.

There are numerous things that it is necessary for a student to learn, but there is one thing that it is important for him to know. He should be able to give the various University and football yells, so as to be able to join in on proper occasions and make himself heard. Any student who has not taken the trouble to learn these yells should not allow a great length of time to pass before doing so. It is the enthusiastic student who makes himself felt and who best brings out the spirit of the institution to which he belongs.

The appalling calamity that has befallen our sister institution, Purdue, has called forth an expression of sympathy and horror from us all. It is seldom that any college is called upon to meet a sadder misfortune, and it is with a genuine spirit of compassion and deep feeling, that we tender our sympathy to her in her hour of trial.

Y. W. C. A. Lecture.

The opening lecture of the city and University Young Men's Christian association occurred Sunday afternoon in the Oliver theatre. A large audience of some 500 was in attendance and a splendid lecture was delivered, accompanied by crayon illustrations of Bible verses. Those in attendance expressed themselves as highly pleased with the lecture and the prospect for a very successful year in this department is extremely flattering. The same high quality of entertainment and instruction will be continued in subsequent meetings.

Professor Starr furnished music for Sunday's meeting.

Dr. Fling Gives Special Talk.

On account of so many men being away for election, Prof. Fling did not give his regular Monday lecture, but gave a talk on his experiences at Leipzig University, which was amusing as well as instructive. He had studied some German before going, but found it quite difficult to get along with his little knowledge of it. He spoke of the peculiarities of German life, and particularly of the student life.
