HOLDS ITS SESSION

Interclass Athletic Board Meets. Laws and Academics Confer.

The Inter-class Athletic board had a lively meeting yesterday morning in U 106. The entire board was present, consisting of three men from each class in the academic school. The amendment known as rule 5, passed at the last meeting, was up for reconsideration. The Seniors and Freshmen seemed most interested in this amendment. Stein was spokesman for the Freshmen and E. F. Myers did most of the talking for the Seniors.

At this point Mr. Neilson, claiming to be a representative Senior Law, asked to be permitted to speak. Being recognized, Mr. Neilson said that the academic classes should maintain their integrity and play their own men. He thought the laws should only play on the law teams.

Another law student took exactly the opposite view, so it appeared that they were not sure what would be the proper thing.

The question was called for (after the legal storm) and the vote on the amendment taken. The amendment was passed with the same wording as before. The vote was eight to three, the Freshmen all voting against it. This allows the Senior laws to play with the Senior academics, the Juniors with the Juniors and the first year laws with the Sophomores.

Before the meeting adjourned the law committee filed requests for representation on the board. The requests were not considered but were laid over until the next meeting.

Immediately following the meeting of the inter-class athletic board the several classes of the law school met in a body in the law lecture room and took definite action on the question relating to athletics. In view of the fact that the academics refused to recognize the law school as a separate and independent college of the University, giving the law classes no representation on the inter-class board, the law assemblage decided to complete an independent athletic organization. A committee of five was appointed to draft a constitution and draw up rules regulating athletics in the law college. Although the laws have not been recognized on the board they will nevertheless put out teams of their own and maintain class enthusiasm and class loyalty in that department.

Mr. Snively, president of the Senior law class, presided over the meeting and called on the committeemen, who represented the class in the board meeting and presented the claims of the law school to that body. It was then learned from the speeches made by these men that the board, especially the representatives from the Senior academic class, objected to allowing the different law classes representation on the board principally because they wished to draw from the Senior Laws their best football players to aid them in winning the class championship. Because of this some of the Senior Laws refused to play. Their action was loudly applauded by their brother lawyers.

It is the custom in eastern schools for the medics and laws to maintain their own class athletic teams and to be allowed representation on the inter-class board system exists. Serious difficulties might arise under the system that the board tried to adopt, because of the difference in standing between the laws and academics. Under the new arrangements in the University school of law, the course is three years, and Junior and Senior academic students can register for a limited number of hours in the law department. The fact that a Junior or Senior academic student could play on his own team and at the same time play on the Sophomore team, as a Freshman law makes the proposed scheme look ridiculous. It is still the hope of those who are most deeply interested that a compromise may yet be reached, whereby both the laws and academics will be satisfied. The inter-class athletic board should control all class athletics in all schools and departments of the University.

FOOTBALL NUMBER.

Tuesday's Nebraskan Will Be Devoted to Football

The Nebraskan staff will be busied from now until next Tuesday in working up the Football Number. This edition will contain a resume of the season's work, giving write-ups of the individual players, each of which will be accompanied by a half-tone. A fancy cover and a superior quality of book-paper will be used, and everything will be done within the art of the printer to give the work an artistic finish.

We have made arrangements for special articles by those who have been most enthusiastic in supporting the team, having given of their time and efforts to rouse interest in its behalf. These articles will deal with various topics of absorbing interest in the football world and we can give every assurance that the subjects will be well handled. This is the first edition of this kind ever attempted at this University and we hope to make it a success, by presenting it in such an acceptable form that it will appeal to all. All who desire numbers of this issue should notify the business manager at once, although the edition will be put on sale as long as it lasts.

LAST MASS MEETING.

New Song Is Tried and Speeches Are Made.

Convocation period yesterday was devoted to an enthusiastic football meeting. The first part was devoted to the practice of a new college song, "Nebraska." The words are by Mr. Will M. Maupin, and the music by Mr. William O'Shea. Mr. O'Shea, assisted by the band, led the singing. The words and melody are both beautiful, and what is especially necessary in a college song, the music has a swing that takes everything along. The introduction is written especially as an accompaniment to the college yell, and this adds to the effect. Copies of the words and melody will be distributed tomorrow at chapel.

After the music Dr. Condra announced that since Mr. Booth was not there to give a football talk Mr. Westover would officiate in that capacity. Mr. Westover began his talk by saying that the game Thursday will be one of the hardest games the team has ever played. He insisted that our team would win, but those who imagine that we have a walk-away because Iowa beat Illinois 12 to 0 are badly mistaken. Iowa had a team last Saturday that was 30 per cent stronger than when it played us, and yet it won only after the hardest kind of a game.

Mr. Westover then explained the different plays such as open formation between the 25-yard lines; close formations, in which the ends are pulled back and the backs play us close, making a very compact mass, which is hard to stop; safety touchdowns, touchbacks, place-kicks and drop kicks. He said that the most successful play Nebraska has ever used is the one Mr. Booth has brought here, a mass on tackle. This is always good for at least two yards, and is especially adapted for close formations.

LAST GREAT GAME

Nebraska Rough and Ready and Eager For Tomorrow's Fray.

The great day is rapidly approaching. Tomorrow the Universities of Nebraska and Illinois will meet on Nebraska field to endeavor to wrest from each other the last laurels of the season.

Illinois comes to us a defeated team, but with a determination to wipe out the memory of the defeat by achieving a glorious victory over strong Nebraska.

Nebraska will contend until her last breath in the endeavor to keep unspotted the fair name she has borne throughout the season and in fact for the past two years.

The team will not be alone in its struggle. Every University student and every friend of the University who has in his heart one spark of loyalty will be out on the field to cheer the Cornhuskers on and show that he has confidence in the ability of the team to win the day.

The Illinois team will arrive in Lincoln this afternoon at 3:20 over the Rock Island road and will be quartered at the Lindell.

The Nebraska management has tendered the visitors the privilege of using Nebraska field, or if they choose, the grounds at the state farm or the F. & M. park.

Illinois is heavier than the Nebraska team. The visitors will average about 175 or 176 lbs. to our 170 lbs.

Behind the line Illinois is heavy and speedy. In weight they have the advantage of us, but not in speed.

The offensive play of Illinois is much stronger than their defensive, which was very evident in the game with Iowa. This reasons well for Nebraska as she is very strong on defense and if anyone should ask you, she is able to hold her own on the defensive.

In speaking of the Illinois-Iowa game Assistant Coach Westover said last night:

"Iowa simply outplayed the Illinois team. Playing harder and faster ball, the Iowa team lined up practically the same as it did against us, but all the way through she played a very much better game than against us."

"Her victory over Illinois was not due to luck, but simply the result of good, straight football."

The practice last night consisted simply of signal work. The Scrubs were not out. Their work is over and well and faithfully have they done it. To them is largely due the present perfection of the 'Varsity.

All the team was out last night, including Benedict. He is greatly improved. He is troubled with one of his ribs, the muscles around it seem to be torn loose.

When asked if he would be able to play all through the Illinois game he replied:

"Well, I should smile. I'll play if I have to take that rib out."

Good work, Benedict. Your's is the kind of grit that makes the team what it is.
