Leaguers Strike Their Gait and Defeat the Varsity Team.

Yesterday the Omaha leaguers atoned for their showing of the day before, by defeating the University team by a score of 10 to 4. The experience received from the drubbing that they received must have held them in good stead, as they certainly played the game yesterday as professionals might be expected to play it. Our team did not do badly by any means, as the proportion of errors was not large, yet there was a noticeable falling off in team work, and some of the individual players did not keep up the pace that they started out with yesterday. But such things are bound to happen in baseball, and in the account of the game, the "ifs" are out of place.

Omaha played league ball. They had to fight for the game and were forced to play their limit. Our team played a good steady game, such as will place it a winner among other college teams, and at times brilliant pieces of playing were consummated. The boys have speed and they all get into the game. Yesterday they were outclassed by a bunch of bronzed and hardened men, whose home is on the diamond. From the point of view of a non-interested spectator the game was much more satisfactory than the one of the day before. The story of the game is an interesting one, and the sensational parts could not fail to leave an impression.

At the start things broke well for the Varsity boys, as they were ahead up to the fifth inning, when Henderson went in and showed himself to be a bad genius for Capt. Townsend's colts. He was in fine fettle and was exceedingly parsimonious in allowing hits as he absolutely refused to allow a single one. Bender was obliged, however, to stop one of his swift ones with the middle of his back and was thus allowed to pass to first without being molested. The day before such an action on the part of any of the Omaha pitchers was regarded as a deliberate attempt to defraud one of our men of a chance to fatten his batting average, but yesterday it was different.

And now as to the actual events of the game.

The game was called at 3 o'clock. The visitors were first to the bat and Carter went out at first. Plake struck out and "Dusty" Miller got hit on the arm and was allowed to take first, in order that he might feel no ill will. Later he scored on a grounder to right field by Welch, who was forced out by Downs on a grounder to second. In the last half Townsend scored a home run in left field. The next inning Omaha got a goose egg as their share while our boys were more successful. Fenlon was hit and went to first. He was sent to second by Williams' hit to center and came in on Beltzer's hit to left field. Bender's fly was caught and side was out.

In the third inning Carter was given a pass to first and Plake was hit. Then "Dusty" Miller got onto one of Beltzer's curve and brought both of them in home.

Just to show the Omahogs that we were still in the game Steen knocked a three bagger into left which Capt. Townsend duplicated, sending the ball into center garden. This was soon followed by a liner by Fenlon netting two and the last scores for Nebraska.

The next inning resulted in goose-eggs for both sides. In the sixth the visitors added two more with a couple of three baggers, and a single. Williams made a sensational catch of Thomas' liner in this half.

The next inning Schipke scored on Henderson's hit to right while in the eighth Miller lined out a three base hit to left and scored on Welch's hit to the same place.

The visitors made three more scores in the last inning making a total of 10 for the game.

For Omaha the pitching of Henderson was the feature of the game. He was in splendid form and his curves invincible. Plake and Schipke played star ball, while "Dusty" Miller took in a few in left and handled the stick in fine style.

For Nebraska Townsend, Steen and Fenlon did excellent work at the bat. Williams made some sensational stops at short.

Today occurs the final game between these two teams. Adams will probably be in the box for the home team if he is well enough. He has plenty of speed and promises to show the leaguers a "warm time."

The visitors are getting down to work and today's game will certainly be the best game of the series, and every lover of the sport should be out to encourage the University team.

A RETURN GAME.

Minnesota Girls Will Play Basketball in Lincoln.

The negotiations between the girls' basketball teams of Minnesota and Nebraska, which have been hanging fire for some time began to assume definite form yesterday when it was announced that arrangements had been made between the two teams for a game in Lincoln. Sometime near the end of the present month the game will be played. The actual date of the meet has not been decided upon yet.

It is also reported to us on good authority that negotiations are under way with Missouri and perhaps one or two other institutions for a girls' basketball tournament in Lincoln during the visit of the Gophers. This would be a decided innovation in women's basketball and would be watched with considerable interest all over the country.

Last Saturday's Minnesota Daily has the following to say in regard to the coming contest:

The girls' basketball team will probably go to Nebraska. Early in the year Nebraska wanted to have our girls go down to Lincoln and play them, but at that time President Northrop was not in favor of the idea. Since then, however, he has changed his mind. Yesterday he received a letter from the director of the Nebraska team, requesting that he allow our girls to make the trip to Lincoln, and this morning he stated that he would probably send a reply in the affirmative. If such is the case Nebraska's challenge will soon be forthcoming and as a contract can be easily arranged the game will be a certainty.

DATE ANNOUNCED.

Kansas-Nebraska Debate Will be Held Friday, April 29.

The date for the big Kansas-Nebraska debate has at last been determined upon. It will occur Friday evening, April 29, three weeks from tomorrow night, in Memorial hall. An enormous crowd is anticipated for the event, on account of the extraordinary relations that have existed between the two schools for some time. Kansas has adopted an entirely new style of argument, modeled after our own, and will do her utmost to retrieve past defeats at our hands and win new laurels by defeating us this year.

Practice debating has been going on here with considerable vim for the last month or so. Last night Messrs. James, Lightner and Anderson supported the affirmative of the question against Messrs. Levy, Sawyer and McReynolds. The members of the interstate debating squad will be announced either today or tomorrow. On account of the unusual effort that has been put forth by candidates for these positions, the announcement will probably create considerable interest. The Kansas squad has already been selected, and is getting into shape for the contest.

The officials for the debate have not yet been decided upon, although correspondence is being carried on with several prominent men well competent to judge in each contest. No presiding officer has been chosen.

ENGINEERS' DAY

J. A. L. Waddell, Noted Bridge Constructor, Will Speak.

Friday, April 8, will be Engineer's Day at the University. Mr. J. A. L. Waddell, the most prominent bridge engineer of the west, will deliver an address at 8 p. m. in the Memorial hall. This opportunity engineers will not, and other should not miss.

Mr. Waddell has achieved lasting renown not by saying or thinking, but by doing. The structures he has designed exist as enduring monuments of his skill and are the connecting links in great commercial highways. In addition to his professional experience in this country Mr. Waddell was for several years professor of civil engineering in the Imperial University of Japan. Hence he brings to the platform an experience and breadth of opinion seldom equalled. That a man of so high reputation consents to interrupt his professional duties to address the students here is a compliment to the University and a recognition of the high position its engineering departments are assuming. In securing Mr. Waddell the engineering society feels it has made a distinct advance in the class of entertainments it has from time to time offered to the student body. Nothing can so add to the enthusiasm for and knowledge of a profession as the opportunity of hearing the experiences of its leading men. One thus acquires in a short time information which has cost years of study and work, and which can not be secured from text books. The Engineers should hear this lecture.

The engineering students of Nebraska have the opportunity of adding to their experience the valuable advice of one of the most successful men in their profession.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Kimball director of the school of music, the chapel has been secured and Mr. Waddell will deliver his lecture at 8 p. m. Friday.

A unique feature of advertising has been introduced by the engineers for this lecture. A large electric sign has been placed on the tower of University hall, composed of the single word, "Waddell." The sign can be seen for a long distance down O street, and attracted considerable attention last night. It will doubtless prove a most effective advertisement for the lecture. The engineers are also doing themselves proud in the way of posters announcing the event.

Colorado Wants Tennis Meet.

Colorado is desirous of meeting Nebraska in tennis, a letter to this effect having been received by Secretary Tyner yesterday. A meet with Colorado will be agreeable to us, if Colorado will defray the expenses of a trip by our representatives to Boulder this spring, with the understanding that we reciprocate in like manner next fall. The courts have been moved to the south, and the rain will help to pack the grounds, which have lately been filled in. Several players were out for practice yesterday and the day before, and a number of new men have promised to join the association.
