ADDRESSED TO TEACHERS.

Prof. Barber Sends Letter Regarding Summer Session.

The following letter was sent by Professor Barber to teachers in the state and calls attention to special phases of the Summer Session:
Dear Fellow Workers:
For some years my studies have rendered it impossible for me to remain in Lincoln and give instruction in the Summer Session of the University. The growing importance, however, of Latin, the increased attention given to it in the high schools, and the fact that a number of new Latin grammars have recently been published, requiring some explanations, adjustments, and consideration of new methods, have induced me to remain this summer and work with the teachers of Latin, to the end that our combined efforts may still further improve our work. We are co-laborers in the same fields, parts of the same public school system, and we can best increase the efficiency of that system and make it a still greater factor in improving the citizenship of our state, by working together to this common end.

I offer three reading courses and a lecture course, in all fifteen hours. See catalogue for details. Credit is given for the number of hours done. The work is adapted, primarily, to teachers. The lecture course (three hours) treats of methods, both the commonly accepted and the new. The reading courses apply the principles discussed in the lecture courses. Any grammar may be used according to preference. An attempt will be made to adjust the new grammars to one another. I shall give a public illustrated lecture on Rome as it appears today, and other illustrated lectures before Latin teachers on Pompeii and ancient Italian life. Such subjects as the following are treated: The fora, temples, walls, fortifications, triumphal arches, colosseum, aqueducts, waterworks, sewers, streets, tombs, the Appian road, the ancient Roman house, household utensils, wall decorations, toilet articles, dress, methods of writing, etc.

Besides these lectures, the collection of photographs and lantern slides that belong to this department of the University will be accessible to teachers. They throw a great deal of light on ancient Roman life, and make the daily readings much clearer and class room work more interesting. This phase of the work may be carried on still further by study in the classical library, which will be open to teachers. Particularly will this latter work be helpful to teachers in making purchases for high school libraries. During the session I shall conduct a series of round table conferences on subjects suggested by members of the classes, and by my own experience. It is thought that these may be helpful in settling some of the perplexing questions of the class room and the teacher's work.

I thoroughly appreciate the good work being done by the Latin teachers of the state, but none of us will claim that it can not be still further improved. We can keep up our interest in teaching Latin only by continuing our studies in it, and we can continue to improve our teaching only by keeping alive our interest in the subject. I hope to see a good attendance.

The details of these courses are given in the catalogue of the Summer Session. If you have not received a copy I shall be pleased to send you one, if you will drop me a card.

I desire also, to call your attention to the excursion (one week) to the National Educational association and the St. Louis exposition, open only to registered students and instructors. This offers you a rare opportunity to visit both of these at a very little expense. Very cordially yours,
GROVE E. BARBER.
