NEBRASKA EXHIBIT

Information as to Our Showing at the World's Fair.

Owing to the very meagre appropriation, amounting to only $35,000, at the command of the Nebraska state commission, no effort has been made to erect a state building at the world's fair in St. Louis. To provide a place for the comfort and convenience of Nebraska visitors to the exposition, however, a large and commodious pavilion has been erected in the agricultural palace. This is really a Nebraska building under cover of the Agricultural palace roof. Here is to be found a large reception room, with reading table, writing facilities, post office and check room, lavatories and similar conveniences. Here also has been placed the attractive collection furnished by the state historical society, consisting of forty cases of relics illustrating the history of Nebraska from the times to the Indian and earliest Spanish explorers to the present. This society has also provided a register for Nebraska visitors, as it has done at all preceding expositions.

In connection with its headquarters the Nebraska commission maintains a little theatre, which is fitted up with opera chairs, stage, electric fans and all the accessories of a modern play house. In this theatre a stereopticon and moving picture exhibition is given every hour, when a vivid and graphic illustration of Nebraska resources is presented free to the public.

The Nebraska pavilion also contains the state's agricultural exhibit, which is in charge of James Walsh of Omaha. In artistic form, from Nebraska's finest corn, sheaf grain, thrashed grain, and grasses, in all of which she leads, is on display. The state also has made a fine exhibit in the central exposition corn display, opposite the Nebraska booth. A huge tower completely covered with whole ears of corn and surmounted by a great ball and eagle has been erected. About this column the very best corn in the state, which is to be entered for premiums in the individual owner's names, is exhibited on long tables and huge pyramids. But by far the most interesting portion of the agricultural exhibit is the mounted steer Challenger, which won the first prize of the world at the international stock show at Chicago last December.

In the Horticultural building Nebraska has a fine display of her choicest fruits. Over three hundred and fifty plates of fruit are daily shown on the tables. The horticultural display and exhibit is in charge of Mr. E. M. Pollard, of Nehawka, Neb.

Nebraska makes a fine showing in the Educational building and Palace of Mines, both of which exhibits are under the direction of Prof. E. H. Barbour of the State University. The Education exhibit shows the work of Nebraska schools from the kindergarten through the colleges and the University. It also makes a fine display of the work of Women's clubs in literary and musical lines. Throughout the exhibit the fact that Nebraska ranks first in small percentage of illiteracy is constantly emphasized.

The mineral exhibit consists of the best samples of Nebraska building stones, bricks, cements and similar products. A complete collection of soil from different parts of the state is shown. Cases of fossils from the University museum, specimens from the geological department of the University and typical photographs of Nebraska add attractiveness.

When the exposition dairy exhibit opens June 1 the state commission will make a complete showing of Nebraska's dairy and creamery resources, under the direction of Mr. S. C. Bassett of Gibbon.

A PERFECT SYSTEM

Senior Law Book is Being Run on Correct Principles.

As promised, the Law Annual made its appearance on the campus early yesterday morning, and has been the subject of much favorable comment since. The book is all that was promised for it, and much besides. While its general appearance and make-up have elicited much admiration, a close perusal of the contents amply sustains first impressions, and the production is undoubtedly one of the real successes of the year.

It seems to be the universal opinion that no graft is being exercised by the Annual board, for the very obvious reason that the evident cost of the book will not permit it. We are informed, moreover, that a detailed account of every expenditure, together with all receipts and proceeds, is being prepared by the business manager and his assistants. This will be received by an auditing committee of the Senior Law class. After having been sworn to before a notary public, it will be published in The Nebraskan. No salaries are being paid, except to the business manager, who will receive 25 cents an hour for his work. This will not amount to much in the end, as the latter declares that he has devoted his efforts to working his staff, rather than actually hustling himself.

The edition of the book is limited to 350 copies, and, judging from the size of yesterday's sales, this will no more than supply the demand. No reductions in price are to be made either this year or next, moreover, even should the entire edition not be disposed of before the end of school.

Special attention has been attracted to the Albertypes and half-tones. The latter, from Baker, Bros., of Omaha, are the first examples of the work of that firm that have appeared in University publications. The engravings throughout are very clear and effective, and show evidence of superior workmanship. Jacob North, of this city, who has had the printing in charge, says that the paper in the book is of better quality than that used in any previous University publication of a like nature. He says also that the half-tones are the best he has ever used. The total cost of the Annual approximates $600.00.

E. H. Clark, the registrar, considers the book as one of the best he has ever seen. Professor Cook, of the law department, says that "the book is superior to any he has seen since he has been at the University and the best he has ever seen anywhere." Professor Persinger of the department of American history echoes this opinion in effect, speaking especially of the literary work and general make-up. Professor Fogg of the English department, said that he does not remember to have seen a better piece of work, and that it is a credit to the University.

CO. "Q" TURNS OUT

Wierd Procession of "Harnts" Parades the Streets.

The annual "Shirt-Tail" parade of the cadet battalion was held last evening. The event was characterized by somewhat fewer numbers and a total lack of violence that marked last year's celebration of the sacred and mysterious rites. This was probably due to the far-sightedness of the local police force, which was very noticeable by its absence.

The parade started from the campus at about 8:30 p. m. The usual visit to the library was omitted because the "joint" had been closed in anticipation of the event. The brigade proceeded to the Lincoln hotel, however, where the usual celebration was held. Rector's pharmacy was the next place visited, where refreshments were served a la tin roof. Captain Chase was next summoned from his slumbers at the Lindell hotel and made a short talk to the spooks. He reviewed the history of the brigade, briefly, wished everyone a good time, and advised a curbing of spirits.

The capitol was the next stopping place. A short council was held around one of the historic guns on the grounds but the latter was not molested. Governor Mickey was called upon instead. His Excellency had retired to rest from the strenuous duties of railroad assessment, but responded to the insistent demands of the brigade with a few reminiscences of his college days. After a few more expeditions the parade was ended and the brigade dismissed.

Y. W. C. A. Notes.

Mrs. Flowers addressed the Y. W. C. A. Sunday afternoon on evangelistic work in prisons. She spoke of the improvement that has been made in prison management in recent years, the changed attitude and often the complete reformation of the prisoners, under kind, sympathetic treatment, and of the great need for workers in this field.

Next Sunday the last Y. W. C. A. meeting of the year will be devoted to talks on Geneva. Several leaders have been chosen to bring out the different phrases of the work.

Jeffersonian Club Meets Tonight

The last meeting of the Jeffersonian club for the school year will be held this evening at 8 o'clock. One of the most lively meetings of the year is anticipated. Everyone who is present and no doubt there will be a large number is expected to indulge in oratory and express their views on the present political out-look.

The thesis on "The Relation of Leaf Structure to Physical Factors," presented by Edith S. Clements for the degree of doctor of philosophy will be in the chancellor's office for inspection by the faculty from May 24th to June 7th.

SUPERIOR ON TRACK

Nebraska Wins Over Minnesota in a Splendid Meet.

The track meet with Minnesota Saturday, close and hard fought as it was, resulted in a fine victory for Nebraska, the result being 62 to 55. Minnesota gained a lead of eight points at the start, winning first and second places in the 100-yard dash. In the next two events, the shot-put and the pole vault the Nebraska men had everything their own way. The long runs were the sensations of the meet. In the mile run States faithfully trotted along after Colburn until actually on the home stretch, when he took a spurt and beat him out by a few feet, beating the state record by four seconds.

In the hurdles Nebraska failed to win first in either event, although Hauser took second in both. Smith's running was one of the features of the day. Bu Havens' two-mile run was easily the sensation. He at once sprinted into a two hundred yard lead and maintained it throughout the race. He ended strong and did not seem at all troubled over his exertion. He came within two seconds of the state record.

An unfortunate incident was in connection with the half-mile run, when Benedict fell across the line an instant before his competitor, but was denied the victory as he failed to break the tape. However his competitor was ruled out for fouling States, who was given second, the first place going to the other Minnesota man who took part in the race.

Following is the official record of the result:

100-yard dash—Hunter, Minn.; Redmond, Minn. 19 1-5 seconds.

Shot-put—Weller, Neb.; Martin, Neb. 34 feet 5 1/2 inches.

Pole vault—Benedict and States, Neb., tied for first, at 19 feet 4 inches.

Mile run—States, Neb.; Colburn, Minn. 4 minutes 42 1-5 seconds.

120-yard hurdles—Hasbrook, Minn.; Hauser, Neb. 15 2-5 seconds.

Hammer throw—Martin, Neb.; 116 feet 5 inches; Matson, Minn., 109 feet 5 inches.

440-yard run—Smith, Neb.; Haroldson, Minn. 52 seconds.

Running high jump—Hasbrook, Minn.; Benedict and Quick tied for second. 5 feet 7 inches.

Discus throw—Newton, Neb.; Thorp, Minn. 109 feet 1/2 inch.

Half mile run—Redford, Minn.; States, Neb. 2 minutes 13 seconds.

220-yard hurdles—Hasbrook, Minn.; Hauser, Neb. 25 3-5 seconds.

220-yard dash—Redmond, Minn.; Smith, Neb. 22 4-5 seconds.

Two mile run—Havens, Neb.; States, Neb. 10 minutes 36 3-5 seconds.

Broad jump—Kiefer, Minn.; Hagensick, Neb., 21 feet 1 1/2 inch.

Relay race—Minnesota. 3 minutes 32 seconds.

Concerning the meet Dr. Clapp said: "I am pleased with the work that the men did. No man did less than was expected of him, but on the contrary most of them did more."

In the published list of required subjects for Phi Beta Kappa the phrase "including Anglo-Saxon" and "including Gothic" do not mean that these subjects are required for eligibility, but that if they are taken by anyone they are to be counted toward the requirements in English and English literature, and Modern language and philology respectively.
