POSTPONE CIRCUS

Big Consolidated Not to Show Until Tomorrow.

The Line-Up is Now Fixed.—Program of the Events.

The big faculty shows will not be held today, but have been postponed until tomorrow afternoon. In the meantime, however, the two football teams are practicing steadily for the mammoth contest tomorrow, under the leadership of Captains Bolton and Emerson. Doctor Bolton's long training in the Lincoln boarding houses has made him an expert at snapping the ball, and his team is developing remarkable speed under his instruction. Professor Emerson's pupils are out in the suburbs of Lincoln chasing prairie dogs. It is supposed that this is for the purpose of getting them into the proper limberness for running down Professor Dean's punts. The two teams will line up as follows:

- | | |
|-------------|--------------|
| Bolton | Emerson |
| Fossler | Piper |
| Aylsworth | Sheldon |
| Fee | Lyman |
| Condra | Chatburn |
| Almy, Quinn | Pound |
| Walte | Dean |
| Wolcott | Paine |
| | Hollingworth |
| Graves | Park, Hinman |
| Chase | Ledwith |
| | Holman |
| Payne | Johnson |
| Willisford | |

The complete program will be as follows:

- Procession and exhibition of imported draught and coach stallions.
- Cavalcade—Under direction of Colonel Bills and Prof. Taylor.
- High School Horse Exhibit—Registered Saddle Horse of Col. Bills.
- Trained Harness Horse of Prof. Taylor.
- Broncho busting.
- Great wild animal show, under direction of Mr. J. Fossler.
- Pyramids by Class in Athletics.
- Country Stunts—Profs. Caldwell and Ross.

College Songs Tomorrow.

Tomorrow morning instead of the usual musical program, a college song rally will be held in Memorial Hall. Everybody is urged to secure a copy of the song book used last year. These may be had of Professor Candy or Doctor Bolton. The price is 20 cents a copy.

Last year these song programs were very popular. Every effort will be made to have them so this year, and a cordial invitation is extended to everyone to come out.

MICKEY GIVES A TALK

Governor Delivers Short Address at Convocation.

Yesterday morning at convocation, Governor Mickey addressed a large audience, in spite of the fact that it was not known until shortly before chapel time that he would talk. His subject was, "Problems to Solve," and proved to be most interesting. Extracts from it follow:

"To assume that any individual ever becomes entirely independent of environments and conditions is a manifest error. In the moment of his fancied security, when circumstances are all apparently in his favor and not a cloud dims the horizon of his prospects, the waves of adversity may come without warning and in a moment chaos and ruin exist where formerly security sat enthroned. All the teachings of human experience impress upon our minds this one fact—that the boast of individual independence is vain.

"There is an analogy between the individual and the nation—between the atom and the object of which it is a part. The inherent strength or weakness of the one is sure to have its counterpart in the other and the mere process of multiplication does not change the ratio existing between virtue and vice. We look with pride to the wonderful results that have been accomplished since the Pilgrim Fathers set foot upon Plymouth Rock and laid the foundations for an era of liberty and national genius such as the world has never before contemplated. On various patriotic holidays and public occasions we are prone to recount our national strength and the history of our achievements, while our hearts swell with pride at the recital. Truly it is a magnificent subject and sluggish indeed are the wellsprings of patriotism that are not stirred by it.

"In these days of multiplied population, stupendous industrial activity, aggrandized wealth and corporate monopoly is there not a tendency to depart from those principles of equality before the law, of self-restraint, of fraternal interest and religious consecration which characterized our earlier years as a nation? It seems to me that there is and that the great need of our times is for consecrated leaders who can distinguish the right through all the sophistries of error and who can lead the people out from the perils which threaten them. Abraham Lincoln was such a man. I believe that he was ordained of God to perform his mighty part in the drama of human liberty, but that God made use of him because the bent of his thoughts and energies was in harmony with the Divine will. When, in the memorable senatorial campaign of 1858, Lincoln enunciated the famous principle that 'this nation cannot continue to exist, half slave and half free,' he consecrated his life to the gigantic struggle against slavery. His closest personal friends advised him against the utterance, urging that the time was not opportune. But Lincoln was led by a higher power. His mental vision saw beyond the present, comprehending that the very existence of the Union (Continued on Second Page.)

PREPARE FOR KNOX

Foot Ball Men Work Hard For a Big Game Saturday.

Knox Looks Strong to the Dopsters.—Good Game Assured.

Last night practice was full of snap and ginger, the cold weather making fast playing easier. McDonald was given a try at quarter on the varsity and staid with them. Quarterbacks are not the most of Nebraska troubles now. Mills was at right guard, having been shifted from center, and Borg replaced. Manager Davis left for Minneapolis last night to make final arrangements for the game there next week. Upon his return Saturday definite announcement can probably be made regarding the proposed excursion to Minnesota.

Saturday we meet the doughty team from Knox. While this game is not causing the speculation that some others are, yet it will be a good one. Two years ago the men from Galesburg sprang a complete surprise on us and held Nebraska 7-0. Last year, while the score was some larger, they scored and this year they report one of the best teams in their football history. All of Nebraska's men are in good condition again, with the exception of Borg, whose ankle is still too stiff to stand much strain. Saturday the rooters will be able to get a final line on the team as lined up before meeting the Gophers. The new rush line, with Benedict and Johnson at ends will be given its first trial, and the result will be watched with a good deal of interest, for this is the way things should be. The athletic board is put to no little expense to bring the Knox men here, and a good crowd should turn out. New yells and songs have been received and will be used then for the first time. Let the rooting section be full, and every rooster accompanied with a megaphone.

REPUBLICANS MEET.

New Political Club Formed Last Night.

The university republicans met in Memorial Hall last evening and effected a permanent organization. R. C. Ozman was chosen chairman, J. K. Morrison, vice-chairman, and W. J. Woods secretary. A committee on membership was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Chase, Stoakes, Walker, Swan, Martin, Ritchie, Case, Bender, Keyser, Pepperberg. Over two hundred men were present.

Hon. A. W. Jeffries of Omaha, who had been engaged to address the meeting, could not attend on account of other business. Judge Cosgrove, of Lincoln, took his place and made a short talk on the issues of the campaign. Hon. Joseph Burns, a member of the last house of representatives, and Mr. P. F. Beghtol also gave short talks. The club will meet again next Friday night.

A challenge from the Jeffersonian club of the university for a joint debate on the issues of the campaign was received and will probably be accepted.
