THE DEBATING WORLD.

What is Happening in Debate Elsewhere.

An anonymous representative of some other college was seen on the campus a few days ago trying to get the results of Nebraska's investigation on the "Compulsory Arbitration" question, which was debated a year ago against Kansas by Buckner, Lee and James. The gentleman declined to tell who he was or what college he represented. He said his college was preparing for a debate with some other college, but refused to tell what college or to whom the material was to be given. His request was politely declined and he departed with little satisfaction in the way of information.

The question chosen for debate in the coming contest between the Universities of Michigan and of Wisconsin, is as follows: "Resolved, That party candidates for state, county and city elective offices for the state and national legislatures should be nominated by direct vote. Constitutionalality conceded." The debate will be held at Madison, Wis., March 24, 1905. In accordance with the agreement between the Oratorical associations of the two universities, Wisconsin proposed the question this year, and Michigan has the choice of sides. Each university will be represented by a team composed of three men who are supposed to be its best debaters. At Wisconsin these men are chosen by election; at Michigan they are the winners of a series of preliminary contests held among the members of the various literary societies.

Wisconsin is trying to get a debate with Cornell university.

Miss Elsie Farrell, who attended the university year before last, will be married to Mr. Edward Thornton of Chicago, December 19.

Can you converse
Intelligently regarding any book you may have been reading—as if you had really read it up completely? Well, a novel, a poem, a history, a biography, a drama, an oration, a sermon, or any other literary production, if read or studied as our new book tells one how, becomes a subject which one can discuss or write about in a thoroughly intelligent and comprehensive way.
