Editorial Remarks

The Freshman Laws have acceded to the conditions imposed upon them by the ultimatum resulting from a larger representation in the Academic classes, and have deposited the amount of the filthy lure necessary to purchase them the opportunity to meet the Sophs. for the inter-class football championship. The position of the Sophomores all along has seemed somewhat arbitrary, but now the game should be pulled off as soon as possible. The senseless squabble has caused too much comment and hard feeling already, and no good can possibly come of prolonging it. We are here, not to fight one another, but to pull together for Nebraska. There is no reason why these class games should not conduce to the good of our Alma Mater, if everybody gives a little, and takes a little. If the game is played the result will be announced. Till then, enough of this.

There was lots of enthusiasm and Nebraska spirit present at the second

Cornhusker football banquet Monday evening, but the enthusiasm and spirit ought to have been trebled, and more men should have been present to accomplish. This banquet is the only means of the sort the student body has to show its appreciation of the work the football team has done in the season past, and that there were not enough paid tickets sold to enable the committee in charge to get into the clear is no compliment to the general college spirit of Nebraska students. The price per plate was not prohibitive, and more men should have been out. It is to be hoped that next year's banquet will be much better attended. Along this line the business men helping to make the affair as successful as it was should not be forgotten. The Lindell hotel donated the neat menu cards, the New Century Press the tickets, and Messrs C. H. Frey and Chapin Brothers kindly donated the flowers and ferns with which the banquet tables were decorated.

A good deal of annoyance was created during the talk of Regent Whitmore Wednesday morning by the noise of basketball players in the gym. This uproar was imputed to the basketball team, but wrongly, for at this time the team was in consultation in Dr. Clapp's office. The noise was caused by the 11:30 gym. class coming on the floor too soon, and interrupting to a certain extent the convocation exercises. This is not the only time inconvenience of this nature has been experienced and the gym should be kept clear of basketball players during the convocation period.

The Rhetoric 17 debate yesterday afternoon with the members of Rhetoric 13 as an audience, was the most spirited of the year. The presence of Rhetoric 13 spurred the contestants—Sawyer, Hanley, Levy and Brookings to their best. The give-and-take rebuttal several times called out applause. Hanley and Sawyer supported the affirmative of the proposition that the initiative and referendum should be introduced into Nebraska. The necessity of confining the debate to the one hour cut down the time allowed each speaker, which lent additional speed to rapid tackling.

When patronizing any of the business places in the city the students can show a deal of loyalty by patronizing, especially, those which patronize us. Often opportunities come up when the men in town can show their interest in the university, and some of them invariably take advantage of these opportunities. These men should be borne in mind, and given the preference whenever it is possible for the student body to do so.

The members of the Senior Class have been levied upon for one dollar as a deposit for their class pins. The pin is unique in design, being a tiny gold owl seated upon a book, upon which the class numerals are engraved. A quill pen pierces the book.

The Big Cabinet will meet in the Y. W. C. A. room from 6 to 8 Friday evening. This is the time for the written reports of the last month's work.

Just a Suggestion.

There is nothing you can give for Christmas that will be more appreciated than an artistic Portrait. Money spent in this way goes farther than in any other line.
