Editorial Remarks

Professor Richards.

The Sombrero Board could not have dedicated the Sombrero to a more worthy and deserving member of the faculty than Professor Richards. Professor Richards is an exceptionally progressive man and the present high standard of the Nebraska Engineering School is due for the most part to his great ability and indefatigable energy. When he came to Nebraska thirteen years ago the Engineering Department was a comparatively unimportant department of the University. Through his efforts that school is now one of the several departments of the University which award to Nebraska the leadership of western universities.

Professor Richards' energies have not been confined to the Engineering Department, but nearly every useful phase of University activity has felt his helpful influence. He is a man of the University and it is very fitting that the book of the University should so appreciate him.

"The sororities have entered into an agreement whereby their informals will close at 11:30 p. m. and their annuals at 1 a. m. The Illinois.

It is with considerable hesitation that we bring the above to the notice of the sorority girl at Nebraska. Should she, prompted by another spirit of reform, decide to do likewise she would probably carry her decision into effect, and we'd be sorry we spoke. Illinois has had her luxuries cut in length, we in number. Honors are even.

Tomorrow night brings to a close the basketball season of 1904-05 when the University meets the five from William Jewell College. Most of the games played by the team this season have been away from home, and only a few opportunities have been afforded to support the map as we should. The financial condition of the basketball treasury will permit of a large crowd witnessing tomorrow's game and then the strong box will not overflow to any alarming extent. A good crowd at this, the last game of the season, will set things right financially, and what's more, it will make the team feel that we appreciate the excellent record they made for Nebraska. The gymnasium should be crowded tomorrow night.

As yet only one game to decide the inter-class basketball championship has been played, and from present indications this is the only game which will be played. Sometime ago the Sophomore team defeated the Freshman team, thereby winning the right to play the winner of the Senior-Junior game for the championship. But so far no Senior-Junior game has been forthcoming. The Sophomores now say that, in event no other class team is put in the field to compete with them, within a certain date, they will claim the honor. The stand taken by '07, while rather unsatisfactory to themselves and to the other classes, is undoubtedly warranted. They have gone to the trouble of developing a good team, have met and defeated the only team with nerve or spirit enough to oppose them, and now are in a position to take for granted what the Seniors and Juniors apparently lack the proper spirit to fight for, the inter-class championship. This tamely allowing such an honor to go by default certainly casts anything but glory upon the members of the Senior and Junior classes. '07 deserves all she has earned, and '08 also is to be commended.

Communication.

From the charges made against the Sombrero committee of the Sophomore class by the minority leader at the class meeting yesterday morning an explanation will be timely and fitting. The committee wishes to state that if evidence was lacking to convince the members yesterday morning that business economy was employed in getting the rates for Sophomore representation in the Junior Annual the facts are now prepared to corroborate the contention of the supporters of the committee. The facts were not at hand yesterday morning but they are now compiled and we are prepared to show that the representation of the Sophomore class in the Junior Annual is larger, and the rates because of the largeness of the representation better, than any class with the exception of the Juniors.

A seed corn special will start out over the Union Pacific railroad Wednesday, March 15. The main line to Kearney will be followed with frequent stops and all branches north of Columbus and Grand Island. Professor J. L. Lyon, of the School of Agriculture, will be the principle speaker and will be assisted by six other lecturers. This is the first corn special sent out over the Union Pacific and it is expected that others will follow before corn planting time.

A bill recently passed by the Pennsylvania legislature makes hazing a crime. It declares that if any person or persons shall maliciously inflict on any person any grievous bodily harm by what is commonly known as hazing, either with or without any weapon or instrument, while attending or going to or coming from any of the common schools, colleges, universities or any other institution of learning within this commonwealth, he, she or they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. "Being convicted, he, she or they shall be sentenced to a fine not exceeding $500, or undergo an imprisonment of not more than six months, or both."—Athenaeum.
