Editorial Remarks

The girls fortunate enough to receive a share of Missouri's hospitality cannot speak highly enough of the excellent treatment accorded them. If there is one position Nebraska graces more than that of guest it is that of host. It is our turn next year.

The condolence expressed by the resolution drawn up by the Freshman Law class at the death of William L. Anderson are expressive of the sentiment of the whole University. Our deepest sympathy goes out to the family of the deceased, sympathy the more sincere in that the loss is mutual.

Seen on a Lincoln street car Sunday: "Baseball today University campus. Game called at 3 p. m." What food for the anti-University howlers. Sunday baseball at the State University. Shocking if true. But the "if" saves us and cheats the howlers. Through some unfortunate oversight this sign, applying to the game scheduled for Saturday was allowed to remain on the front of the car and advertise the University in a manner apt to cause unfavorable comment. No complaint regarding Sunday baseball has yet been forthcoming from the Lincolnites residing in the immediate vicinity of the campus.

The Advisory Board of the Y. M. C. A. met in the Association rooms last evening at seven o'clock. The resignation of J. Dean Ringer, who has served as general secretary of the association for the past two years, when he finishes to take effect in June, when he finishes his law course and leaves the University. A vote of appreciation was given him for his services during the years of his connection with the Association. Among other matters of business taken up was the securing of a man to succeed him, and was referred to a committee for investigation and further action.

House roll 250, the salaries bill which provides for an appropriation of three hundred and fifty thousand dollars for University salaries and which passed the House some time ago, was amended by the Senate yesterday and sent back to the House for the concurrence of the House in the amendment. The amendment, however, does not effect the part of the bill relating to the appropriation for University salaries, so that the part of the bill in which the University is directly interested remains intact after having passed through deliberation of both houses of the legislature. This would seem to indicate that, at least as far as the legislature is concerned, the University is going to next year be much better supplied with money for salaries than it has heretofore. This is one of the greatest handicaps with which the University officials have had to contend and has cost the institution some of the strongest members of its faculty.

Senate File 180, the Historical Society bill, has been advanced to the third reading in the House and will come up to a vote sometime this week.
