Editorial Remarks

TROUBLE AHEAD.

If last night's occurrence is any indication, all will not be easy sailing for the Freshmen and their party this evening. The Sophs naturally have it in for the Freshies for they haven't yet forgotten that they themselves once bore the title and the big rock affair hasn't tended to cause any forgetfulness on the part of '07. The Freshman party has always been productive of more or less animosity and there has always been one particularly disagreeable feature in the exhibition of class rivalry. There is always a crowd waiting at the entrance of the hall seeking whom they may devour and not caring always whether a Freshman is the victim or not. With the mob spirit strong within them and "class spirit" equally strong the fellows lost control of themselves and behave in a manner unbecoming gentlemen and scholars. The girls who attend the party should not be subjected to the slightest annoyance or inconvenience. The coeds never are the direct object of attack, of course, but their escort very frequently is, much to her inconvenience. Last year considerable damage was done at the hall when the dance was in progress. Such "fool things" aren't at all indicative of class loyalty.

MASS MEETING.

Every college student has heard of the beautiful land immortalized by Longfellow's "Evangeline," but it is seldom their privilege to meet and hear one who was born and reared in that famous country. Rev. L. M. Denton, who will deliver an address to university men next Sunday was born in Nova Scotia, in the beautiful land of "Arcadia." Rev. Denton not only grew up among those scenes in the north land, but he has traveled about and made a special study of the scenes described by the famous poet. He is a graduate of Acadia university (Nova Scotia), where he was active in athletics and where he represented his college in intercollegiate debate. After completing his collegiate course he entered and graduated from Rochester, N. Y., Theological seminary, where he received favorable mention for his scholarly work, which was comfortably near the top. During the past four years Rev. Denton has spent a very successful pastorate in this city and is recognized as a man of more than ordinary ability as a thinker and as a public speaker.

Meeting will be under the auspices of the University Y. M. C. A. Art hall Sunday, May 7, 3-4 p. m. Good song service.

Dramatic Club Play.

Every one who has attended the previous plays presented by the dramatic club this year will be glad to learn that another opportunity for an evening of thorough enjoyment will be offered tomorrow evening in Memorial hall.

The play in the presentation of "Fenel" is a romantic drama translated from the French by Jerome R. Geyone and is sometimes called "The Violin Maker of Cremona." It is a scene from Italian life of 1750.

A great deal of careful thought and practice has been put upon the play and the caste is especially well fitted for the parts. Mr. John Clark portrays the bibulous old master violinist, Ferrari. Miss Minnie Hiller as his daughter Grannina, has the only feminine part in the play. Harold Steiner has the part of Filippo, a hunchback, apprentice to Ferrari and is a suitor for Giannina's hand. Roy Sunderland as Sandro is also an apprentice to Ferrari and is the rival of Filippo.

The plot hinges on a contest in violin construction, the winner of which is to gain not only fame but the hand of Giannina as well.

Music by Miss Denny and Miss Knutzen and a male quartet including Messrs. Hutton, Wallace, Higgins and Edgerton will add to the pleasure of the evening.

ENGINEERS' BANQUET.

Committee Wants Names of Those Who Will Attend.

The Engineers' banquet to be held at the Lindell hotel Saturday night, promises to be the best ever held by the society. Arrangements are fast nearing completion and the committee in charge urges all Engineering students who intend to be present to purchase tickets at once or inform some member of the committee of their intention to attend. Unless this is done, no means will be at hand for determining the number of plates, and this will greatly hamper the work of the committee and the hotel managers.

Hand names in to any one of the committeemen before Saturday morning and help make the banquet a pronounced success. Following is the committee in charge F. H. Geer, J. B. Gibbs, R. H. White, A. G. Schreiber and Walter Standeven.

Musical Program.

The name of Miss Stella Rice, who will preside at the organ during the musical program which will be given at Convocation this morning was omitted from the announcement of the program in yesterday's Nebraskan. The corrected program will read as follows:

- Selections from "Carmen."
- Solo and chorus, Habanera.
- Duet, "Tis of Her That Thou Art Speaking."
- Solo, "Gypsies' Song."
- Quintet, "All's Prepared."
- Solo and chorus, "The Toreador's Song."
- Solists—Mrs. E. Lewis Baker, Mrs. R. A. Holyoke, Mr. Everett B. Carder, Mr. B. B. Gillespie.
- Pianist—Miss Edith Burlingame.
- Organist—Miss Stella Rice.
- University chorus and orchestra.

The debate between the Students' Debating club of the University and the Alpha Omega club of Doane college will be held in this city tomorrow evening. The debate promises to rival one between two much larger bodies than the respective teams represent. Both of the teams heard the Nebraska interstate debates and with the individual work done by the men on the teams the debate should be close and exciting. Mr. J. A. McGulre has been secured to preside over the debate. The judges of the evening will be Dr. Ross, Judge Hastings and Attorney Miller.

Breakfast.

- Young raisines.
- White biscuits.
- Creamed coffee.
- A good big breakfast.
- For 25 cents.
- Saturday, 7:00 to 10:00. St. Paul's church.
