SCORED AGAINST

SOUTH DAKOTA SCORES ON A FUMBLE.

Men Show Strong Defensive and Offensive Work, But Fumble the Ball Badly.

With the weather the warmest it has ever been for a football game the varsity defeated South Dakota by a score of 42 to 6. The fumbling of the varsity at critical times was all that prevented the score from being much higher. Case, the South Dakota man, distinguished himself in getting the ball on a fumble, and running the entire length of the field for a touchdown. At another time Bromley snatched the ball after it was downed and made a touchdown, but the referee did not allow this.

Nebraska found the South Dakota ends easy, and as a result several long and spectacular runs were made. Denslow is credited with the longest run of the game, for after tearing around the end and dodging the back field, he ran fifty-five yards for a touchdown. The work of Taylor and Cotton on line plunges was as good as ever seen on the Nebraska gridiron. Borg at center and Weller at tackle also played great games. Johnson at end was easily the star of Saturday's game, for at all times he was sure in his tackling, an excellent ground gainer and showed more head work than any other man on the team. The work of the back field was indeed very gratifying to the scarlet and cream supporters.

A number of South Dakota players left the game in bad condition. Bennett had his collarbone broken in two places and Bromley suffered a fracture of three ribs. The visitors were badly crippled by the loss of their captain, Brown, who was hurt in the Yankton game and was unable to come to Lincoln.

The rooting in the Dakota game was very enthusiastic and strong. The organized rooters' squad appeared for the first time and did excellent work. South Dakota was not forgotten, but given a very enthusiastic reception. The varsity appreciates the work of the rooters more than anything else the students can do and for this reason the rooters are to be commended. The game in detail is as follows:

First Half.

At a few minutes after three the teams took their places on the field. Eyans kicked off for South Dakota, sending the ball whirling toward Nebraska's goal. Weller received the ball on the twenty-five yard line, and made a good run of twenty-five yards before he was brought to the ground. On the first play Cotton was pulled back and given the ball, but he fumbled after carrying it five yards, but recovered it again. Cotton's work in Saturday's game in falling on the ball was of very high order. South Dakota was putting every bit of strength and energy they could into their defense and for this reason the gains were small. After advancing to the center of the field Morse fumbled, and the South Dakotas got the ball on their fifty-two yard line. Dakota then tried our line in a play directed against Nelson, and he yielded, allowing an advance of three yards. Lattin and Bromley made two and three yard gains, but after the ball had progressed seven yards, Nelson braced and Cotton was given a trial by Lattin, but could not gain an inch. Nebraska received the ball on downs on her own forty-eight yard line.

Nebraska again began a slow advance through South Dakota's line. Schmidt was then tried for an end run, and made twenty-five yards around left end. This was the first long run of the game. In the next play, Wilson carried the ball to the five yard line and was tackled around the neck, taking out time to recover from his injury. In one more play Taylor was pushed over for the first touchdown, nine minutes after the kick-off. Cotton missed the goal. Score, 5-0.

Cotton received the ball on the next kick-off and carried it back to the Nebraska forty yard line. Denslow and Johnson gained easily by good end runs, but at the fifty yard line the ball was fumbled and Tolefson fell on it. Bromley and Lattin tried both sides of the line, but failed to gain. Bennett punted, but Weller broke through the line and blocked the punt, falling on the ball on Dakota's twenty yard line. Cotton plunged through the line for ten yards, but on a second attempt was downed after advancing five yards. Mason went through center for the remaining two yards and a touchdown. Morse kicked goal. Score, 11-0.

The varsity was offside at the next kick-off and was penalized five yards and required to kick the second time. Lattin received the ball for South Dakota and returned it to the thirty-five yard line. Here he was downed by Johnson in one of the prettiest tackles of the day. Cuppet fumbled, Denslow tried to pick up the ball, but failed and Cotton fell on it. Nebraska now advanced the ball to the South Dakota four yard line. Morse gave the signal for a line buck by Wilson, but he missed the ball and it rolled into Case's hands. The next thing the spectators were conscious of was a South Dakota man tearing across the field with the ball under his arm. Taylor was the nearest man, ten yards in the rear, and while he made a noble effort to catch Case, he soon out-distanced him and planted the ball back of Nebraska's goal posts. Walker kicked an easy goal, making the score 6-11. This was the first score of the season against Nebraska.

Little went in for Wilson, who was hurt early in the game, but had stuck with the game regardless of his injuries. South Dakota received the ball on her twenty-five yard line, but was unable to gain against the varsity. A five yard penalty for offside play forced them to punt, Walker punting to Morse, who returned it to the center of the field, where he fumbled it when tackled, Nelson falling on the ball. Nebraska made short gains and once barely prevented a loss of the ball on downs after a five yard penalty. Again the varsity continued the forward march to South Dakota's ten yard line, when Morse again fumbled and South Dakota took the ball. Walker punted to the center of the field and Morse returned it twenty-five yards. Nebraska again forced the ball to within a foot of their opponent's goal, where Bromley made the spectators groan by snatching the ball after it was down and running the entire length of the field for a touchdown. But Referee Cornell refused to allow a touchdown and the ball was carried back to the South Dakota goal. In one more play Taylor forced the ball over the line for a touchdown. Morse missed the goal. Score, 16-6. Morse downed the ball on the kick-off on the thirty yard line and a quarterback run by Morse around left end advanced the ball thirty yards. The last run of this half was a spectacular one, by Little around left end for a touchdown near the corner of the field. Morse tried a kick out for position to Johnson, but missed and Nebraska lost its chance for a goal. Eager went into the game
