WHY?

Yesterday afternoon one of the interclass football managers asked permission of the officials to schedule a game for Friday afternoon, and was refused on the ground that to allow a game of interclass football in the afternoon of any school day would cut into regular class work too much. If the authorities maintain their stand in this position, it will mean the failure of interclass football this year, and we do not feel that they are justified in assuming this attitude. There will be but three games of football between the classes this year, as the law classes have not organized teams as yet, and have fused with the academic classes. This means that six teams, or sixty men, will play, and it is safe to say that not over a fourth of these have classes from two to three in the afternoon of any day. We have been interested in interclass athletics for some while, but we have never yet seen anybody who was not a player cut a class for a game, so that at the most there would be but twenty cuts this month on account of the games. It does not seem to the average student that this is enough of a disadvantage to justify the authorities in prohibiting contests on any day but Saturday in the face of the many disadvantages which contests on that day would suffer from. In the first place, it would be practically impossible to get out any sort of a crowd at the interclass games if they were played Saturday morning, as only a very small part of the student body have any occasion for coming upon the campus that day. This would prevent the interclass board from getting any gate-money with which to buy sweaters for the champion team, thus withdrawing one of the greatest inducements for men to try out for the class teams. That the development of men on the class teams is of great importance is shown by the fact that three of the men playing on the varsity at the present time first played on class teams, and probably would never have tried out for the first team had it not been for their experiences on class teams. In view of these facts, it seems to us as if permission should be given the class teams to play on any afternoon.

Cross Country.

Have you ever done any long distance running? Do you think you can run? Would you like to run with the C. C. squad for exercise? We need you in this squad.

Nebraska should have between fifty and one hundred men running with the C. C. squad every night, and last night only nine men were out. Nebraska was represented by an exceptionally strong team last year, but one of these men is available this year. If we expect to retain the cup Nebraska must have more men, and better men to win again. There is no doubt but that it will take a much better team to win this year than it did in 1904. At least twenty-five students have taken part in the C. C. work this year, and it is the duty of every man to come out and do his best to help develop a winning team. There will be a meeting of all those interested in this work in my office at 11 a. m., Thursday, November 9.

This meeting is called to arouse once more the interest which seems to be fast dying out, except with a handful of men. It is for the purpose of transacting some important business, too. Keep the time in mind, 11 a. m., Thursday. R. G. CLAPP.

Illinois Game Not to Be Moved.

The following article regarding the Thanksgiving game with Illinois appeared in "The Illini," the daily newspaper of the University of Illinois, Sunday:

"President William Meldorth of the Three Eye league yesterday presented a petition to Graduate Manager Huff, asking that the Illinois-Nebraska game on Thanksgiving Day, be played at Peoria. The invitation was signed by Mayor Tolson. President Meldorth and the newspapers of the city.

The Three Eye league directors at a recent meeting voted free use of the Lake View grounds and endorsed the petition."

When seen yesterday afternoon in regard to the above article, Dr. Clapp made the following statement:

"Under no consideration would we think of taking the Thanksgiving game away from Lincoln. Arrangements have been completed for holding the contest here and they will not be changed. In my opinion there would not be as large an attendance at the game were it held in Peoria as there will be here in Lincoln.

"If a Nebraska-Illinois game is scheduled next year it probably will be played at Champaign but the game this season will be pulled off in Lincoln."

the coaches and he gives a very good account of himself for a new man. Cotton and Jenkins still continue to fill the guard positions and unless some new men show up they will have those places for the rest of the season.

A mass meeting has been arranged for Friday of this week in the chapel. Mrs. Raymond and the rooster leaders will have charge of this meeting. Mrs. Raymond has arranged a musical program consisting entirely of University songs. About five minutes of this time will be devoted to yelling. Everyone should remember this time and come prepared to add every bit of enthusiasm to the meeting they possibly can.
