COLORADO TODAY

MOUNTAINEERS PROMISE A HARD GAME.

Big Crowd Will See the Best Game of Season on Home Grounds—Nebraska is Ready.

All is in preparation for the big game today, and when the game is called at two-thirty grandstand and bleachers will be packed with rooters, not all of whom will be wearing the Scarlet and Cream. An excursion of 350 Coloradoans will arrive in Lincoln about ten o'clock this morning, armed with colors and megaphones, and determined to out-root Nebraska on her own field. Thursday 200 grandstand seats were reserved for the delegation and yesterday morning the Colorado manager had an additional 150 set aside, having received word that more tickets had been sold than he had counted on. On account of a war between the Union Pacific and the Burlington, a round trip rate of five dollars was secured, and accordingly half the college is coming along. With this opposition to fight against, our own rooters will do the best that is in them, and Nebraska field will be the scene of as pretty an exhibition of college spirit as any western field has ever seen.

The Colorado team arrived in Lincoln early Friday morning, and at once went to the Lindell. At eleven o'clock they came up to the University and attended the football rally, which seemed to interest them very much. One of the players expressed himself as being much pleased with the football song sung by the band. After that they spent the remainder of the day in quiet, until three o'clock, when they were taken out to the state farm for a final signal practice, for which they did not even put on their togs. While not confident of defeating Nebraska, still the men are determined to put up the game of their lives and to fight to the last whistle. All the men are in fine physical condition, and show no effects of the journey.

Nebraska is ready for the game, and confidence of victory reigns in Booth's camp. Every man is in good condition, with the exception of Denslow, whose ankle is getting worse, and may keep him out of the game for the rest of the season. Avery and McDonald will take care of his position very satisfactorily, however, and with Johnson on the other wing of the line, Caley will probably fail to pull off any of his spectacular runs. Benedict was never in finer form, and every student is confident that the old moss-grown trick used on Minnesota, Illinois and all the rest of them will be good for at least fifty yards some time during the game. While the line is still somewhat weak, Nebraska never had a better secondary defense, and line bucks will net Colorado but little.

FOOTBALL

NEBRASKA VS. COLORADO

SATURDAY, NOV. 11
2:30 P. M.

On account of the early evenings, the game today will begin at half past two instead of half an hour later, and full halves will be played. The field is in very good condition, considering the rain of a week ago, and although soft enough to prevent any player from sustaining severe bruises, is not soft enough to prevent fast work. For the first time in six weeks the ball will be dry enough to allow of good punting, and the contest between Benedict and Caley will be interesting, with odds perhaps a little in favor of the latter.

In case of victory for Nebraska, the annual bon-fire will probably be prepared by the students. If this proves to be true, the football management urges the students to build the fire some place other than on the football field, for the heat bakes the ground so that play over that spot is dangerous for the rest of the season.

The teams will line up as follows:

Nebraska.	Colorado.

The Michigan Daily has the following to say about girls rooting squads at football games:

"The movement among the girls to attend the Wisconsin game in a body is meeting success on all sides. Director Baird has promised to reserve two whole sections for girls exclusively. The girls themselves are responding nobly to the opportunity, a goodly number having already put down their names for tickets, while over the campus, team and students are enthusiastic over the display of Michigan spirit among the girls.

"Captain Norcross, speaking of the Minnesota-Wisconsin game, said: 'They had a whole section with nothing but girls. I didn't suppose they'd make any noise, but whenever Minnesota made a gain, you ought to hear those girls cheer.'

"There have always been a lot of girls in the past who wanted to go to the big games, but didn't like to go alone in a big crowd. The new arrangement will be ideal in avoiding this difficulty.

"Girls who want to get in on this should leave their names at Barbour gym before this noon in order to secure seats in the reserved section."

What Michigan does do, Nebraska ought to do. Let our Nebraska girls this afternoon remember their Michigan sisters and go and do likewise.

Mass Meeting Tomorrow.

The men's mass meeting at the Oliver theatre tomorrow will be under the joint auspices of the city and university Y. M. C. A's. These meetings are always attended by a large crowd of university students, who derive much benefit from them. Entertaining programs are always arranged, and the one tomorrow will be in no way behind the standard. Mr. Frank R. Roberson, one of the most noted lecturers of the country, will deliver an illustrated lecture.

The English Club will meet with Miss Howell at Melick Court on Saturday, November 11.

MINNESOTA NEXT

FINAL ARRANGEMENTS MADE WITH THE NORTHWESTERN.

Six Dollar Rate Finally Secured—Two Hundred Tickets Guaranteed—More Will Go.

Late Thursday night the negotiations between the athletic board and the railroads terminated favorably and a six-dollar rate was secured for the round trip to see the Minnesota game a week from today. Several weeks ago a rate of six dollars for second-class and eight dollars for first-class passengers was granted but this was unsatisfactory to the board, and no excursion would have been run had the railroads not made a first-class rate of six dollars. The special train will leave Lincoln about six o'clock Friday evening, and will arrive in Minneapolis early the next morning, running over the Northwestern via Fremont. Two hundred tickets are guaranteed, but at least a thousand students and townspeople should take advantage of this opportunity and go along to cheer for the team. Pullman berths will cost five dollars for the round trip and tourist two and a half dollars.

Housewarming.

The Union Society held their first meeting in their newly furnished hall last night and the evening was made memorable by an old-fashioned housewarming. Songs were sung, games played, stories told, and time made merry until a late hour. The society this year have been holding their meetings in U. 107 and various other places and their return to their old hall has been like the return of a prodigal son.

Their hall has been in poor condition lately. The plaster on the ceiling was loose and in places suspended as unique hangings. Aside from being unique, the hangings threatened every moment to fall. The University authorities have long held out to the society a promise of a steel ceiling, but because of a lack of men and a shortage in the appropriation fund, the ceiling will perhaps not be put on until next summer. For the present the room has been repapered, the fixtures of the stage somewhat changed and a new burlap, to match the color of the paper, will be put down. The cost of the burlap and paper will be about sixty dollars.

The hall is also used by the Students Debating Club and a law class. The former will defray a part of the expense of furnishing the hall.

Thanksgiving Game.

The reserved seats for the Thanksgiving game will be put on sale at Harry Porter's Wednesday morning, November 15.
