Deutscher Verein Case.

From a late issue of the Michigan Daily may be learned that at a recent meeting of one of the feminine sections of the Deutscher Verein the future "lehrerinnen" were made the victims of a practical joke. During the meeting, which was held in the room of one of the young ladies, a messenger appeared with a box for the club. Upon inspection the box was discovered to be a case of the national German beverage. However, only a half dozen of the bottles were "there with the goods," and the girls are wondering what became of the rest of the case.

There are also "Deutscher" clubs at the University of Nebraska. And if at some of their meetings a messenger should arrive with a "box for the club" the members had better be on their guard. They had better provide themselves beforehand with jackknives which have two blades and a CORK-SCREW.

A novel display of what some people call college spirit asserted itself at Michigan recently between the engineering and law departments of the university. It began with a football game representing the two departments and ended by a general all-round scrap of the supporters of each team. One disciple of Blackstone, seeing there was little chance to escape disgrace, pretended to faint. The blacksmiths thrust him head-first into a barrel half full of rain water. Under such heroic treatment he soon recovered consciousness.

Governor Utter of Rhode Island has offered the following prizes at Brown University: A prize of thirty dollars for an essay on the subject "Arbitration as a practicable method for the adjustment of international controversies;" two prizes, one of forty and one of twenty dollars, to be open for competition in public debate, upon the subject, "Resolved, That arbitration is a practical method for the adjustment of international controversies." The prizes are open to seniors and juniors.

The Junior class had a meeting this week at which time, without consideration or discussion, they refused to allow Manager Dirks' Nebraska musicians to in any way assist them in the Junior farce program. The matter had been carefully considered by some of the members before the meeting, and, when it came up for a vote, the possibilities of a combination were summarily quashed.—The Wave (University of Washington).

The following article taken from The Spokesman-Review of November 11 will probably be of some interest to friends of W. F. Meier, '03, Law '04: Olympia, Wash., Nov. 10.—The Spokane Smelting company, capital stock $2,000,000, filed articles of incorporation today in the office of the secretary of state. The incorporators are F. W. Dewart, W. F. Meier, J. L. Wilson, W. H. Wright, H. M. Keneffick.

Columbia has recently received the bequest of $50,000 for the formation of a Roosevelt chair of American History.

At the University of California they have a rooters hat, which all the rooters wear at the games.

Overcoats of Quality

"Kensington" O'coats at first glance reveal the highest quality. Not only are they made of the very best materials, but are made in a way to make the best coat. Every "Kensington" garment is good inside and out—guaranteed to hold its color and keep in shape.

No coat is better adapted to general wear than those long stylish coats. Loose and comfortable—easy to put on and take off.

You can have the best if you want it—the "Kensington" label is a sure guide. We are exclusive agents.

The sophomore class at Knox College, Illinois, have instituted a novel regulation for freshmen. This new rule forbids any member of the first-year class to wear a blue tie on the campus.

It is done at last. If we don't have a game with Nebraska next year the blame must rest on other shoulders than those of the Kansas Athletic Board.—Kansan.

A Large Proportion of habitually weak eyesight may be entirely remedied by the use of carefully adjusted glasses to assist the sight, and thereby remove the undue strain to which the eyes, under certain conditions, are subjected.

Those whose eyes are in a condition of perfect health will fail to understand the stress laid upon the preceding remarks. But those who have suffered from any defect or weakness of the eye will comprehend at once their great importance.

The former class of individuals, however, should have quite as much interest in the matter as the latter, for the old proverb that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" can find no better application than in the care of the eyes.
