PROF. WYER LEAVES

ACCEPTS POSITION AS REFERENCE LIBRARIAN.

Regents Accept Professor Wyer's Resignation at the Meeting Yesterday
—To Leave January 1, 1906.

Professor Wyer, who has been librarian at the University of Nebraska for the past eight years, has handed his resignation to the Regents and the same has been accepted. This resignation is to take effect on the first of January, 1906, and his work at the New York State Library begins immediately. He will hold the position as reference librarian in the New York library, and will also be a member of the faculty of the New York State Library School, the greatest of its type in America. His salary is much greater at this new position.

Since Professor Wyer came to Nebraska the University library has been doubled in size and importance. Eight years ago the library was limited to 35,000 volumes, while today the library contains 70,000 volumes. Besides this he has been very instrumental in building up the different departmental libraries. He has had thorough supervision over the library, being purchasing agent, spending $60,000 in the eight years for books, or an average of about $8,000 annually. He has worked without regard to personal desires, but has given his time and energies unsparingly to make the University of Nebraska library one of the best in the country. He has also had classes in bibliography, reference, library economy.

While in Lincoln, Professor Wyer has served three years on the board of trustees of the City Library association, and has also been a member of the State Library Commission. As a University man he has been one of the most loyal Nebraska has ever had. He has been a member of the Board of Directors of the Daily Nebraskan and has backed the Daily financially, being its foster father in several cases. Besides this, he has been a member of the Athletic Board for many years and as a football enthusiast he could always be relied upon for loyal support. He has been the leader of many football rallies in the past few years.

Professor Wyer received his degree from the University of Minnesota, and from there he went to Albany, New York, where he graduated from the New York State Library School. After graduation he spent a year on the staff of this school. Immediately after this he came to Nebraska, and has been here ever since, except for four months in the present year which he spent in the city library at Louisville, Kentucky. The regents granted him a leave of absence for this time, and while he desired a permanent leave it was not granted.

Nebraska in losing Professor Wyer loses a man which she will find a hard time in replacing. To secure a man with equal carefulness in his work and interest in the University at large means a great deal. What Professor Wyer has had has been Nebraska's, and this is the spirit that accomplishes most for the school. The successor to the position of librarian is not known, but it quite likely stands between two very prominent applicants.

Annual Art Exhibition.

The Twelfth Annual Art Exhibition of the Nebraska Art Association will open December 26, 1905, and close January 13, 1906. A large part of the pictures have been selected from the Art Exhibition at the Chicago Art Institute, which is a sufficient guarantee of the high excellence of the exhibition. The rest of the pictures will be carefully selected by Miss Cora Parker from the best New York, Philadelphia, and Boston artists. It is doubtful whether the patrons of this art exhibition fully realize the high standard maintained by these art exhibits. The fact is that the very best pictures from the very best American artists are exhibited here each year. No better exhibition will be found anywhere in the country than is shown from year to year by the Nebraska Art Association. Edward H. Barnard is this year sending ten of his pictures as a collection which will be a most interesting feature of the exhibition. The following list of names is a guarantee to all art lovers of the high character of the exhibition: Child Hassam, Frank W. Benson, Carlson, Eakins, Maynard, Irving R. Wiles, Hale, Roseland, and many others of equally high merit. Arrangements have been made for art lectures every other evening during the entire art exhibit. The names of the speakers and the subjects that they will talk on will be published as a part of the art catalogue. No means will be spared to make the exhibit interesting, entertaining and instructive. Nebraska teachers, of all other people, can least afford to miss this exhibit.

The gallery will be especially attractive this year owing to the fact that the Association has assisted in putting into it a large number of most beautiful casts which add materially to the artistic effect.

Arrangements have been made by which all of the teachers in attendance upon the Nebraska State Teachers' Association can be provided with season tickets good during the meeting of the Association, for 50 cents. When it is known that this is the amount that is charged for one admission, it will be realized how much the Association appreciates the patronage, support, and co-operation of the Nebraska State Teachers' Association.—University Journal.

Reception to Y. W. C. A.
The reception to be given this evening by the members of the Y. M. C. A. to the fair co-eds who constitute the Y. W. C. A. will occur in the Armory instead of in the Art Hall, as originally intended. No definite program for the entertainment of the guests has been announced, but it is certain that something of a surprise will be sprung by the efficient committee having the reception in charge. Every member of both associations should make it a point to be present, the men to assist in the entertainment, the women to enjoy themselves watching the men try to carry three glasses of ice without spilling their clothes. The doings will begin promptly at half past eight, and there will be no pause in the sport until late in the evening, when the only genuine Santa Clause has distributed all his presents.

Reception to Freshman Girls.
The reception to the freshman girls to be given by the members of the three upper classes, which was to have been given in the Art Hall, has been changed to the Armory, but will begin at the same time. Each upper class girl is supposed to see to it that a freshman gets to the reception and has a good time. With this plan, the reception should be an unqualified success.

BOARD OF REGENTS

HOLD LAST MEETING OF THE YEAR.

Many Important Subjects Taken Up—
Status of Fraternities in Nebraska Discussed.

The board of regents held the last meeting of the year yesterday in Chancellor Andrews' office. All the members of the board were present, including Regents Rich and Teeters, who attended their last meeting, as their terms end December 31. This meeting of the board was to have taken place last Tuesday, but had to be postponed.

Many matters of prime importance were taken up by the board, and a strenuous effort was made to secure a report of the meeting for this issue of the "Nebraskan." The meeting was prolonged until after six o'clock, however, and although Secretary Dales immediately set to work with a stenographer, he announced that he could not give us a report before eleven o'clock, which was two hours after the last copy must be in for the "Nebraskan." He refused to even give a brief synopsis of the decisions of the board on two important points.

It is understood that among the matters taken up was the question of the status of fraternities at Nebraska. At the last meeting of the board this matter was discussed and the Chancellor was ordered to appoint a committee to devise some way of treating with the fraternity evils. A prominent member of the faculty told a "Nebraskan" reporter the other day that the evils had progressed too far, however, and that the regents were determined to banish all fraternities from the institution. Whether they took the action or decided to delay final decision until the next meeting we could not learn when our forms were made up.

Another matter of some interest which was probably taken up was the question of the supervision of the "Nebraskan." At the meeting of the regents last April a body of resolutions was passed placing the paper under the absolute control of a publication board of faculty members and ignoring the rights of the corporation owning it. The board of directors have decided to suspend publication unless they are given complete control again, and the question was to be finally decided yesterday.

Dramatic Club.

The Dramatic Club held its first meeting since the admission of the new members at the home of Miss Ruth Bailey last evening. A character sketch by Miss Edholm and Mr. Keyser was to have been presented, but owing to the death of the latter's father, had to be postponed. A few impromptu scenes were given, however, and the large number present had a royal good time.
