Professor Bruner lectured at the State Industrial School at Kearney on December 26.

The printing office established at the University of Kansas by the Alumni Association is proving of advantage to all concerned. A number of students who have had experience as printers are given enough work to help materially in meeting the expenses of their university course. Indeed the demand for printers is much greater than the supply, and a standing opportunity awaits the young man or woman who has an ambition to attend the university, and is qualified to assist in the printing office.—The Kansan.

Juniors to Meet.
A meeting of the Junior class has been called for next Tuesday. The principal business to come before the meeting will be the question of joining the senior book, which the class is expected to get out next year, with the annual to be published by the class of '08. The matter has been thoroughly agitated lately and a number of the influential members of the class think the time ripe for joining the two books and doing away with the custom of issuing several class publications which compete with each other. The reports of several committees will be heard and the matter of a class party may be taken up.

The women's section of Organized Agriculture held its meeting at the State Farm Wednesday. Miss Rosa Bouton, head of the Domestic Science department at the State University, spoke in the forenoon on "Some Substitutes for Pie." In the afternoon she gave a lecture on "Chemistry in the Kitchen." Following Miss Bouton there was a lengthy conference led by Miss Annette Shotwell, on "Is the Study of Domestic Science Worth While?" Students of the department participated actively in the discussions that followed. Miss Bouton was again on the program yesterday afternoon.

During the week several old students of Professor Bessey's called upon him. Among these were Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Hays, who used to recite in Botany to the professor twenty-five years ago. Professor Beach of Ames College and Professor Hansen of Brookings College (South Dakota) also were students a little more than twenty years ago. Dr. Webber, of the United States Department of Agriculture, not only was a special student in Botany about eighteen years ago, but he was for a couple of years the assistant in the department of Botany in the University of Nebraska.

Sam Makes Improvements.
Sam Westerfield has just completed a number of improvements in his popular restaurant. An addition to his building has been built on the west side, and the kitchen moved into part of this, the remainder being thrown into the large dining room. The place previously occupied by the kitchen has been divided into two parts, one of which has been added on to the large room formerly devoted to the lunch counter, and the other converted into a small dining room, intended primarily for small dinner parties. These improvements will undoubtedly double the present popularity of the restaurant.
