THE CONFERENCE RULES.

At first glance the rules adopted by the faculty representatives of the universities composing the "Big Nine" appear to sound the finish of football in the West, but there are several satisfactory sides to the result of the meeting. The Wisconsin representatives had been instructed to urge the entire abandonment of the game, especially for a number of years, and there were other universities which had instructed their representatives to support Badger men. That the committee did not adopt this is alone sufficient ground for congratulation, in view of would seem, then, that although the changes are radical, they are not destructive, and the conference universities will play as always. Even though the game had been effectually killed in the conference, still Nebraska would not be bound by this action and might perhaps be able to form a league with other Western universities, but it is certainly much more satisfactory that the game has been left and only a few of the evils been pared away.

dents in after consultation with the editor-in-chief and the managing editors.

ARTICLE V.

Selection of the Board of Managers. Section 1. The business manager shall be chosen from the Sophomore class. The president shall secure the approval of the editor-in-chief before making this appointment.

Sec. 2. The assistant managers shall be selected one each from the Junior and Sophomore classes and the Law College. The presidents shall secure the approval of the editor-in-chief and business manager before making these appointments.

Sec. 3. Business managers thereafter in school shall act as advisory members of the Board of Managers.

ARTICLE VI.

Artists.

The artists shall be selected by the Board of Editors.

ARTICLE VII.

Removal.

The editor-in-chief shall have the sole power of removal.

ARTICLE VIII.

Section 1. The business manager shall keep or cause to be kept a set of books showing all receipts and expenditures to date. Such books shall at all times be open to the inspection of the Faculty Auditing Committee.

Sec. 2. After all bills have been settled the balance shall be divided between the Board of Editors and Managers as compensation for their services. This division of the net profits shall be determined by the editor-in-chief and the business manager, subject to appeal to the Faculty Auditing Committee.

Sec. 3. If the Faculty Auditing Committee sees fit to punish graft and embezzlement by expulsion, it is recommended that such expulsion and the cause thereof be made public.

This plan differs considerably from that adopted by the Seniors. The business manager will now be a Junior

HONEST GOODS AT HONEST PRICES

Is more essential in the jewelry business than almost any other line of trade—the articles are so small that values have to be based wholly on quality. Then, with the actual value established, it requires honorable dealing to transfer the ownership of jewels on a "live and let live" principle.

Our old customers appreciate and understand our careful consideration of these interests and will continue their patronage as long as we want it; but for those who are unacquainted, we wish to say that for twenty-five years OUR STOCK, OUR PRICES, OUR METHODS have stood the test of competition and repeatedly proved that "HONEST GOODS at HONEST PRICES" win many friends. If it comes from HELPOLSHEIMER'S JEWELRY DEPARTMENT IT MUST BE RIGHT.

the enormous power brought to bear on the members through the agency of the public press. The elimination of the training-table and the rule that a man could play only three years are moves in the right direction and should have a good effect on the game. The removal of the paid coach will probably have no effect whatever, as several of the universities already have their coaches in the faculty and the others will immediately follow. The cutting of the admission price to fifty cents is impracticable and cannot be adopted, even for students. It instead of a Senior and the arrangement of the assistants is changed. The Juniors will meet this morning at 11 a. m. in Memorial Hall to consider the report of the committee.

Debating Board Meets.

The University Debating Board met yesterday afternoon to consider some matters relative to the proposed Wisconsin-Nebraska debate. Although nothing definite has as yet been announced as to the proceedings of the meeting, it is quite probable that an announcement will be made within a day or two in regard to the Badger meet.
