GYM EXHIBITION

A LARGE LIST OF EVENTS FOR SATURDAY NIGHT.

Hamburg Drill and Swedish Dances
Main Attractions—Tickets on Sale Now.

Interest in the coming gymnastic contest is increasing, the list of patrons and patronesses is now known and the work is rounding into such shape that the management can guarantee a thoroughly enjoyable evening for all who attend on Saturday, March 31st.

None of the work used in last year's contest will be used except the Hamburg drill, which will be put on by special request. And this beyond a doubt is the most difficult free-hand drill ever invented and will be as interesting to those who see it the second time as it will be for those who see it for the first time. It was originated and used first at Hamburg, Germany, at a large "Turnfest" and Dr. Clapp thinks that it is the most difficult free-hand drill that will ever be invented. The men are working hard and expect to improve on last year's exhibition of the drill if it is possible.

Another feature of the evening will be work done by the gymnastic team which will represent the University at Madison, Wisconsin, on April 21. They will give two figures on the horizontal bars, two on the parallels and two on the flying rings and two out of the three figures will be those used in the intercollegiate contest at Madison. This should be a drawing card, for local people seldom get to see the work exactly as the teams put the men when away from home.

And, again, the ladies will come in for their share of the time, and the Swedish Folk Dances will be one of their stunts. These dances are a revival by the Swedish Folklore Society of dances over a century old. They are now being used generally over the entire continent of Europe, and since their introduction into this country by Mrs. Clapp, have become general here also for gymnasium work, since they are so full of motion. Each dance represents some character and when well executed are very pretty and interesting. They were first taught at the Royal Central Gymnasium Institute at Stockholm, Sweden, in 1898.

The list of patronesses is as follows:
Chancellor and Mrs. Andrews.
Regent and Mrs. C. S. Allen.
Dean and Mrs. H. B. Ward.
Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Mitchell.
Professor and Mrs. C. R. Richards.
Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Miller.

MRS. RAYMOND ENTERTAINS.

A Very Enjoyable Program Was Given.

The Raymond Musical Club was entertained by Mrs. Carrie B. Raymond at her home at 1414 L street last Saturday night, March 24th.

The "melody generators" began to put in an appearance at an early hour and soon almost the entire second year chorus class, numbering now about seventy persons, was on hand, and each individual member striving to do justice to the occasion.

The purpose of the meeting was primarily social. The early part of the evening was spent in social chats, not more than three minutes in length, on topics of the day. This mechanical process was devised and a time schedule prearranged to enable those present to meet and get acquainted with a larger portion of the members than they otherwise might. In this respect it was a success, but it worked many hardships in compelling some to "ring off" at a very interesting stage of the conversation, in order to run on scheduled time.

A "Musical Romance" was successfully rendered and gave opportunity for talent and a wide knowledge of popular songs to make itself evident. The plot of an interesting story was revealed, step by step by asking direct questions. The answer to each question was also the title of a popular song. As soon as a question was asked, a song, whose title was an answer to the question, was played lightly on the piano and the contestants left to give the name of the song.

At a later hour delicious refreshments were dished out. Oh, but they were good! And after singing a few rousing songs and giving a few rounds of no less rousing cheers, a unanimous vote of thanks was given the hostess, Mrs. Raymond, for her hospitable entertainment and the party dispersed.

There are only a few more copies of the Sombrero left; when these are gone you will be unable to get any more. Better see about getting one at once.

BASEBALL PRACTICE.

Captain Merse Has a Likely Bunch of Players Out for Practice.

The baseball men are seen hard at work every day. Since the southern trip has become a sure thing, it leaves but a few days for the team to round into shape. There are several new candidates working out each day. Ex-Captain Bender's place behind the bat is most closely contested for. Persons, Karr, Hyde and Carroll are all out for this place, and from the present indications the man that lands the "N" will have to "travel some." First base, shortstop and Fenlon's place in the field are all to be filled this year. But everything points to these positions being taken care of by a bunch of capable tossers.

As the weather begins to brighten the baseball enthusiasts' blood begins to tingle and nothing but a good baseball game will satisfy them. They want to see the varsity get out the wagon tongue and make connections with the leather-covered sphere for a few safe ones. The enthusiasm that Captain Merse and "Ducky" Holmes are going to stir up among the baseball cranks in the city this spring is not going to be luke warm. The varsity longs for the scalps of the Jayhawkers and Iowans, and as the Nebraska winds begin to blow the cornhusks slowly drop off and the seed corn for the present season is of the best quality. The Cornhuskers will trot on the home field for their first game with the strongest team that ever represented Nebraska.

Dr. McDougal Speaks.

Dr. McDougal, at present professor of botany in the Carnegie Institute, lectured before the Botany Club last evening on "Desert Plants and Vegetation." His address was well attended. At present Dr. McDougal has complete charge of all the botanical research work being carried on by the Carnegie Institute. Dr. Bessey was especially fortunate in securing this date with one so prominent in the botanical world as Dr. McDougal.

TO SELECT TEAM

TEAM TO BE CHOSEN FOR WISCONSIN DEBATE.

Announcement of Members of Debating Team to Be Made This Week
—Difficulty in Naming Judges.

Again the Debating Board is debating. The list of acceptable judges for the Wisconsin-Nebraska debate which it submitted to the Badgers some weeks ago has not yet been returned, although it should have been here, according to the terms of the compact under which the debate is to be held, last Friday. This delay on the part of Wisconsin is annoying to say the least.

The members of the team which will represent Nebraska at Madison on April 20 will, in all probability, be chosen this week, although the exact date of selection has not yet been determined. The team will consist of three regular men, as usual, and an alternate.

All students interested in debating should keep close tab on the bulletin in University Hall where all announcements relative to debating will be posted.

Woman's Building.

The specifications and plans for the Woman's Building to be located at the State Farm has been received by Mr. Chowins. This building is to be partly a dormitory and partly a lecture and laboratory building. The department of Domestic Science is to have its home at the State Farm beginning September first of the present year. The dormitory part is in order that girls coming from out in the state can make their homes at the Farm, and thus be near their recitation rooms.

Professor Rosa Bouton has been very successful in making her department one of the most popular in the University for girls. The interest has spread over the entire state and from now on it is predicted that this will be one of the largest colleges in the University. The only great disadvantage at having this building at the State Farm will be for the Lincoln girls.

Weather Bureau.

The local office of the Weather Bureau has received a complete authors and subject card catalogue of all the publications of the U. S. Weather Bureau except the Monthly Weather Review. This makes much more useful the books in the library here, while it will also be possible to borrow any book from the central office in Washington for temporary use if the reference is not in the local library.
